ACCUSE COL. HERBERT IN SENATE

Fit Only for Prison if Rum Charges Are True, Says Borah

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Immediate removal of John F. J. Herbert of Worcester, Mass., as prohibition administrator for Montana and Idaho was demanded in the Senate today by Senators Borah of Idaho and Wheeler of Montana on the ground of charges placed before them by Department of Justice investigators.

Wheeler accompanied his demand with a declaration that prohibition enforcement had broken down. He blamed the "politicians" and called upon the Law Enforcement Commission to summon members of the Republican national committee before it to determine "how prohibition officers are appointed."

Both Wheeler and Borah said they had been informed that the Department of Justice had investigated Herbert when he was prohibition administrator for Maryland and had reported "malfeasance and corruption."

"If the facts be true as reported to me by a representative of the Department of Justice," said Borah, "this man has no business in Idaho or Montana or anywhere else outside of the penitentiary."

Wheeler said: "Unless the administration takes Herbert out of Montana I will call for an investigation and I will insist that the Department of Justice make public its evidence."

Hebet is a former Worcester newspaper man. Before going to Baltimore as administrator of the dry forces he was attached to the U. S. Veterans Bureau in Boston.

4 Ships Reported in Distress at Sea

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—One British steamer and three Italian steamers were reported in distress in messages received by Lloyds by wireless.

Lloyds today announced that a message was received late last night from the steamer Armadale Castle stating she had picked up messages from the British vessel Everleigh which was badly damaged and out of control 25 miles west of Finisterre.

Meanwhile the Armadale Castle received an S O S from the Italian ships Literno and Camogli in the same part of the western Atlantic.

Lloyds has not received further reports of these ships or of a third Italian vessel, the Seveto, which reported early today that her bottom was broken and that she needed assistance.

Hawks Plans Tour of U. S. in Glider

New York, Jan. 27 (INS)—Frank M. Hawks, air speed demon, will attempt to span the United States next April in a motorless glider, towed by an airplane, it was reported here today.

Hawks, who holds non-stop speed records for crossing the United States in an airplane and for the round trip from coast to coast, has received the backing of a company which will finance the glider trip, it was said.

Springfield Ready for Ice Harvest

Springfield, Jan. 27 (AP)—A somewhat belated ice harvest will begin in this vicinity tomorrow provided weather conditions hold. Large companies hereabouts report ice 11 inches thick.

BRITAIN CALLS A HALT TO SHIP BUILDING

Italy's Demand for Naval Parity With France Is Near Compromise at Parley

London, Jan. 27—As the naval powers moved toward compromise today on two of their most troublesome problems—methods of limiting fleets and Italy's demand for parity with France—Great Britain made a new gesture of faith in the naval conference success.

This gesture was an announcement that construction of England's two newest cruisers has been cancelled.

The British announcement coincided with a meeting of the "big five" in Dowling at., at which further progress was said to have been made toward a compromise on a tonnage plan designed to settle the perennial argument of this technical phase of naval limitation.

Serious consideration was being given by several delegations to a proposal that the Italian parity problem be met by a treaty declaration in which all powers would join.

This would state that the sovereign right of every nation to build an adequate fleet was fully recognized, but that the signatories voluntarily agree not to exceed a certain construction program between now and 1936.

The twin attack on two of the most difficult of the conference problems, coinciding with the British cruiser cancellation announcement, started the second week of the conference in an atmosphere of smiling confidence.

It was emphasized on all hands, however, that neither of the com-

Innocent Woman Is Shot as Bootlegs and Police Fight

Here is an instance of how an innocent woman was shot in the government's attempt to enforce prohibition:

A GUN battle between United States customs inspectors and Mexican liquor smugglers in El Paso, Tex., Sept. 11, 1924, cost the life of an innocent Mexican woman.

This case, listed in the customs bureau in Washington, was investigated for the Washington Herald, in October, 1929, by the San Antonio (Tex.) Light, a Hearst newspaper, through a resident correspondent in El Paso. The correspondent, after checking the records, reported:

"Mrs. C. Andavasa, an innocent Mexican woman, unfortunately was in the line of fire between Mexican liquor smugglers and American customs inspectors and was shot through the hip. Smugglers escaped, but Americans took woman to hospital for treatment."

RADIO IN AUTO MUST TUNE OFF

Radios will not be permitted in automobiles operated in Massachusetts, Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker made this clear today. If the present law governing the matter is not sufficient he says he will promulgate a rule specifically prohibiting radios in motor cars.

"I think the present law stating that nothing shall be permitted in a motor car that interferes with its operation is sufficient to cover radios in automobiles," said Registrar Parker, "as they certainly do interfere with the operation of an automobile. I know because I have ridden in a car with a radio in operation. It is clearly a mental interference and I will not permit them in this State."

Taunton, Jan. 27—Ernest Mercer, 19, of Dighton, woes his life to John Enos' overalls. Mercer was fishing for eels through the ice on the Taunton river today, when the ice gave way.

He was being carried away by the current when his cries brought Enos to the scene.

Enos stripped off his overalls and threw one end to Mercer, who was soon hauled out on firm ice.

Bars Lipstick at Communion Rail

Portland, Me., Jan. 27 (AP)—The practice of women and girls approaching the altar rail to receive communion, with their lips painted red was denounced as "improper and disrespectful" by the Rev. Nicholas Horan, pastor of St. Dominic's Roman Catholic Church, here.

He spoke on the matter at the close of his annual report on the church and parish.

CHARGE MOSES AIDS DYE 'PLOT'

Dismissal by the government of the $5,000,000 Bosch suit brought from Francis P. Garvan of New York today the declaration that prominent Americans, including Sen. George Moses of New Hampshire, Otto Kahn and others, had aided a conspiracy by German dye interests to influence American tariff schedules.

Garvan is president of the Chemical Foundation and a former alien property custodian. With his statement, he made public a deposition, sworn to by him last month, but up until today an undisclosed part of the Bosch case in the federal court here.

The Bosch case was dismissed on Saturday by Atty.-Gen. Mitchell who cleared prominent Boston financial leaders who had been defendants in the suit, in which was charged an attempt to defraud the Government in the wartime disposition of the Bosch Magnetic Company.

Former Cabinet members, chemists and alleged German spies are denounced by Garvan in his statement and the 100-page deposition that he made public along with the statement.

Former Atty.-Gen. Harry Daugherty, former Atty.-Gen. M. E. Lewis of New York and Gaston B. Means, who was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, are among those mentioned.

Garvan asserted that German in-

Ileana's Betrothal to Count Announced

Bucharest, Jan. 27 (INS)—Official announcement was made today of the engagement of Princess Ileana, only daughter of Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania, to Count Alexander Hochberg, second son of Prince Hans Henri XV of Pless.

The betrothal had been rumored for some time. The princess and the count have been friends for years. Some weeks ago Princess Ileana paid a prolonged visit to the castle of Hochberg in Silesia.

Princess Ileana is 21 years old. The count, whose full name is Count Alexandre Frederic Gillaume George Konrad Ernest Maximilien, is three years her senior.

Ousted Chief Calls Whipple and Liggett

Brockton, Jan. 27—With Louis K. Liggett, Sherman L. Whipple and Ralph Hornblower scheduled to testify as character witnesses, the hearing on the petition of former Chief of Police John Armstrong of Plymouth for reinstatement opened before an auditor in court today.

The former chief, who is seeking a writ of mandamus to compel the selectmen to reinstate him, was the first witness, taking the stand in a crowded courtroom.

Under direct examination of Atty. John H. Devine of Boston, Chief Armstrong said the criticism against him was chiefly directed by George J. Anderson, elected to the board of selectmen last March.

Armstrong testified that Anderson was continually finding fault over small and inconsequential matters, giving as an example an incident when one Ketcham, the town barber, was found in possession of an empty gin bottle.

The witness said that bottle had been in the police station, and Anderson was insistent on learning how it got into the possession of Ketcham.

Armstrong said he explained that empty bottles which had contained seized liquor gathered at the station, and were frequently used for target practice in the woods. He said he told Anderson it would be a simple matter for anyone to gain possession of one.

"Do you mean that the bottle was empty when it was produced at the meeting of the board of selectmen?" he was asked. His answer, "Yes," drew laughter from the spectators.

On another occasion, the witness testified, Anderson criticized rules and regulations the chief was drawing up.

10 PLUNGE INTO LIFE NETS AT NEWPORT; 14 CARRIED OUT

Newport, R. I., Jan. 27.—Five girls were injured today when they leaped for their lives into fire nets during a fire that swept a four-story brick building at Washington sq. and Thames st.

Ten girls made the leap and 12 others, with a man and a boy were carried down over ladders from the same third-floor windows where they stood out on the sills, with thick, oily smoke rolling up behind them.

The fire, in the heart of the business district, virtually destroyed the building and for a time threatened a conflagration.

At its height it became necessary, as a precaution, to move the records and hundreds of thousands of dollars out of the Newport National Bank building, adjoining.

The money was transferred in armored trucks under heavy police guard to the Newport Trust Co.

3 SERIOUSLY INJURED.

In addition to the girls rescued from the third-floor windows, nearly two score other workers in the building groped their way through the smoke and escaped from the first and second floors, following an oil heater explosion in the basement and the resulting fire.

Miss Louise DeBlois, Miss Catherine Murphy and Miss Ava Thomas, students of the Newport Business College, located on the third floor, were the most seriously injured in their leap for life.

Instead of landing in the life nets in a sitting position, as instructed by Fire Chief Joseph Lawton, shouting from the street, these girls landed on their feet and their knees lunged up to strike their faces.

These three were sent to Newport Hospital and held for treatment.

Two other girl students turned over in their drop from the window, landing out of position and suffering a severe shaking. They were treated by a physician and sent home.

TWO AVERT PANIC

The other five girls to leap made the jump as instructed and landed in the nets in a sitting position, escaping injury.

Only the frantic and combined efforts of Eliot Wood, principal of the business college, and Mrs. Thomas Hunt, an instructor, prevented the frenzied girls from leaping to the street before firemen arrived and broke out the nets and raised ladders.

They were assisted by Miss Mary Riley, a student, who told them she would be the first to jump and try out the net. She made the leap safely.

The proprietor of the school was cut by glass while being taken down a ladder, and three firemen were subsequently injured while fighting the blaze.

Principal Wood suffered a cut on the head by falling glass but was treated on the scene.

Fireman Arthur Power was struck on the head by a flying beam, and a fellow fire fighter, Charles Eldridge, almost lost his life when he tumbled five stories into 10 feet of water that had gathered in the car elevator shaft and nearly drowned.

Only a further rush of water from the cellar to the street through a grating made Eldridge's rescue possible. The current swept him out of the well against the grating, where firemen pulled him to safety.

Fireman Power and a third fireman suffered only slight injuries.

Every piece of fire apparatus in Newport was called out on a general alarm to give battle to the flames which raced quickly up through the building following the explosion.

MONEY IS MOVED

After the trapped girls had been rescued from the smoke-filled windows, firemen devoted their efforts toward checking spread of

Cold Wave Kills 2

Two persons, one a brakeman on a New York to Boston train, died from the cold in Providence today, as a warm spell was on its way to rout the extreme low temperatures of the week-end.

A thaw may be the Hub's fare tomorrow, according to the local weather man. Snow is in his prediction for tonight and Tuesday but with the mercury climbing he admits this may be rain instead.

Albert H. Brown, 39, New Haven brakeman, collapsed while returning to the train in answer to a whistle signal after he had gone back for protection as the train made an enforced stop in Providence. He died after being carried into the rear car. Cold affected his heart.

Oscar R. Boehne, 66, a gold-refiner, collapsed while riding in his automobile to work and was dead before he could be removed to a hospital. Doctors ascribed his death to the cold, which was 8 below zero in the Providence section during the early morning.

The mercury rose steadily today in Boston, although in the hours before dawn it was colder than at the corresponding hours Sunday. The probable minimum tonight is set at 28.

Fishing vessels reported the severest weather of the winter on their arrival today at the Fish Pier. The trawlers Georgetown terests are today waging the same fight as in pre-war days to throttle the American chemical industry.

Garvan said that during 10 years he had "assembled evidence of the German penetration of American industry involving officers of the Harding regime, and Senator Moses of New Hampshire as allies of the German interests in their attempts to regain control of the American situation."

"Some of you saw the other day," he continued, "that Senator Moses had appointed Otto Kahn as treasurer of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. You did not associate the fact that his friend and partner, is head and front of the American interests which are attempting to destroy our chemical industry."

PAID BY GERMAN FUNDS

Garvan said this alleged attempt was being made through the tariff bill now before the Senate. Kahn did not accept Moses' offer of the treasurership.

Garvan also charged that Mitton E. Lewis, former attorney general of New York, was paid by the government in violation of the law from German funds held by the alien property custodian, this allegedly with consent of the Germans.

It was Lewis who verified the government's complaint in which A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian and former attorney general of the United States, together with prominent bankers, most of them Boston men, were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in the Bosch sale.

Garvan said Lewis now gets $10,000 as special assistant to the attorney general and gets this amount from alien property funds in contravention of the law.

He said that the government had him following an investigation by Gaston B. Means, a former secret service agent, who became a Department of Justice investigator under former Atty.-Gen. Harry M. Daugherty.

The suit was to recover German patents which had been transferred to the Chemical Foundation of which Garvan is president. The transfer was upheld in the courts.

Garvan says he made his own investigation at first only to justify his own conduct but gradually became much interested in the economic problem and grew to feel that he was being prosecuted for his war-time patriotism.

He came to the conclusion that the sale of the Bosch Company by Palmer at a price of $4,150,000 was legitimate, and this, he asserted in his deposition, which became a part of the record in the case. To this assertion he added all the details he had come to believe, as a result of his inquiry.

Lewis has replied to Garvan's charges by saying in connection with the Bosch case, that the whole of Garvan's answers are contained in the deposition he stricken from the records. This request by Lewis has not yet been passed upon by the federal court here.

In connection with Moses' naming of Otto Kahn for the campaign committee's treasurership, Garvan said:

"The endeavor was that Kahn would furnish the money for the election of senators who would vote upon the question of American valuation or foreign valuation in the tariff schedules.

SCOFFS AT "PEACE"

"German propaganda is again seting into the vital problem of the life or death of the second greatest industry of the country today, the chemical industry. Peace? There is no peace.

"The fight goes on for the supremacy in the chemical industry because it is the keystone to the safety of the United States or of any country in the world today.

"Your rules, your statutes, your Bosch case are only appendages. They are only part of a great, great struggle of Germany to recover the position of throttling chemical development and of dominating over the entire world the development of the chemical industry, which is the secret of industrial prosperity, the secret of military prosperity, and the secret of peace and happiness and health of a nation."

PHONE PROBE IS UNDER WAY AT CAPITAL

Is Attacked as Monopoly, and Subsidiaries Are Charged With Raising Rates

Washington, Jan. 27—Investigation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and its subsidiaries, with a view to determining whether it is exercising a monopoly in the telephone communications field, will be started today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representatives of state communications commissions in all sections of the country will be heard Thursday. President Gifford of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will be called before the committee for questioning.

As evidence of the need for sweeping investigation of the telephone communications systems and the various rates throughout the country, Senator Clarence Dill of Washington pointed to the impending increase in telephone rates in New York state by the New York Telephone Co.

The committee operating under a special resolution introduced by Senator James Couzens of Michigan, is investigating general communications conditions in all fields, for the purpose of deciding whether the various communications systems should be placed under the control of a new Federal commission or left under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Thus far the committee has been hearing evidence concerning the alleged monopoly in the radio field of the Radio Corporation of America.

The telephone investigation will open with proving of charges from the Pacific Coast involving alleged telephone monopoly operations in California, Washington, and Oregon.

Legislatures of those three states some months ago forwarded to Congress a request for an investigation of the operation and rates of the A. T. and T. on the Coast, charging the concern has established itself through subsidiary corporations it is impossible for any state government to get data on the parent concern particularly in respect to communications with other states.

City Atty. Charles Smith, of Seattle, will be the first witness, presenting the complaints of that city, and will be followed by Dion Holm of San Francisco.

It was learned Atty. Smith will base his complaints on the inability of the states to handle interstate communications difficulties and lack of any federal agency in control of such matters.

Holm will tell the commission of the alleged monopoly of the A. T. and T. and of its alleged operations through subsidiaries.

The underlying basis of Holm's charges will be that the parent concern buys products from its subsidiaries at exorbitant rates, and then uses these prices as grounds for demanding high service rates from the public.

DRUG-RUNNING BY RUM BOATS IS PROBED

Add Narcotics to Liquor Cargoes, U. S. Agents Are Informed

Fall River, Jan. 27—The most sweeping investigation of rum and drug running ever made locally was under way today by federal authorities in Fall River, New Bedford, Providence and Newport.

Dope running is admitted to be a definite part of most rum-running activities and for more than a week, the investigators have been organizing in preparation for the probe.

The investigation has two objectives:

First: To ascertain the efficiency of the Coast Guard boats and their officers and to determine whether there is any connection between very prosperous rum runners and coast guardsmen.

Second: To ascertain the extent of the dope running business that is admitted to be a definite part of the business of several rum runners.

Government agents, although refusing to divulge their work admit that a large quantity of drugs is being brought into New England ports by rum runners.

Amazing revelations have been made to the federal agents by men formerly engaged in the illicit rum industry. Several of these men have explained how they were driven out of the business by a lawless group of gunmen.

The gunmen, according to the former rum runners, not only ran rum into New England ports but did so much hi-jacking on the high seas that the business became too hazardous for men who were concerned merely in the running of rum. The gunmen, appreciating the vast profits to be made in the dope running business added that to their line.

Agents are combing the New Bedford and Narragansett Bay districts for information.

It is learned that several men who were formerly connected with the coast guard service are now engaged in the rum running business. The probers are confident that they will determine whether these men are being favored by any of the boats that do guard duty.

promise formulas has yet been accepted and that much remained to be done even if these two obstacles should be overcome.

The tonnage measurement plan, which was discussed for more than two hours at the Downing st. session, had been under study even before the conference began, but the proposal to straighten out the Franco-Italian question apparently developed overnight. This latter idea has not yet been reduced to writing, and it is not known whether it will be fully acceptable to Mussolini's government, although first reactions appeared hopeful.

As it stood in tentative f[illegible], the suggestion was that the five chief naval powers join in a declaration, perhaps in the preamble of a limitation treaty, saying that the sovereign privilege of possessing a navy of any size could not be abridged except voluntarily.

This, in effect, would do away with fixed ratio understanding such as was laid down in the Washington treaty.

A spokesman for the American delegation said today there has been no discussion whether the United States would be willing to join such a pact in a consultative capacity.

TONNAGE IS BIG ITEM.

Today's Downing st. meeting of the big five was the longest yet held. The delegation heads discussed a detailed proposal for the conference program with the tonnage measurement question uppermost.

The compromise plan would lay down limitations for each specific class of warship, but would defer to French views by allowing a certain percentage of total tonnage to be diverted from one class to another.

Reports that the United States had joined forces with Japan in her demand for more cruisers were denied at the American delegation headquarters.

It is understood thus far no formal discussions on this subject have been held, but the British and Japanese delegations made an appointment to meet each other this afternoon. The British also had an appointment during the day for a joint meeting with the French and Italians.

Parley Bows to France on Subs; Japs Want Liner Limit

London, Jan. 27 (INS)—Delegates to the five power conference have definitely decided to abandon all discussions aimed at abolition of the submarine, it was stated by the Evening News today.

This decision is regarded as an important concession to France and Italy, both of which believe submarines are indispensable to their defenses.

The Evening News also declares Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, threw a bombshell into the meeting of the delegates at 10 Downing st. today by asking that discussion of large merchant ships be included in the agenda.

He requested that a clause be formulated forbidding building of merchant ships capable of carrying anything larger than six-inch guns in wartime.

the fire to other buildings in the downtown district.

The most seriously threatened was the ancient wooden building housing the Newport National Bank, adjoining. Firemen deployed on the roof of this building, and while the money was being moved out maintained an effective water curtain on the fire side.

William Stevens, cashier of the national bank, had charge of removal and every record book was moved out before the fire next door was under control.

HISTORIC SHRINES MENACED

Next to the national bank structure is the partly completed building that will house the Savings Bank of Newport. This, too, was thoroughly doused with water to prevent igniting of shavings and other inflammables by flying sparks.

Many other buildings, several of them historical structures, were in danger during the height of the fire. They included the old Town House in the square, one of the oldest buildings in America; the ancient and historic State House and the old Newport House, in which are the $50,000 painting of Gen. Washington by Stuart and other valuable art works.

LOSS PUT AT $100,000

The blazing building, owned by the estate of Frederick W. Coggeshall, was almost a total loss within one hour after the explosion occurred.

The first floor was occupied by the wholesale candy establishment of A. B. Cancanbas. On the second floor was the ideal Finance Co. The fourth floor was used for storage.

It is estimated conservatively by Fire Chief Lawton that the loss will approximate $100,000.

GIRLS STORY OF PERIL

"We were all at class," stated Miss Riley after her escape, "when we heard a terrific explosion.

"Almost instantly smoke began to fill the room. Mr. Wood, the principal, cautioned us to be calm. Then he went to the door, opened it and, seeing smoke rolling through the corridors in dense clouds, closed it again.

"Then he opened windows looking out on Washington sq. and told us to gather near the windows for fresh air. He warned us not to drop as we were up three stories."

Mrs. Hunt, an instructor, and Miss Alice Harrington assisted Mr. Wood in calming us.

"In a minute it seemed the whole building was a mass of flames. The room was awfully hot and the smoke was so thick three or four girls climbed out on the window sills for air, being held by the rest."

MARVELS AT ESCAPE.

Estelle Murphy, also a member of the class, from bed at the Newport hospital, said she marveled at being alive.

"Now it is over, I wonder how any of us were saved," she declared. "It was an awful experience, for not only was the smoke terrible, but we could hear the flames roaring through the whole building."

Miss Murphy, in leaping into the net, doubled up and her knees struck her face, rendering her unconscious. She suffered severe abrasions and a badly sprained back.

The last person to leave the floor was Principal Wood, who consented to leave only when he had seen that every pupil and instructor had preceded him to safety. He was assisted to the ground by firemen.

A check of those present in the business college today showed that in addition to the three girls in the hospital, those who escaped included Miss Harrington, an instructor; Lettie Church, Valery Loedouif, Irene Segerson, Estelle Murphy, Marion Boylan, Bernice Cross, Mary Shea, Thomas Hedley, Joseph Radford, Anna Shea, Helen McAlpin, Joseph Sullivan, Mary Byrnes and Stanley West.

Armstrong said Anderson asked how much time he allowed his officers for lunch, and when told 15 minutes, asked: "You think that's long enough?"

The witness said he replied: "Well, if I give them 15 minutes they probably will take half an hour, and if I give them half an hour they probably will take three-quarters of an hour."

"You know your men pretty well, don't you?" he quoted Anderson as asking. "I replied that I did."

The witness testified that at a later meeting of the selectmen he was reprimanded for not making a complaint about an officer named Winter.

"I was accused of 'passing the buck' by Mr. Anderson," he said. The witness denied "passing the buck," and declared he was merely following the order of the board of selectmen.

At the meeting which resulted in his discharge, Armstrong said that after Chairman Eastwood had moved to adjourn, Anderson pulled a paper from his pocket and circulated it among the members. After it had been read Anderson said: "I put that in the form of a motion."

The witness said the selectmen took a vote on the matter, and it developed it was a matter to discharge the chief. The motion was carried by three to two. Armstrong said he was reinstated five weeks later, with back pay.

Harrigan made a general denial of the charge that, instead of patrolling his beat on Broadway he was at Beachmont in an automobile with another policeman. He said he was on his beat on the night in question.

Oklahoma City, Jan. 27 (AP)—Circumstances surrounding the death of the government's principal witness against 102 officials and residents of Pottawatomie County, on the eve of their trial on charges of participating in a gigantic conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, led today to initiation of an investigation by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney.

G. O. P. MAY DEFAULT TO DEMOCRAT IN COOLIDGE'S DISTRICT

FEEL CUT IN CONGRESS PRIMARY

Special Election Nominees Both Wet; Griggs, Dry, Will Vote for Repeal

Springfield, Jan. 27—"Dry" Republicans of the Second Massachusetts Congressional District probably will take little or no part in tomorrow's primary, called to nominate a successor to the late Congressman W. Kirk Kaynor.

These Dry Republicans of the Congressional District in which former President Coolidge makes his home feel that they have been "betrayed," in that neither of the Republican candidates is 100 per cent in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

The Republican aspirants are:

Frederick D. Griggs, 39, of Springfield; former member of the Legislature; president and manager of Approved Wayside Stations, Inc.

Frank C. Hinckley, 51, of West Springfield; State inspector of engineers, firemen and steam plants.

Griggs, when it was too late for other entries in the race, announced that while personally a dry he would vote to repeal the prohibition amendment and to "modify" the Volstead Act.

OUT-AND-OUT WET

Inspector Hinckley is anti-Volstead and anti-prohibition, without "ifs, ands, or buts." A close friend of Chairman Frank Goodwin of the Boston finance commission—they worked together to organize the State employes—Hinckley is the Republican preference of organized labor.

"On the Republican side, at least, the vote tomorrow is not likely to be at all impressive. The drys are sore nd sulky. Their present disposition is to make a present to the Democrats of the 13 months that are left of Kaynor's term nd stage a real battle in the "regular" primary next Autumn.

The special election is set for February 11, nd on that dy these Republican drys—if only they will make use of "stickers"—will have a candidate all their own in the person of former Mayor William H. Fyfe of Northampton.

Felker, a politician of 20 years' experience, offers himself as a sticker candidate at the election with a platform which may be summarized as: "Rally Round the Constitution! Stand by Hoover and the noble experiment." "Support Governor Allen!"

Former Representative Griggs, whose shifting on the subject of prohibition has brought about such a political mess as has not been known before in this part of the State, justifies his position by pointing to the fact that in the referendum of 1928 the people of the Second district declared themselves as follows:

For Repeal	55,000
Against Repeal	36,000
Blanks	18,000

Pointing out that the Repeal vote was 700 more than "blanks" and "No" votes combined, Griggs holds himself in honor bound to represent what he says is the prevailing opinion of the district.

His attitude appears to be thoroughly satisfactory to neither group. The wets recall that in the State Legislature he voted unfailingly with the prohibitionists. The drys, as has been said, resent the fact that he did not make his position clear—if it is yet really clear—until it was too late for a new man to enter the race except on "stickers."

NEVER DEMOCRATIC

The district is that which was represented for so many years by the present United States Senator Gillett. The Democrats have threatened it occasionally but they never have taken it. The vote in 1928 was: Kaynor, Rep., 52,344; O'Connor, Dem., 43,856; Republican plurality, 8,488.

As to the three Democrats who seek tomorrow's nomination, none of them makes any secret whatever of his thoroughgoing opposition to prohibition. They are:

William J. Granfield, 40, a Springfield attorney whose home is in Longmeadow.

James H. Mulcare, 46, Springfield attorney.

Recognizing each of these Democrats as a friend of the wage-earner, the Massachusetts State branch of the A. F. of L. has refrained from endorsing any one of them, on the other hand, it declares its opposition to Griggs because of his record on Beacon Hill.

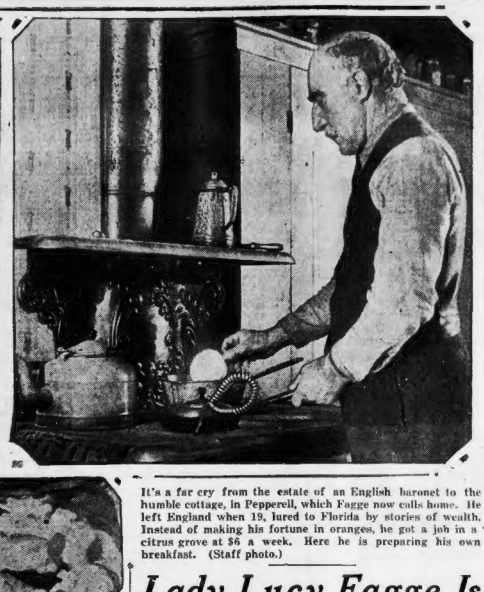
Saved From Death by Carbon Monoxide

Gaspon Signorini, 21, Mill st., Dorchester, was saved from death by carbon monoxide poisoning today through the timely arrival of Michael A. Sarni, plant foreman of the Freeport Marble Tile Company, Dorchester.

Signorini, employed by the same firm, was loading a truck in a closed building at 264 Adams st. The motor was left running in the enclosure and in a few minutes Signorini collapsed.

He was discovered by Sarni, who carried him to the open where he revived. Removed to the City hospital he was treated for carbon monoxide poisoning and held for treatment.

English Baronet Sticks to Job as Chore Man



Sir John Harry Lee Fagge, heir to the title of an old Kentish family in England, is just plain John Fagge where he earns his living by doing chores around town. This picture gives one an idea how a baronet shovels snow.

It's a far cry from the estate of an English baronet to the humble cottage, in Pepperell, which Fagge now calls home. He left England when 19, lured to Florida by stories of wealth. Instead of making his fortune in oranges, he got a job in a citrus grove at $6 a week. Here he is preparing his own breakfast. (Staff photo.)

Movies Balk Panic Aboard Sinking Ship

Buenos Aires, Jan. 27 (AP)— Calmness of a Spaniard with a small motion picture camera probably kept a budding panic aboard the sinking German steamer Monte Cervantes from developing.

The ship's 1100 passengers were near-maddened within a few minutes after it had run onto rock in the Beagle channel. Clouds of smoke arose from the engine room where the oil burners were overheated. The state of the frightened tourists threatened to make futile every attempt to save their lives.

The Spaniard, Beido Barco, calmly set up a portable motion camera and began filming the scene. Almost in an instant fear was changed to good humor and loading of the ship's boats proceeded.

Capt. Theodore Dreyer, who later went down with his ship, ordered the boats lowered as the passengers in great confusion sought lifepreservers.

Lady Lucy Fagge Is Glad She's Yankee

Lady Lucy Harriet Fagge, who gladly does the housework in the modest flat where she lives with her grandmother at 38 Haverhill st., Charlestown, is an American and proud of it, she says, despite the startling news that her father, John Harry Lee Fagge of Pepperell, had succeeded to the title of Baronet of Sturdy, Kent, Eng.

The 16-year-old Charlestown girl and her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Taylor, were busy with the week-end cleaning when word came that the girl's father had been informed he was now the 10th Baronet of Sturdy.

It was a real surprise to the young girl, who never had any inkling that her lathery family in England was connected in any way with the nobility. She cannot yet quite comprehend what it is going to mean to her as a daughter of an English baronet.

She motored to Pepperell to see her father for the first time as a baronet and the succession of interviews with newspaper men and poses for photographers has left her in somewhat of a daze.

The little girl and her grandmother were accompanied by the girl's aunt, Mrs. Adeline Nelson of Union st., Somerville, when they visited the new baronet in Pepperell.

Lady Lucy, for she will rate that title, was named after a sister of her father, Lucy Harriet Gertrude Fagge, who remained in Sturdy. She completed the grammar school course at the Bunker Hill school in Charlestown a year ago and then worked a short time at the Gillette razor factory in South Boston.

Just as her father was doing chores around the farms in Pepperell, her task was to help out in odd jobs about the house and ideas of a baronetcy in the family were far from her mind.

Lucy is 16 years of age, but looks older. She is a brunette and has brown flashing eyes. She has been living in Charlestown for about five years, coming there from North Brookfield where her grandmother was living at the time that Lucy's own mother died in 1917.

Lucy was the only child of the Baronet and his wife, who was Jennie Taylor of Pepperell. When Mrs. Fagge died the grandmother took charge of the child who was then just four years old.

Mrs. Taylor, her grandmother, stated that when her daughter was married in 1912 to Harry Fagge, the choreman said cryptically: "Some day you may be Lady Fagge."

"I wasn't so very surprised when I read the story in the papers," Mrs. Taylor said. "I knew that Harry received letters from England and I had always suspected that he had some fine connections."

"All this excitement about my little puzzles me," Sir John said. "People seem to think that it's strange that I should be titled. They don't understand about English younger sons. They're less than the dust, and amount to about as much.

5 Thugs Beat Man in Tex Guinan Cabaret

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—Texas Guinan's Green Mill cabaret had a knock-down and drag-out fight added unexpectedly to the events and Leonard Schwartz, 23, was seriously hurt.

Schwartz was dragged from the table he shared with friends, clubbed with fists, beaten with guns and kicked. Brain concussion and numerous lesser injuries were inflicted.

Diners say five men participated in the attack. Leonard Leon, manager and part owner of the cabaret, was pointed out as one of those involved. He was arrested on a charge of assault and disorderly conduct.

PLANE AND DOG TEAMS RENEW EIELSON HUNT

Act on Faint Hope of Rescue for Fliers Lost in Arctic

Seattle, Jan. 27 (AP)—Half the mystery of the disappearance Nov. 9 of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland was solved today with discovery of their wrecked plane in an icy lagoon 90 miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia.

The bodies of the two aviators were not found in the wreckage and the fact rekindled a bare hope that they may still be alive.

The note of optimism was extremely faint, however, as experienced fliers said they believed the plane struck with such force as to kill the aviators and throw them from the ship. It was pointed out that snow might have concealed the bodies from Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillan, who found the wreck Saturday.

Crosson and Gillam took off again later from the fur-trading ship Nanuk, icebound at North Cape, for the scene of the wreck. Eielson and Borland were attempting a flight from Alaska to the Nanuk when they crashed. They had removed one load of passengers and furs and were returning for a second.

With Crosson and Gillam were a representative of the Russian Trading Company and a sailor from the Nanuk, owned by the Swenson Trading Company. Dog teams preceded the plane and will join in a search for the missing fliers.

Crosson, first to sight the Eielson plane, signalled to Gillam and the two fliers brought their machines down near the wreck.

The condition of the plane, Crosson said, indicated that both its occupants were killed in the landing, but he and Gillam were unable in the short time available to find any trace of the bodies.

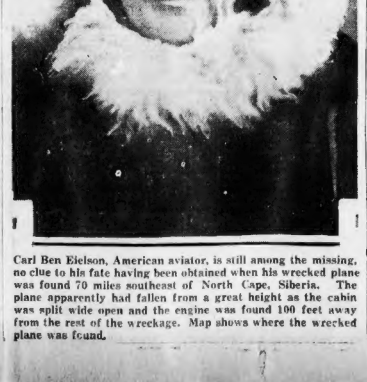
One wing of the Eielson-Borland plane was crumpled in landing, while the motor was torn out of the craft and was found 100 feet from the fuselage. The tail was broken.

Those who were en route to the wreck were to clear away the snow and make a thorough search for the bodies of the missing men. Because of slowness of communications at this season of the year in the north, it was not expected that the men engaged in the search would be able to report their progress for some time.

Women to Fish Free

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27—Women may fish in New York State without licenses, but the law requires men to have them.

Fate Still Mystery



Carl Ben Eielson, American aviator, is still among the missing, no clue to his fate having been obtained when his wrecked plane was found 70 miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia. The plane apparently had fallen from a great height as the cabin was split wide open and the engine was found 100 feet away from the rest of the wreckage. Map shows where the wrecked plane was found.

CHICAGO OUT OF SCHOOL COAL

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—Dwindling coal bins in the public schools kindled interest anew today in Chicago's empty money bags.

As some city officials frowned on the rescue pool of $20,000,000 pledged to Silas H. Strawn, head of the citizens' committee, H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, prepared to ask the board's coal dealers to continue deliveries of coal, despite the lack of cash and a present unpaid coal bill of $480,000.

Wednesday Strawn will confer with the city council finance committee relative to setting in motion the financial pool pledged in aid of the city governments. Originally set at $50,000,000, the pool has $20,000,000 in pledges from business interests to be used in loans on tax anticipation warrants.

No money will be loaned any of the governments Strawn asserted, unless co-operation is pledged to reduce operating expenses to a minimum, and the committee has reserved the right to indicate for what purpose the money shall be spent.

While Mayor William Hale Thompson still was at loggerheads with the Strawn plan of relief, Chairman John S. Clark of the council finance committee said he believed the council would pledge the requested co-operation.

"There is no alternative," he declared. "The banks will loan no money and the Strawn committee holds the only purse strings available.

30 COWS LOST IN BARN FIRE

Westford, Jan. 27.—Thirty cows, two horses and two dogs were burned to death and 20 tons of hay, an auto truck and farming equipment were lost in a fire that swept a large barn of Walter Blanchard.

The barking of one of the dogs gave the alarm and awakened the farmer, but by the time he reached the barn, the upper part of the structure was enveloped in flames and he could not open the door.

Rushing back into the house, Blanchard called the Westford fire department, but although the firemen made a fast run to the scene, they were handicapped by lack of water.

The loss is estimated at $3000, partly covered by insurance.

Theodore Roosevelt was a guest in the home of Mr. Wilcox at the time President McKinley was assassinated while attending the Pan-American Exposition in September, 1901. President Grover Cleveland and William Howard Taft also were his friends.

ADMITS HE BEAT UP NEWPORT DOCTOR

Tells of Row in Physician's Home That Involved a Providence Model

Newport, Jan. 27—Eugene Spinney of this city, in local court today, admitted he beat up Dr. Maurice J. Butler at the latter's home on the morning of December 16.

Spinney, on the witness stand, said Butler struck him first and admitted that he "put everything I had" into the beating he administered to the physician.

It occurred, he said, after he had found Dr. Butler partly undressed in a room where Miss Bessie McNally, Providence model, was ill and lying on a bed.

Dr. Butler charged that early in the morning of December 16, Spinney, Alderman James P. Cozzens, Harold Sheffers, Miss McNally and Mrs. Frances Learned called at his home and attacked him without cause.

CHARGES CONSPIRACY

He brought three charges of conspiracy to assault against Cozzens, Spinney and Sheffers, and Spinney and Cozzens were also charged with assault.

The courtroom was crowded when Spinney made the admission that he was the one who beat the physician.

He said the party went to the Butler house about midnight, and that the doctor came in an hour later. They danced to the radio, the witness said, and then played cards.

Miss McNally, he said, was ill and lying across the bed in the doctor's bedroom.

"Did the doctor leave the room?" he was asked.

"Several times," the witness replied. "Mrs. Learned would go after him and bring him back."

DOCTOR HIT HIM.

Spinney said he eventually left the card table and stepped into the hall, where he found Mrs. Learned trying the bedroom door. She, witness said the door would not open, and on trying it he decided it was wedged with a chair. He said he flung his weight against the door and it flew open. He went in and at first did not see anyone.

"Then the doctor came up behind me," he testified, "and hit me over the ear, knocking me across the room."

"What did you do?"

"I got up my feet and slugged him what he wanted to do to me." He said he let Butler several times in the face, but denied using brass knuckles.

HE HAD ENOUGH

The witness said there was no referee in the fight. Later they went to the doctor's office downstairs and bathed his face. Spinney said Butler refused to call the police, but the witness said to him: "If you call the police, what I gave you for upstairs will be nothing to what I'll give you down here." He said the doctor decided not to call the police.

Asked if he used much force in his blows during the brawl, Spinney said: "I gave everything I had."

He testified that as the party left the house the doctor said:

"I think everything will be all right."

The Mackay trophy was presented to the Aero Club of America by Clarence H. Mackay in 1912, to be competed for by officers of the army.

The three flights were:

February 27, with Lieut. Harry Johnson as pilot, Stevens reached an altitude of 35,611 feet, a record at that time for a biplane.

GRAND JURY PROBES POLICE KILLING

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Legal machinery of the State of Florida was being set in motion today against three Connecticut convicts held in connection with the slaying of a Jacksonville detective and the wounding of another.

The Duval County Grand Jury, of which Gilchrist B. Stockton, recently nominated as U. S. minister to Austria, is foreman, has been called to meet Wednesday to make its investigation of the killing.

The three convicts, are Roland Lakins, Watson Moulthrope and Lee Landry, accused of killing Detective W. D. Smith and wounding Detective Willie Jones in a gun battle here January 17.

Moulthrope momentarily broke the silence he has maintained since being brought here from Pensacola, where he was captured with Lakins.

"If I tells you what happened that night of the murder, I might as well tell you to turn on the juice," Police Inspector E. L. Acosta quoted him as saying. The electric chair is used in Florida for execution.

Moulthrope had just been held as a material witness. Police say Moulthrope traded two diamond rings stolen here to Hunt for a pistol.

MITCHELL ASKS DRY BUREAU TRANSFER

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Atty-Gen. Mitchell today urged the House expenditures committee to expedite action on legislation to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

Mitchell said he was in accord with the recommendation of Secretary Mellon.

Attorneys of the Treasury Department connected with the prohibition unit would be transferred to the Justice Department along with the agents in order to carry on prosecutions, Mitchell said.

He opposed putting prohibition unit attorneys under the civil service, and said they would be absorbed in the office of the Justice Department on an equal basis with those already in service.

Representative Schafer (R), Wisconsin, a wet, remarked that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney-general, had written that one reason for failure of the enforcement of the dry law was the "spoils system" used in appointing district attorneys.

Representative Cochran (D.), Missouri, asked Mitchell to give him assurance that dry agents would not use federal court subpoenas on large industrial concerns to obtain information. He charged that dry agents had summoned oil fields of the American Can Company and the Corn Products Company from St. Louis to Springfield, Ill., with federal court subpoenas.

"The Department of Justice stands for law enforcement," Mitchell said in reply.

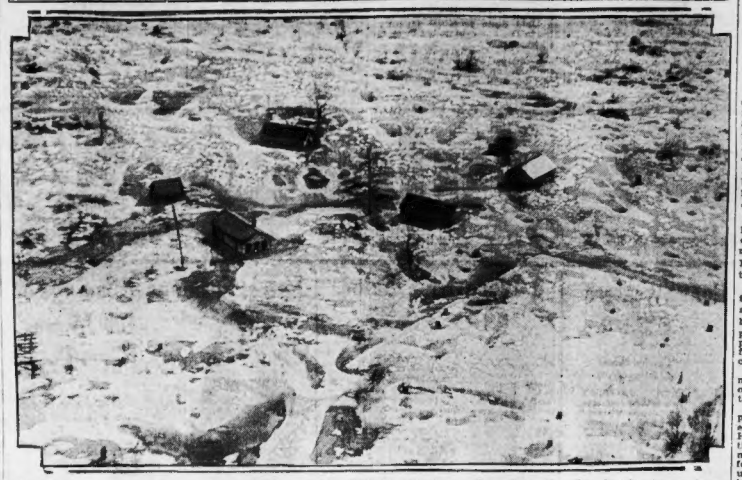
In answer to questions by Schafer, the attorney-general said he believed the proposed bill would give the Justice Department adequate authority to investigate the diversion of industrial alcohol under Treasury Department permits for illegal purposes.

Blast Hurls Cobbles About Like Pebbles

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—An 18-inch steam main burst in Cliff st., Lower Manhattan, today, tearing a hole 10 feet in diameter in the street and tossing cobblestones about like pebbles.

A column of steam shot several hundred feet into the air and windows in nearby buildings were broken. A policeman 50 feet away was thrown to the ground and he and two other policemen were showered with dirt. Police reserves, an emergency squad and an ambulance were summoned, but no one was injured.

Where Desolate Ice Fields Cover the Sunny South



The Big Lake area of Arkansas was turned into a vast ice field, 20 miles long and 8 miles wide, when freezing temperature followed the recent flood. Two hundred and fifty families were trapped in this area. This picture was taken from a plane chartered by the Associated Press, and shows a section of the area. From the plane food was dropped to suffering families.

URGE FLOUNDER FISHING BILL

Provincetown, Jan. 27—The fishing industry, which has been the means of livelihood on the Cape for a century, faces a crisis due to the breakdown of flounder fishing in Cape Cod Bay, according to Provincetown fishermen who are waging a vigorous campaign to obtain restrictive legislation at this session of the Legislature.

A bill calling for a closed season on flounder dragging in these waters will come up for hearing Wednesday before the House ways and means committee under the sponsorship of Representative Perry. The bill would prohibit trawling for flounders between April 3 and Sept. 30.

Flounder catches have shown a steady decline in recent years.

New Compound Is Real 'Lightning Rod'

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Discovery of a new material named Thyrite, which offers better protection from lightning, was announced to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers today by Karl B. McEachron of the General Electric Company.

Thyrite is a compound, in appearance a cross between black slate and porcelain. Its name, of Greek derivation, means gate, and for electrical current it is more literally a gate in more senses than one.

For the ordinary currents used in the industrial and household worlds, thyrite is a good insulator, a resistance that keeps the current from jumping out of bonds, a closed gate. But when electricity becomes too ardent, thyrite "gives it the gate." If a tremendous overcharge comes along the wire, such as a stroke of lightning, thyrite changes from insulator into a good conductor, offering a ready and harmless pathway for escape of the overcharge.

RAIDERS' SHOTS RIDDLE BODY

Texarkana, Ark., Jan. 27—Oscar Call, 26, of Garland City, was fatally shot during a raid on a large whiskey still about 15 miles south of Lewisville, an died later at the hospital.

Call, who was found in a dying condition in a house near the still several hours after the raid, was said by Sheriff R. H. Duty of Lafayette county to have been shot when he fled from the still with two other men under a volley from the guns of the raiders.

SHOUSE CHARGE BRINGS WHITE HOUSE DENIAL

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—A sternly worded denial came quickly from the White House after Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, had charged President Hoover with compiling information on government employes for the purpose of bringing patronage influence to bear against recalcitrant members of Congress.

Such phrases as "Democratic propaganda bureau" and "not an item of truth nor basis of fact" were mingled in the reply of the White House, issued through Walter Newton, one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries.

The Democratic statement said that Mr. Hoover had sent cards to all departments "to be filled out by every employe giving a full picture of the history of his employment." This, he said, was "difficult to explain on any non-political hypothesis."

Newton replied that neither he nor the President has "ever heard of the matter until it appeared in the press."

A card index of presidential appointees and other non-civil service employes is kept at the White House as a matter of office routine, he said, and some eight months ago cards were sent out for the purpose of bringing this list up to date. Three hundred cards have been catalogued since that time, he added, and no civil service employe was included."

Shouse's statement suggested that members of Congress saw in the new system which he charged to the President a purpose of "visiting presidential displeasure" upon appointees "for the sins of their sponsors, such as voting independ-suddenly" of the chief executive's desires."

Niece of Wales Wants an Elephant

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—Before he departed on his trip to Africa in search of big game, the Prince of Wales presented his niece, Princess Elizabeth, with a cairn terrier.

The puppy pleased the four-year-old royal lady, but when she learned her uncle was departing in hopes of finding some elephants she tried to persuade him to bring one back for her.

The prince compromised by promising her a pair of tusks from the first elephant he shoots.

Two New Cases of Bubonic Plague

Santa Fe, Argentina, Jan. 27 (AP)—Two new cases of bubonic plague were sent to the hospital here Sunday, giving rise to fear that an epidemic of the dread disease may impend.

WEST NEWTON JUNIORS ENTERTAIN ELDERS

FEBRUARY 14 is a red-letter day for the West Newton Junior Woman's Club, and for the success of the program on this occasion, the 20 members are working devotedly and unthringly.

On that day the young club women, the leaders of the organized womanhood of tomorrow, entertain their mothers and the senior members of the West Newton Woman's Educational Club with a specially arranged program, including a discussion of the "Modern Girl," by her exponent, Miss Margaret Slattery.

Five years ago a group of seven young girls banded together under the banner of philanthropy and service and progress. They are only high school girls. But the spirit of clubdom has overtaken them and they are following in the wise and judicial footsteps of their elders in their contributions to community service.

Constance Dort is president of these juniors; Barbara Lester, secretary, and Mary Alice Eaton, treasurer. All are high school seniors. The rest of the membership is practically the same, save for a few who have gone off to college.

Sixteen is the first age limit, but on the other end the age is open.

ALL BIG SISTERS

If ever the "Big Sister" idea was truly meant it is with these young girls, who told me of their earnest desire to "Big Sister" a youngster, which mission they intend assuming just as soon as the social welfare organization of their town recommends the individual.

"We want to care for her. Buy her shoes, read to her," the three officers of the club informed me.

Reading to children is now part of the juniors' ritual. They manage to have some members visit the Newton Hospital throughout the month, reading to the little ones and bringing them a bit of sunshine and sisterly enthusiasm.

This is the group which at Christmas time sold 121 boxes of Yuletide greetings, gathering for themselves $121, which they divided $70 to $41 with the parent organization. A truly marvelous feat, making more significant the seriousness with which these West Newton junior clubwomen take on their responsibilities.

Says Miss Dort:

FOLLOWS LEAD

"Our club aims to follow in leadership the senior club. We welcome this opportunity to train and prepare ourselves for the duties and responsibilities which confront the clubwoman of tomorrow and which we think we can successfully cope with after we have served apprenticeship in the junior club.

"We club girls believe in junior club membership. We urge all young women, high school girls, to start them and affiliate themselves with senior woman's clubs. It does so broaden your outlook on so many things and it does so give you a chance to manifest whatever executive ability a girl has.

"And it could so easily help the girl who plans to go to college. It does away with some of that shyness and it makes you think clearly and straightforwardly. It sure does tell you how much leadership you actually have when you have to get up before a group of girls and lead them in plans and programs."

The West Newton juniors divide themselves into three groups, each group having as its special mission the planning of the meetings and programs. The fourth group is comprised of the officers, who make the plans and preparations for the annual meeting, which comes in April.

At the February 14 meeting, Miss Dort will be in the chair and preside over the meeting, welcoming the junior and senior membership and then introducing the speaker. A social hour is to follow and all in all the meeting will be quite on a par with any meeting a senior club could sponsor.

To this group, Mrs. Edwin M. Wolley is the adviser. Particularly proud are the juniors of their yearbook, carried out along the same lines and principles as the senior organization.

And so West Newton may be very proud of its young women. And to these young women may the West Newton Women's Educational Club, a club which last week celebrated its golden anniversary, turn their hopes for tomorrow's leaders of vision and sympathy and understanding and ability and talent.

BARNSTABLE WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, vice-chairman of the State Federation legislative department, will discuss the bills recommended by the parent organization for study and consideration at the meeting tonight in the Village Hall.

These bills, now pending in the legislature and upon which the State Federation have taken action, are offered to the individual clubs for thought and study that the women may have a hand in the government of the Commonwealth.

Mrs. Judd, it will be remembered, took the place of her department chairman, Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon and presented the legislative program at the mid-winter meeting of the State Federation at the Hotel Statler last week. Mrs. Judd is the wife of the Southampton State Senator.

The meeting tonight is open to the public and is scheduled for 8 p. m., half hour after the club-women hold their business meeting.

ROCKPORT WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Anna C. Tillinghast, United States Commissioner of Immigration for New England, will tell of "Life Stories from the Immigration Station" at the meeting of the Rockport club tonight at 8 o'clock in Spiran Hall. Mrs. Sumner Y. Wheeler, president, will introduce the speaker, after whose lecture will follow a musical program. Miss Denise Johnson of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra, will play a group of cello solos.

WEST ROXBURY WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, General Federation first vice-president, lectures tomorrow on current events at the clubhouse at 1:45 o'clock. At the business meeting, which is to follow at 2:30, Rep. George A. Gilman will speak for 10 minutes on the bill to regulate overnight camps and tourist lodging houses.

However, the club delegates to the State Federation mid-winter meeting last week voted unanimously for such a bill, and pledged support when it comes up for hearing before the joint committee on legal affairs at the State House.

Mrs. Cornelia Stratton Parker, a pioneer in social work, will also speak, her subject being "Being a Parent." A short musical program will be presented.

Announcement is made of the second lesson in the class on Interior Home Decoration, devoted to "Woodwork and Wall Treatment," which will be given by the University Extension Course, under the direction of the American Home Department, Mrs. Norman H. Hastings, chairman.

LADIES' PHYSIOLOGICAL INSTITUTE

Next Friday is Note Day for club members. A whist is also on the program at 2 p. m., to take place at the home of Mrs. Arthur H. Merritt, 223 Neponset ave., Dorchester. Dr. E. Adrienne Prisey heads this club, one of the oldest in the State.

On the announcement card sent to me by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alma G. Rogers, I find that club members are urged to "begin making articles for our Easter sale." A good thought!!

LADIES' UNITY CLUB

Wednesday will be delivery day for this club, for on Thursday the Rummage Sale, for which members have worked months and months in hopes of a huge contribution to the Home for Aged People, which institution the ladies support and maintain, takes place at Horticultural Hall.

"All kinds of articles are acceptable and the chairman of the tables would be glad to have any assistance,"S Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach, press chairman of the club, writes along with her notice of the sale.

Those who would like to make such contributions may deliver their bundles Wednesday at Horticultural Hall.

In charge of the table will be; Mrs. William D. King, children's goods; Mrs. David C. Theall, miscellaneous; Mrs. Joseph C. Prescott, dresses, all kinds; Mrs. A. H. Kellom, household articles; Mrs. Christine N. Walker, men's wearing apparel; Mrs. Walter Stickney, pictures and books; Mrs. Fannie Smith, bundles; Mrs. E. P. Dodge, shoes; Mrs. Frank D. Hanson, groceries and also the luncheon.

Mrs. Arthur W. Hurlburt, club president; Mrs. Frank Rogers, Mrs. E. L. Kiehre and Mrs. Avard M. Nichols will "be in charge of the floor." Mrs. Edward P. Rich of Brookline, is general chairman with Mrs. Ethel Rogers Limbach, vice-chairman.

The Misses Alice Newell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Newell of Commonwealth ave., a niece of Mrs Johnson. About 40 of this season's buds will attend this affair which is to take place at the hostess' residence. Miss Newell was presented by her parents at a tea earlier in the winter, while Miss Orlandini has not yet made her bow. Her debut is to take the form of a dance, to be given on the seventh of February by her charming and prominent aunt, Mrs. Curtis Guild, also of Marlborough st. This dance is to be held in the Ritz-Carlton—a pleasant variation from the many clubs and other hotels so frequently used for these parties.

A WEEK FROM SATURDAY Miss Frances Meade, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Paulding Meade, reside on Beacon st., is sailing for France with Mrs. William D. Haviland of Limoges, France, whom she is to visit. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Haviland are the mother and father of Miss Meade's fiance, Theodore Haviland, 2d, who also resides in Limoges. Miss Meade's trip will not be a long one as the wedding of the young couple is to take place here in the spring.

TONIGHT, RENNIE SMITH of London, member of Parliament and parliamentary private secretary to the under secretary for foreign affairs, is speaking on, "The Future of India," at a dinner meeting which is taking place at 6 Byron st., Boston. Mrs. Andrew N. Winslow of the Community Church of Boston, and Miss Alice Marion Holmes of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom are serving on the committee on arrangements. Mrs. John F. Moors, Mrs. Martha Helen Elliott, the Misses Sarah and Ellen Dabney Mrs. J. H. Ireland, Mrs. Chester Green and Mrs. Clarence R. Skinner are very much absorbed in this evening's function.

HAROLD S. VANDERBILT returned to Palm Beach in time to do the formal presentation honors, yesterday afternoon, of the memorial fountain given by the winter residents and citizens of Palm Beach in memory of its pioneer founders. Acting Mayor James M. Owens, Jr., received the magnificent gift from Mr. Vanderbilt, who was chairman of the committee.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES J. HUBBARD of Hereford st. announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice F. Hubbard, to Assistant Professor Alexander Hamilton Frey of the Yale Law School. She is a sister of Anna Hubbard and Charles J. Hubbard, Jr., whose wife is the former Miss Anna H. Fuller of Lancaster and Cambridge and a noted tennis player. Professor Frey received his A. B. from Yale in 1919 and his master of arts at Columbia. He held a fellowship in international law at Oxford University from the Carnegie endowment for international peace. Professor Frey was a member of the Yale navy unit during the World War. It is probable that the wedding will take place in February.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, the chairman, will preside and final plans will be discussed. Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, honorary president of the league, will be the principal speaker, her subject being "Pioneer Women." It is particularly fitting that this meeting should take place on the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Massachusetts Suffrage Association, with Julia Ward Howe as its first president. The committee has already nominated five prominent Massachusetts women to be memorialized on the national roll of honor for their services to the progress of women's citizenship, both before and after the ratification of the 19th amendment. Among these women are Julia Ward Howe, Mary Livermore, Lucy Stone, Alice Stone Blackwell and Maud Wood Park. There are many hands with which success or failure, so to speak, is "all in the bidding." For example, the success or failure of east and west to secure a gain with their respective holdings, depends upon the hand being played at clubs.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South and west both pass, while holding strong secondary bids they both fail to hold the high card values required for an original bid. North also passing, east opens the bidding (fourth hand) with one heart. Over this bid south now calls one spade and west two clubs.

North assists the spades and east rebids his heart suit, as does south spades.

Nothing daunted, west bids four clubs as he would have had south passed. North bids four spades which east, his heart suit denied twice, doubles. South passing west holding no support for a positive double, takes-out with five clubs, believing that more is to be gained playing the hand at clubs than against the adverse spade contract doubled.

Salient Points of Play

North opens the five of spades. Although there is some question as to whether or not he should not lay down his ace of diamonds on the chance of catching south with a singleton or void of such suit and able to ruff a second round. Whatever north elects to open, however, makes no difference, as west easily makes his five clubs, losing but the ace of diamonds and the king of clubs.

Contrast of Taffetas and Net Is Smart; Spring Colors Subdued

WHETHER you are an outspoken person or inclined to be reserved you will make no bold statements concerning your personality in the matter of the colors you adopt for spring wear, for spring colors are to be subdued. True there will be bright accents, but the foundation colors must be slightly dulled. This is only natural since our reversal to a quaintly demure fashion age. Aside from this edict, however, fashion leaves the matter of choosing colors to the individual taste. Green is coming in for more prominence than it has in the past. Blue is perenially good. Henna colors are expected to be very good.

Whether the Eton jacket would survive a season that has been so devoted to the bolero and little jacket has been a much pondered question. Spring promises a decided vogue for this becoming style, but there are slight changes that will make it smartly new. It has grown a little longer and is given an up-curve in the front. It hangs loosely from the shoulders in the back, in swagger fashion.

BOTH the popular bolero and the youthful charm of green are exemplified in the costume pictured. It is of "Sea Nymph" green taffetas, and Paris net in self tone. The gown is of taffetas, the belt caught at waistline by a rhinestone buckle; the skirt formed of wide circular inserts; top of decolletage, and edge of skirt finished by the net.

The sleeveless jacket is of net edged by shaped bands of the taffetas, and enhanced by a rose ruche of net and taffetas. A charmingly youthful costume for evening wearing.

Fur trimming on flat crepe is one of the notes observed on clothes that are packed into Southern trunks. A very striking evening ensemble in green flat crepe has a short flaring coat trimmed with beige fox, which is worn over a trailing evening frock of the same material. The fox is used to band the sleeves only, the neckline being finished by a demure turnover collar.

WITH trailing gowns and subtle colors, that find their inspiration in the mauve decade, gilt and baubles don't seem quite appropriate. So the introduction of antique brocades for evening bags comes as a happy suggestion, even though these charming fabrics carry the most modern of cigarette cases and lighters, to say nothing of modernistic compacts and lipsticks. They are very simple in style, usually in envelope and pouch shapes.

WHETHER it is the influence of longer skirts or the general trend in the direction of elegance, hosiery is no longer the simple item it once was. No, one's hose, to keep in step with the times, must wear clocks, all-over patterns, fancy meshes.

And there are such delightful ways to vary the newly important ankle. An open clock of graceful design, an embroidered clock, an open mesh in wave effect, large and small mesh patterns make choosing the hose one of the most piesaurable parts of ensembling a wardrobe.

PARIS DRESS PARADE GETS UNDER WAY

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL
Universal Service Special Cable

Paris, Jan. 27—The dress parade is under way, showing the spring collections.

The Maison Chantel has given the waiting woman's world its first insight into what to wear at the sunny resorts.

Those expecting short skirts will be disappointed as the general trend will be as follows:

For morning wear, the hemline will be very regular and high, but there will be no exaggerated waist line to the full-length coats. Gowns will have cording and piquera.

SOBER COLORS

In afternoon frocks, the hemline starts slightly irregular, and, while it is longer all around, there will be but slight lengthening in the back. The chief materials will be crepe georgette, crepe lolita and flamingo.

For evening wear, the dinner frocks will be of sober colors, while the tubular skirts, reaching six inches below the knee in front, are long behind—some trailing. The decolletage is generally V in the back and front, and the gowns are sleeveless. A good example of the new mode in evening gowns was of black lace with paneaus attached to the skirt, while the bodice was left loose and gathered in at the normal waistline.

There was a stylish afternoon frock of rose printed chiffon, very straight, with two godets let in at the sides. The hat to be worn with this was a large straw of the same color.

The most stunning weekend frock shown was of pea-green, straight lined, with a belt in light grey tweed to match the full-length coat, which can either be worn or not.

HUB FOLK ARRIVE

Among those who have arrived in town to get a glimpse of the coming mode are Miss Isabelle Kemp and Madame Elena Regnault of Boston.

Miss Kemp was in a dark blue tailor-made suit, while Madame Regnault had donned a black vigogne full-length coat, bordered with black astrakan.

Mrs. Constance Toultman was seen in a grey tailor-made suit, adorned with silver fox.

PIANO MASTER ENTHRALLS AUDIENCE

By MOSES SMITH

To hear Sergei Rachmaninoff in a program of piano music is to experience one of the finest pleasures the concert hall has to offer. At Symphony Hall yesterday he played a Beethoven Sonata, a Schumann Novelette, the Chopin Sonata of the "Funeral March," six of his own "Etudes Tableaux," Opus 33, and a single displayful war-horse, Tausig's arrangement of the Strauss Waltz, "One Lives but Once."

This program, of moderate length, was not actually formidable in containing two sonatas. An audience that filled most of the chairs listened intently, while the master musician of th ekeyboard played in his astonishing and individual fashion. There are more brilliant pianists; there are scores of more colorful pianists. But a more able—not to say, more sincere—musician does not tread the boards.

His performance of the Chopin Sonata was masterly, from the opening agitato measures, which he did not make hysterical, to the prodigious tour de force, musically as well as technically, of his rendering of the last movement. Those rapid, mysterious arpeggios, an enigma to most pianists, were played at astonishing speed. But more remarkable was the phrasing, the manner in which the harmonic foundation form made clear. The mysterious tragedy of this music, as Rachmaninoff revealed it, made us shudder.

Throughout the preceding movements the same penetrating musicianship was apparent, as it had been in the Schumann Novelette in F-sharp. Under other hands the Novelette form often sounds episodic. Here we had a well-rounded, connected discourse, in which each detail was subordinate to the whole.

The Etudes Tableaux, miniature "tone-pictures," were less original and less meaty than other of the composer's works he has played here. But they were a thousand times more desirable than the C-sharp minor prelude which many pianists regard as Rachmaninoff's masterpiece, and which, indeed, was dully played at the close of the "encore session."

Movement Started to Organize Minor Hockey Clubs

PROTECTION OF RIGHTS IS OBJECT

By BILL GRIMES

FOR two years the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN has been hammering at the minor leagues to organize in order to protect their own interests and large financial investments.

One of the first hockey magnates to congratulate the Boston Evening American for its stand was Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Canadian American League. When the Boston Evening American opened its drive for a minor league organization, Judge Dooley was president of the Providence Hockey Club. Although Judge Dooley was a newcomer to hockey at that time, he was cognizant of the fact that the minor leagues were "holding the bag" for the National Hockey League.

Bill Grimes

Judge Dooley saw that the minor leagues were being tossed around in such a way as to hinder their development.

During the annual meeting last spring in Toronto, which Judge Dooley attended as president of the Canadian American League, the Providence jurist discovered that the cards were stacked against minor leagues.

But believing any attempt on his part at that time to start an organization might not be taken in the right light, due to his short period of servitude in professional hockey, Judge Dooley sat back and took his medicine with the other minor leaguers without offering a protest.

DOOLEY LEARNS

Although President Dooley acquired considerable knowledge of the workings of the National Hockey League during the annual meeting, last spring, until this season he had little idea of just how far the parent body dared to go. Nor did he have a clear idea of the lack of respect which the National Hockey League held for the by-laws of his organization.

In the past, the National Hockey League has managed to squirm out of trouble with the Canadian-American League by a plea of ignorance as to the by-laws of the Canadian-American League. President Dooley harbors the opinion that the National Hockey League should know the by-laws under which every minor league operates and refuses to place any stock in the "we didn't know" excuse.

In order to take over the presidency of the Canadian-American League, Judge Dooley disposed of his stock in the Providence hockey club, of which he was the big holder and also president. He realized that there is a bright future for minor league clubs if operated under their own organization.

JUDGE MADE SACRIFICE

Judge Dooley's motive in accepting the presidency of the Canadian-American League was to better the minor leagues, if he could get the necessary co-operation from the other leagues. As Providence is one of the best paying minor league investments in the East, Judge Dooley made a great financial sacrifice when he allowed himself to be elected president of the Can-Am League.

Early in the season, the New York Americans asked and received permission from President Dooley to recall Jakey Forbes from New Haven for a game against Toronto. Roy Worters was on the injured list and Benny Grant who had been subbing for Worters was on loan from the Maple Leafs.

The Americans did not desire to use Grant against his old cronies mates and it was for this reason that President Dooley sanctioned the recalling of Forbes for one game.

Because President Dooley waived once on a league rule, the Americans thought that in the future they could do as they wanted with out bothering for any sanction from the Can-Am president. So they sent Leo Reise and George Patterson down to New Haven for two games and then called them back to New York.

PRESIDENT QUICK TO ACT

Immediately Judge Dooley received proof that Reise and Patterson had returned to New York before the duration of 21 days, he forfeited the New Haven-Springfield game to the Indians and dispatched notices to the Americans that Reise and Patterson could not play again this season in the Can-Am League.

The National Hockey League, through its president, Frank Calder, attempted to excuse the Americans but Pres Dooley held

LOUGHRAN NOT TO TRAIN SHARKEY

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP)—Joe Smith, manager for Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight champion, said today that reports from Miami that Sailor Jack Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, had invited Tommy to help train Sharkey for his bout with Phil Scott are "hokum."

Smith said about a week ago Buckley asked him to have Loughran share Sharkey's training camp for Tommy's preparations for his semi-windup bout with Pierre Charles.

Smith said he refused on the ground that he expected Loughran to meet Sharkey some time in the future and would not think of having Tommy train in the sailor's camp.

Smith said he opposed Buckley wanted Tommy in Sharkey's camp, because of Loughran's popularity and to add interest to the place. Smith added he would establish his own camp in the South.

"Instead of Loughran helping to train Sharkey," Smith said, "I would rather have Sharkey help Tommy."

Sharkey Seeks Loughran as Training Partner

Miami, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Johnny Buckley, manager for Sailor Jack Sharkey, reached deep down into the bag of ballyhoo today and drew forth an invitation for Tommy Loughran to help train Sharkey for his heavyweight elimination bout with Phil Scott in the second "Battle of the Palms" here February 27.

Mr. Buckley asserted that his plan was no idle jest. Instead, he proclaimed the former light-heavyweight champion, booked as a semi-finalist with Pierre Charles of Belgium in Madison Sq. Garden's winter spectacle here, was just the man to lure the Boston fighter up to Scott's style of delivery.

REQUEST CONSIDERED

"Jack wants Tommy to help him, as he is only American contender in the heavyweight title ranks," Buckley explained. "I called Joe Smith, Tommy's manager, last night and put the proposal to him, but he wanted a chance to talk it over with Loughran."

"Jack is persistent about it," he continued. "He believes that Loughran can put him in better shape than any sparring partners can do."

If Buckley's plan is accepted by Loughran and his manager as outlined, Tommy would work two to three rounds a day in the Sharkey camp, although the two would maintain separate camps.

Frank Bruan, general manager for Madison Square Garden's second winter campaign in the Miami area, said he was agreeable to the proposal.

B. C. Twirlers on Injured List

Boston College's pitching staff for the coming spring is apt to be wrecked by appendicitis. Coach Hugh Duffy's right-hander and captain, Pete Herman, is now waiting a decision regarding an operation while Jim O'Connor, his southpaw ace, is visiting the hospital after tearing open his side which was cut more than a year ago.

O'Connor ripped the adhesions in his side last week and spent Saturday in the hospital. The accident may develop into a hernia which would force him to quit baseball.

Herman has been troubled with a pain in his side since the football season. One doctor advised him to have his appendix removed while a second told him it was a strain suffered during the grid season.

ICE OFFICIALS TO BE GRADED

Coaches of school and college hockey teams and officials of the New England Association of Hockey Officials met at the YD Club to discuss hockey rules, demonstrate plays and come to a uniform interpretation on the points in question.

President Dan Sands spoke of the need of keeping the game clean and the need of fearless officials. Coach Joe Stubbs of Harvard paid the organization a glowing tribute when he said that the officiating this year had been better than it had ever been before.

Coaches of colleges will receive slips on which they will grade the work of the officials who work in their games, and they will file these with the president.

The officials have a corresponding card to report their games, and so far as possible a league representative will be at each game to scout the work of the officials, much the same way as is done in college football.

Among the rules discussed was the onside rule, which it was agreed would be interpreted to allow the passer of the puck to feed ahead and put his receiver eligible to receive the puck as soon as the passer got on line with the receiver, and also to allow a teammate who is onside with the passer to be eligible to skate the receiver onside as the passer himself might have done had he not been checked.

The school coaches came to the decision that at the termination of the game, one timer from one school would count off the last five seconds of the period and on the last second the rival school representative, also watching the watch, would blow a whistle to prevent any further play from which a goal might be scored.

Melrose Boy Picked N. U. Hockey Captain

At a meeting of the hockey squad of Charles A. Kerins, 1930 senior, was elected captain of the Northeastern varsity ice team, the first in the history of the university.

A regular defenseman, Kerins is one of the most valuable players on the Husky team.

At Melrose high he played on the championship 1925 aggregation and later was prominent in amateur hockey in Melrose and Malden.

Yale and Harvard Relay Teams Race

Harvard and Yale will open track hostilities Feb. 15, when the varsity mile relay teams meet at the B. A. A. games at the Arena, thus resuming a race which was dropped in the Unicorn games of 1926, when Harvard won.

The Harvard-Yale race was a feature for years of this meet, the teams originally running a mile. Later the distance was increased to six laps a man, and from 1921 and 1926 were two-mile affairs.

Both William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, and Jack Cates of Yale have agreed to this year's race and the official acceptance was received from John N. Hazard, Yale track manager.

Horton Smith Best of Golfing Troupe

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, stocky New Yorker, may have won the most money, but the real leader of the winter golfing troupe is young Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo.

Thanks to his victory in the rich Agua Caliente open, Sarazen, former open titleholder, has enjoyed the most profitable winter of all his golfing brethren with cash prizes aggregating close to $11,500. Smith, however, has given a sensational display of consistently brilliant play ever since the troupe left for the West late last fall.

In the eight major winter tournaments in which he has played the Joplin professional has won three, placed second once and tied for second twice. And in compiling this imposing record Smith has earned nearly $9500.

ON DIFFERENT TRAIL

Sarazen did not follow the same trail as the majority of the pros. He won $600 by finishing fourth in the Hawaiian open; jumped bak to Florida to win the Miami open and $750. And then snared the big prize of $10,000 in the Agua Caliente open.

Smith, on the other hand, played in practically all of the California tournaments and nearly always with conspicuous success. He won the Pasadena, Berkeley and Portland, Ore., opens; placed second to Craig Wood in the Hawaiian open and tied for second at Agua Caliente and in the Los Angeles open.

These two were the big money winners, but some of the others did not do badly at all. Al Espinosa, of Chicago, won about $3400 by tying Smith for second at Agua Caliente and finishing fourth in the Los Angeles open.

Denny Shute, young Columbus, O., pro won $300 by finishing sixth in the Pasadena open and then added $3500 to his bankroll by capturing the Los Angeles open.

Olin Dutra of Los Angeles tied for first in the Long Beach open, placed second in the Catalina Island open and tied for fourth in the Agua Caliente event, for prizes of about $3000.

HAGEN OUT OF LUCK

Other earnings approximated the following:

Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., $2400; Billy Burke, New York, $1850; Morris Dutra, Tacoma, $1550; Tommy Armour, Detroit, $1500; Tony Manero, New York, $1500; Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, $1000; Bobby Cruickshank, New York, $1000; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., $1700.

Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen have had no luck at all. Diegel won the Professional Golfers Association crown again but has won little or no money in the open tournaments.

With the California season over for another year, the pros were headed today for San Antonio for the $7500 Texas open.

CANTILLON IS NEAR DEATH

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—The condition of "Pongo Joe" Cantillon, the "grand old man of baseball," was unchanged today, doctors announcing that he had practically no chance to recover. Only his iron constitution and his strong will were keeping him alive, they said.

During his baseball career "Pongo Joe" served as manager of a number of clubs, umpire in several leagues, scout and player. He is credited with having discovered Walter Johnson and Rube Waddell.

TERRIERS PLAY WEDNESDAY

Boston University's varsity hockey six will swing into action on Wednesday at Durham where the Terriers will meet the New Hampshire University ice team.

Although B. U. has been an "in and outer" all winter and has shown a pretty poor brand of hockey on a couple of occasions, Coach Wayland Vaughan has now struck on a combination that has begun to click. In the last game with Bowdoin, the Terriers completely outclassed the Maine champions in a 5 to 1 victory.

In that contest, Vaughan moved Shorty Barron up to the first string right wing berth, the first time in three years that Barron had received the starting call. That the move was a wise one, was quickly proved by a brilliant solo down the ice and a great shot and goal by the Terrier youngster after three minutes of play.

That opening score put B. U. on edge and with Barron continuing to carry his mates at a good pace, B. U. put up its best game of the winter.

Schoolboy Track Stars to Run in Northeastern Meet

NEWTON HIGH TO DEFEND TITLE

SCHOOL trackmen battle next Saturday in the feature affair of the week, the Northeastern interscholastic track and field meet.

Twenty-four Bay State teams will get together in this meet for the first of the big track events which run through the final stretch of the school season.

Newton, which won the meet last year, Medford, Brookline, Brockton, Somerville, Lawrence, several of the Boston high schools and others are entered and will give the fans a session of splendid track competition.

Representative fields are ready for the gun in every event. Doc Lavalles of Lowell, Walter Holmes of Newton, King Pushard of Medford, San Cohen and Ben Hootstein are in the 45-yard dash.

In the 45-yard low hurdles Doc Lavalles of Lowell and Charley Hall of Newton will be favored to finish in the money. King Pushard of Medford and Bob Goldman of Brookline should force things.

MEDFORD BOY FAVORITE.

Dud Miller of Medford is used to the track at the Huntington "Y." He has raced on it twice this season and finished in good time on each occasion, so the Blue and White flyer has an edge on some of the others in the race.

Charley Gunning of Fairhaven, Al Mowser of Newton, Russ Kumph of Watertown and Irving Foster of Lynn Classical are others to watch in the 300-yard scrap.

Charley Hall of Newton will be favored in the 600 after his great performance of last Saturday, when he won the race on the Newton drill shed track in 1:22 and a fraction. On the longer "Y" track Hall may be able to hit close to 1:20. Charley Gow of Brookline and several others can make things tough for Hall.

STARS TO RUN 1000

After the way Vin Signore of Newton has been cleaning up in the 1000 this season, he bids fair to come close to winning the 1000 in the N. E. games. Jack Fallon of Lynn Classical and Bud Carlyn of the same school also are fine in the 1000.

It is difficult to pick the class of the groups in the shot and high jump. In the high jump, Al Weaver, is Sandler of Lowell and this lad is capable of touching record height in the leap.

Somerville has not been matched in the relay. Other entries pick a trio, Brookline vs. Newtc ; Lynn English vs. Lynn Classical; Malden vs. Watertown; Winthrop vs. Everett; Dorchester vs. Commerce; Jamaica Plain vs. Quincy; Concord vs. Beverly; Brighton vs. Revere.

Drawing for heats and places takes place Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 at the Boston Y. Each school competing in the meet has been invited to have representatives present at the meeting.

CARNIVAL AT STONEHAM

The Stoneham high school winter carnival is conducted this week on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Howard Gordon is in charge of the affair. The high school athletic association sponsors the events, and any profits go for the benefit of the school teams.

Athletic events of the carnival begin on Friday afternoon, when the Stoneham and Reading girls battle on the high school floor court. At eight Friday night Stoneham wars with the Wakefield five.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Greatest Teacher

Of all the forces which conspire to defeat golfing speed of action the commonest enemy undoubtedly is lack of muscle training. Now the player who can get out on a course every MENTAL day has a great SPEED d v antage, of OBTAINS course. Even if PHYSICAL he has all SPEED his methods are wrong his muscles get an amount of continuous training that is sufficient to give him some improvement. The man who plays once or twice a week, however, can easily build up his speed muscles by daily practice at home or, if not that, certainly to some extent by understanding the principles we have been expounding. Starting from law, I would say that it is more helpful to have the right mental picture and thus to be able to hold physical powers in restraint than to have practice-developed muscles and still try to make the golf ball behave by giving it doses of force and power. Therefore start off this season with the fixed fundamental that this year you will save all your strength for cutting the grass in the front lawn, and that in your golf you will strive to swing easily and smoothly, let the slices roll where they will.

LOUGHRAN NOT TO TRAIN JACK

Bruen had planned to scatter training camps generally through the Miami section as the winter show gets under way, however, and consolidation of the Sharkey and Loughran camps would bring alteration of the schedule.

Bruen's idea has been that Sharkey would train in Miami Beach, Scots in Miami and Palm Beach, Loughran or Charles in Coral Gables, and other members of the flutic circus in camps about the area.

PICK SITE TODAY

Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager, is expected to pick a training site for the English fighter today. Bruen said he had received word that Gene Wilson is on his way here with Pierre Charles and Mose Bouguillon, French heavyweights, whom Wilson seeks to place on the Feb. 27 card against Johnny Grosso, one of Sharkey's sparring partners.

Hawkins' Death Blow to Eastern League

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 27 (AP)—William E. Carey, president of the Eastern League and owner of the Springfield team, speaking today of the death of Michael J. Hawkins, owner of the Albany, N. Y., club, noted that it was the second recent heavy blow to the league, the first having been the death of Robert J. Farrell, owner of the Hartford, Ct., club, two weeks ago.

Carey spoke of Hawkins' quiet energy in meeting obstacles, his unselfishness, uniformly gentlemanly nature and value in league councils.

Another Win for Cochran

New York, Jan. 27 (INS)—Welker Cochran today held the scalp of Augie Kieckhefer, winning his three-cushions billiard match against the midwesterner, 700 to 514. Cochran took the last two blocks 50 to 24 and 50 to 34.

FLYNN TRAINS AT TOLAND'S

Eddie Mack, boxing promoter at the Garden, will sever his connection as matchmaker on Friday night, after the Ace Hudkins-Arthur Flynn bout. On the following day Mack will turn over his offices in the Garden's new matchmaker, Alex McLean, and open the Argonne A. A.

Hudkins needs no introduction to the Boston fans. He trounced Al Mello on two occasions, the first time in New York and then here last year.

When Hudkins meets Flynn on Friday night he will find opposition, for the boy from the Merrimac Valley is fighting at his best. Flynn, like Hudkins, is now a light-heavyweight.

Flynn has won his last eight fights, one of his most impressive victories being that over Babe McCorgary. Flynn is training for his bout at Jim Toland's gym, while the Nebraskan Wildcat will be seen again this afternoon at Kelley & Hayes'.

B. C. Seeks to Regain Lost Track Prestige

AFTER three lean seasons, Coach Jack Ryder sees possibilities of his two-mile relay team regaining much of Boston College's lost track prestige.

Jack O'Brien, Tommy Meagher, Tom Daley and Brendon Moynahan comprise the quartet which galloped home 40 yards ahead of Holy Cross, Harvard, Tech and New Hampshire at Boston's first indoor meet, the William C. Prout Memorial Games.

The time, 8 minutes 10 3-5 seconds, is nothing in itself to boast about, yet indicates that the makings of a title are there.

Boston College hasn't had a glimpse of any intercollegiate track laurels since 1927 when the famous foursome of McKillop, McCloskey, Ingoldsby and Daley romped home to an intercollegiate two-mile relay title in the time of 7 minutes 31 seconds.

B. C. KEPT TITLE IN '27

A year before that the same quartet won the title which it defended successfully in 1927. The time in 1926 was 7-10 of a second slower. With the 1927 victory of the Eagle two-milers, honors for the Heights ended.

Going back still further, the Boston College annals produce a two-mile team which won the Penn Relays and smashed the record for the distance at the same time.

That team was McKillop, Cavanaugh and Welch. They turned in their feat in 1924 and the record-making time was 7 minutes 47 3-5s.

That was the classiest two-mile club that Ryder ever had though it failed to measure up to the 1926-27 quartet in consistency.

And in 1923 Boston College was represented by another intercollegiate two-mile winner composed of Cavanaugh, Finnegan, Kirley and Mahoney.

B. C. has had all in all three intercollegiate winners, 1923, 1926, and 1927, and another group of half-milers who won the Penn Relays and broke the record yet lost out on the intercollegiate title.

RYDER LOOKS FOR VICTORY

Ryder doesn't expect his present flock to break any records, but has hopes that they'll bring home victory from the carnival of the colleges, which is a few months off. Which would give him a record of four victories in eight years, since the meet didn't start until 1922, or an average of .500, which isn't bad hitting in any league.

He feels sure that this team will be capable of running under 8 minutes by the time the intercollegiates roll around. And it's a fighting quartet, which, if pushed, might better 7 minutes 50 seconds.

Individual times for the Garden victory were: Daley, 2:05 2-5s; Meagher, 2:02 2-5s; Moynahan, 2:02 3-5s, and O'Brien, 2:01 2-5s.

The Eagles will now aim for the Millrose A. C. games in New York a week from Saturday night. Ryder intends to send this two-mile aggregation down to Gotham for their second exhibition of the winter. For it is B. C.'s big hope of track laurels and Ryder intends to prime them for bigger and better honors.

MINOR CLUBS TO ORGANIZE

to his ruling, thereby giving the first evidence to the N. H. L. that he was ready to battle for the rights of his league at any and all times.

Judge Dooley purposes to launch a drive for the organization as a unit of five minor leagues. He will effect this project during the annual minor league meeting in Toronto this spring.

As many minor league clubs are closely allied with the owners of National Hockey League clubs, Judge Dooley may experience some difficulty in getting his idea across.

He feels that something very drastic must be done to promote the interests of the minor leagues and end for all time what he terms injustices on the part of the N. H. L.

During the meeting of the minor league presidents, Judge Dooley will cite his objections to the draft rules, which he feels should be revised to the extent that the N. H. L. could only draft players every two years. Also, he is bitterly opposed to the negotiation of the secret reserve lists.

If Judge Dooley sells his idea to the minor leagues, there no doubt will be a demand for a commissioner of hockey as further protection against practices now in vogue which have never met with the approval of the minor leagues.

Judge Dooley does not favor the ice. It is now up to the other leagues to decide whether they will shake off the yoke, which has been strangling them for years, or continue to submit to the high-handed N. H. L. rulings.

Cambridge Latin Six Eliminated

For the first time in 13 years, since Leander Macdonald has had charge, Cambridge Latin will not be represented in the interscholastic Hockey league championship playoff.

This is quite a record for the Cantabs who in other years have been favored with more ice for practice. Coach Coach Macdonald practiced only twice and every other day there was ice was forced to play.

His team hasn't won a league game this winter but, next to Melrose, it gave the Redmen a battle and lost only after an overtime period. Melrose nosed out Arlington for top berth at the Arena Friday night and shoved the Spy Benders into a second place tie with Newton.

MAY ABOLISH BOXING IN MICHIGAN

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (INS)—The death of Mickey Darmon, diminutive boxer today, aroused an organized State-wide move for the repeal of the Michigan boxing law.

Clubwomen, ministers and legislators are joined in the cause to repeal the law which made Mickey Darmon's death "accidental."

Representative Charles M. Haight of Lansing has announced he will ask the 1931 Legislature to repeal the law.

"People who pay to see bouts expect to see rough and bloody fighting," Haight said.

"No good can arise from prize-fighting and much harm may be done," Representative William R. Fernand said. "I think it should be abolished."

Fernand's stand is endorsed by a number of clubwomen.

"Men should be able to find some other means through which they can demonstrate their physical prowess than by beating each other up, killing or maiming each other for life," Theresa Doland Cornelius, chairman of the service committee of the Women Lawyers' Club said.

"A group of women lawyers has been aroused by this killing. We believe it would be a humane thing to abolish boxing bouts in Michigan. At the next meeting of our club I intend to introduce a resolution urging the Legislature to take such action."

Another Boxer Dies From Kayo in Michigan Ring

Detroit, Jan. 27 (INS)—Word of the death of a 21-year-old boxer at Kalamazoo was received here today, while preparations for the funeral services of Mickey Darmon, 20, killed in a bout at Olympia Friday night, were being made.

Darmon, sole support of his widowed mother and a brother and sister, was mortally injured in one of the preliminary bouts on Friday's card. He was knocked out by Eddie Koppy, 21, and never regained consciousness.

The youth killed at Kalamazoo was John Wilford, also a boxer. He was injured Friday in a workout match with Duana Duncan.

Holmes-Smith Fined for Fighting

New York, Jan. 27 (INS)—Billy Holmes of the Americans and Roger Smith of the Corsairs were fined $25 each today for fighting here last night in the New York-Pittsburgh hockey game. The game ended with a 3 to 3 tie after a scoreless overtime period.

Holmes and Smith engaged in a fight on the ice and when sent to the penalty box resumed the fray. Later both came back in the game and played brilliantly.

Eddie Shore Returns to Give Bruins Full Strength

WILL PLAY AGAINST PIRATES

EDDIE SHORE, big Bruins defense star, will be back in the lineup tomorrow night when the Pittsburgh Pirates play at the Garden and the Bruins will be at full strength as they strive to run their present victory streak to five games.

Clapper, Gainor, MacKay and Oliver, who played throughout the 2-1 victory over Canadiens despite injuries, will be in the fold, too, but after the game the injured players will have a chance to let up for a few games because the Bruins have a respite until the game with New York Rangers in New York next Saturday.

The Pirates have been bad boys on their last two visits to Boston ice. Not that they have not played the game according to rule, but rather they have played it well enough to extend the Bruins to 5-4 and 4-3 victories.

Pirate and Americans have been two teams which have had their troubles with other clubs but which have been able to play fast hockey against the world champions.

PIRATE TEAM STRONG

Bruins will not take Pittsburgh lightly tomorrow night. Manager Art Ross wants his team to keep on the winning path now that it has won four straight games.

Pittsburgh is a likely fifth victim and a decision over Rangers next Sunday would give the Bruins a chance to get well started on another winning spree.

Game after game, the Bruins are establishing themselves more strongly as the greatest hockey team ever assembled in modern hockey. It is impossible of course to compare 15 man teams today with the six man teams of the early years of hockey in the National League

No modern team has had the balance, and the collection of colorful stars such as the Bruins have on their roster.

The Bruins proved their balance on Saturday night when they won over Canadiens. Eddie Shore was out of the lineup and George Owen though he had not played on defense more than five minutes in any game during the last month, stepped into Shore's place and went the full 60 minutes, teaming beautifully with Capt. Hitchman

THOMPSON BRILLIANT

The team continues to get a brilliant brand of goal guarding from Tiny Thompson and the play of the dynamite trio in the last week has been of a high order. Cooney Weiland, Dit Clapper and Dutch Gainor all had a big part in the Bruins' scoring and Gainor contributed the most sensational solo rush of the season when he scored Bruins' first goal against Americans on Thursday

Changes Made in Bruin Schedule

The Bruins management today announced a change in the National Hockey League schedule. The games between the Bruins and Chicago, scheduled for Feb 9 in Chicago has been postponed to March 13. The Chicago Stadium is not to be available on Feb 9 and the Bruins agreed to the suggestion of the Chicago management that the game be postponed rather than play it on that date in the Chicago Coliseum or some other rink. The Bruins also are saved a hard road trip at a strenuous part of the February schedule. They are to play in Pittsburgh, Feb 8 and the original schedule called for them to be in Chicago the next night, and then leave immediately after the game so as to be back in Boston for a contest at the Garden Feb. 11 with Toronto.

RUNYON SAYS

By Damon Runyon

"JOISEY" JONES has taken the management of Joe Gainor of Syracuse, and now has Joe Gainor, Joe Stone and Joe Banovic and Joe Velardo, or a stable of Joe fighters.

Sammy Wolff, the Chicago Loop hound, bet a total of $20 on leaving New York a couple of weeks ago that he would be back Friday, and it cost him $200 in railroad fares and expenses to win the bet.

Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion of the whole world, is an expert "klob" player, or thinks he is, which amounts to about the same thing.

Signor Humberto Jack Fugazy, the promoter, who sold a lot of his promotions to Madison Square Garden, has recovered from a recent operation, and is going to start promoting again.

Abe Callahan Lipshits, Doc Bagley's gaunt Jewish heavyweight, was once a footballer at the University of Pennsylvania, and don't the doctor remind you of it!

Tony Martello, the nimble matchmaker of the busy little Broadway club in Brooklyn, always wears his hat aslant one ear to conceal a large nick in said ear.

JOE BENJAMIN, the sheik of the San Joaquin, is reported in the money down Miami way.

E. Phocian Howard's fat valet, en route to Miami in E. Phocian Howard's mysterious Rolls Royce, wrecked same at Richmond, Va., according to Clem McCarthy, and hired a taxi to New York to report to E. Phocian, the trip standing Mr. Howard $185, and the complete loss of his voice from cussing.

Tony Palazzolo, of New Orleans, who is not to be confused with Tony Palazzolo, of Boston—or, maybe, it's the other way around—is in Miami to train Sharkey, and he took Johnny Grosso with him to do the ketching for Sharkey.

Broadway Johnny Cox is reported acting as secretary to stout Eddie Mead out in Cleveland by Alex Hart, who was managed to his last defeat by Broadway John.

JOHN ARTHUR JOHNSON, now the black Whiteman of Broadway, could eat six spring chickens at a sitting, when he was in good appetite, but Godfrey, the black shadow of Leiperville, can take in nine fowl in one match, and then call for the entree

Wilbur Wood, boxing writer of the Evening Sun, has become a violent addict to the indoor golf course at Madison Square Garden.

Francis Albertanti, secretary to Bill Carey of Madison Square Garden, is a pastafagiole fiend of the deepest dye.

Walter Winchell, the ear of Broadway, has reached that acute stage of ringwormism where he wires boxers his congratulations on a victory.

DAPPER DAN McKETRICK and Willie Lewis, then in his one-two prime, are the blokes who introduced real boxing in France, no matter what anyone tells you.

Petey Hayes, the little chap who was a sensation in the amateurs, and made his first professional appearance at the Garden recently, as a stable mate to Jack Berg, is an Italian, and his name isn't Hayes.

Arthur Bugs Baer, the humorist was up all night at the Friars Club getting laughs out of the brethren trying to play bridge

Italian Boxers Due Here Tonight

The team of Italian boxers which will compete in the German-United States tournament at the Garden next Monday night arrived in New York today on the Rome and will arrive in Boston tonight.

The Italian team will be officially welcomed to New York by William H. Cuddy, president of St. Joseph's T. A. S., the club which invited them to this country, and by Al Clemente, manager of Tony Shucco and member of Ausonia Council, Knights of Columbus

They will receive a greeting from the Ausonia Council tonight, and will start training tomorrow, at one of the local gyms

In 1928, Italy turned out the championship Olympic boxing team, and it is said that they will present the finest quartet of fighters that have ever invaded this country.

GOOD NEWS!

Eddie Shore, star Bruins' defense man, and battle-scarred veteran of hockey, will be back in the Bruin lineup when the local six plays the Pittsburgh Pirates at the Garden tomorrow night.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

JUDGE JAMES E. DOOLEY, president of the Canadian-American League, is responsible for the first step to band the five leading minor leagues, for the betterment of conditions and protection of the smaller organizations.

As professional hockey is a pastime with President Dooley and not, as is the case with most hockey moguls, a means to a livelihood, he cannot be "reached" by any of the big league schemers who have been responsible for the tossing around the minor league have undergone since their inception.

The Bruins returned from Montreal last night pretty well battered up from their tough game with Les Canadiens The world's champions refuse to let up on any of their opponents, in spite of the overwhelming lead they have piled up.

Unless Eddie Shore has completely recovered from his numerous injuries, he will be rested again tomorrow night when the Bruins tackle the Pittsburgh Pirates.

At last Tiny Thompson has received some well deserved recognition from the Canadian critics After Les Canadiens game in the Forum last Saturday, the experts admitted that Tiny was a stand out among all N. H. L. goal minders.

Manager Eddie Powers is very much upset over the collapse of his Tiger defense. The Tigers are scoring enough goals to win more games than have fallen their way this season, but the defense has been doing so many back flips that the Can-Am champions have been on the losing end of so many contests that within a short time there will be at least one new face in the regular line up.

George Owen received his biggest assignment since he entered professional hockey when he was asked to step in and fill Eddie Shore's shoes against Les Canadiens.

Although the announcement of the purchase of Henry Harris from the Seattle club was lengthy and in detail it failed to include any mention of the fact as to whether the newcomer is a left or a right hand shot.

The Montreal fans spent a blue Sunday, the Bruins having defeated the Flying Frenchman and the Maroons having been shut out by Ottawa.

The Harvard varsity squad will resume practice at the Garden next Thursday. The Crimson puck chasers have not been in action for two weeks due to mid-year exams and will welcome the coming of Thursday.

The Andover team would be strengthened if Steve Hopkins, the former Dover school right winger, could straighten out his scholastic difficulties with the office.

The Rhode Island Reds, leaders in the race for Can-Am laurels, will journey to Philadelphia Wednesday. This is only the second game the Reds have played in two weeks As Mickie Murray, the Providence goalie, is confined to his bed with grippe, the break in the schedule has worked out to the advantage of the Cleghorn team.

The Springfield Indians are going fast and will be an important factor in the drawing of the Canadian American League championship However, as this club is owned by the Rangers, it is liable to be raided at any time.

SHEA IS CHAMP SPEED SKATER

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27—Jack Shea, Lake Placid Athletic Club veteran of the ice, won the speed skate championship of the Eastern United States here. He won every event of the men's Eastern United States speed skating championships, winning the 220, the 440 and the 880-yard finals.

Stars like Irving Jaffee of New York, Valentine Bialis of Lake Placid and Bunny Sheffield of Lake Placid gave him hot opposition in every event, but they could not stick him.

Only in a two-mile special race did he taste defeat, Jaffee placing first and Bialis second ahead of him.

Two New York city twins Lillian and Ruth Corke, of the Majestic A C coached out Frances Schoonover of Watervliet, N. Y., in the 25-yard dash for girls. Lillian Corke was first, Ruth second, and Ida Karwowski third.

Stecher Meets 'Sonny' for Title Thursday

JOE STECHER will attempt to make his comeback a complete success on Thursday night when he will wrestle Dynamite Jack Sonnenberg for the heavyweight championship of the world in the Arena.

Stecher became the outstanding contender for championship honors when he overwhelmed the clever Joe Malcewicz at the Arena. Always brilliant in local rings, and regarded as one of the cleverest of all the wrestlers, Panther Joe was so badly outclassed by Stecher that the result was never for a moment in doubt.

The former champion has recovered all his great wrestling qualities. He was aggressive, smart and strong against Malcewicz, and against Sonny he will enjoy every physical advantage, and that includes several inches in height, 20 pounds in weight and many inches in reach.

There is always a threat in Stecher's famous legs, just as there is in Sonnenberg's flying tackle.

Stecher's body scissors is one of the most punishing holds in the sport of wrestling, and it stands alongside Frank Gotch's toehold and Strangler Lewis' headlock, as one of the most terrific holds ever devised.

He crushed Stasiak's ribs with his savage body scissors more than a month ago in the Arena, and the big Polish heavyweight has not appeared in a ring since.

He inflicted terrible punishment with it on Malcewicz to win the second fall, and Malcewicz was just a push-over when he returned to the mat for the third fall.

Stecher is confident that he will regain his title Thursday night.

WOMEN TRACK STARS IN MEET

Rena MacDonald, world's champion shotputter and discus thrower, and holder of the record in each event, will defend her New England shotput title on Wednesday evening at the women's indoor track meet which will be held at the Boston Y. M. H. A., Seaver st., Roxbury. Miss MacDonald's appearance will add color to the occasion

Besides the shotput there will be another title event, the junior running high jump, on the card. In this contest a number of the contestants are on par and the record for this event is in real danger.

Only one open event is listed and this should be the real feature of the evening, the 25-yard dash. Olive Hasenfus, a member of the last Olympic team, and one of the best of the local sprinters, will be the favorite to cop first prize. Fanny Madeira, former Canadian champion, who defeated Miss Hasenfus at the East Boston meet, may upset the dope again and return a winner

Another feature on the program will be two 25-yard dashes one for girls who never won a race and one for those who had not placed in a New England senior or junior running event.

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency...join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

He tried to "get away"... but they caught him in the act. And yet his filthy habit is no more disgusting than the bestial custom of the workman who rolls cigars with dirty fingers and spits on the ends!

Why punish the one, yet tolerate the vile practice of the other? Smoke Certified Cremo and protect yourself against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar your physician has in mind when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Here's the Dark Secret of Delicious Brownies

ALL the world may love a fat man, but we know that every fat man and every thin man in the world loves chocolate and truly believes that if wives preface their requests for new purple and fine linen by a big plate of delicious Boston Brownies, there would be less groaning and gnashing of teeth at frock and hat bills.

Yesterday we were working on some recipes for a little bride up in Lowell who must make every dollar do the work of $2, and yet is anxious to feed her shining new husband wisely and well. We discovered that a vegetable shortening could be substituted for the butter in our favorite Boston Brownies without affecting their delicious flavor or moist tenderness in the least.

We even saved one from the rush of samplers and found it just as moist and delicious this morning as it was when it came from the oven. So perhaps you too would like to have this economical Boston Brownie recipe that we are sending to our little bride friend

FUDGE BROWNIES

½ c. white vegetable shortening
2 eggs, well beaten.
1 tsp. salt.
2 squares chocolate
1 c. sugar, cream well.
2-3 c. pastry flour.
½ c. milk
¾ c. walnut meats, cut fine.
1 tsp. vanilla.

Bake in moderate oven 25 minutes in large square pan. Cut in squares when through shrinking.

Brownies always have been expensive—to make or to buy—but to cut the expense. Read the recipe and see for yourself.

Up Side Down Fig Cake

WHAT'S more delicious or decorative than an up-side-down cake, especially if it's this new one which combines delicious white Texas figs and pecans?

½ cup brown sugar
4 tbsps. butter
16 whole Texas figs

SPONGE

3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
3 tbsps. orange juice and grated rind
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar

Oil individual pie tins or muffin tins, sprinkle with brown sugar, dot with butter and place one fig in each tin. Sprinkle with nuts. Fill tin ⅔ full of the sponge made by beating yolk of eggs, adding sugar flour which has been sifted with baking powder and salt, and orange juice and rind.

Carefully fold in the whites which have been beaten with some of the sugar. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Turn out and serve upside down with figs in top. Garnish with whipped cream and a green cherry.

WHOLE WHEAT COOKIES

½ cup butter
2 eggs
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
2-3 cup brown sugar
1½ cups whole wheat flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. cloves
Dash of nutmeg

Cream butter and sugar together. Add the eggs and beat well. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and spices together and add gradually to batter. Add vanilla and nuts. Roll about ¼ inch thick and cut with cookie cutter. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) until brown. One cup of nuts may be added to the dry ingredients.

SAVORY CRAB ON TOAST

Mix 2 tbsps. of butter with 2 tbsps. flour. Stir to a cream. Add 1 pt. of rich milk or light cream or evaporated milk diluted one-third with water. Season with salt, pepper, paprika and a dash of grated onion.

To this mixture add 2 hard boiled eggs thoroughly chopped and 2 green peppers cut lengthwise into very narrow strips. Stir in 1 can of Japanese crab meat, and 1 wine glass of tomato ketchup. Heat this in a heavy saucepan and when it bubbles add ½ cup of mild grated cheese. Serve hot on buttered toast-points.

Chocolate Cream

ONE of the foundation steps in dessert making for the novice housewife is the proper preparation of the Bavarian Cream—that delicious dessert that can be varied in so many delightful ways.

This chocolate variety is especially delightful and almost invariably a success especially if you chose your gelatine wisely. We used for this recipe the plain kind that contains four envelopes of gelatine each one making a pint.

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN CREAM

1 envelope of gelatine
½ c. cold water
1½ c. warm milk
1 ounce (square) chocolate
¾ c. sugar
⅛ tsp. vanilla
½ c. cream (whipped)

In a large bowl soak the gelatine in the cold milk five minutes. Put the chocolate in the warm milk and heat, stirring well until the chocolate is all melted. Add this while hot to the soaked gelatine. Then the sugar and vanilla.

Set on ice until it is slightly jelled. Now beat in lightly the cream. Set on ice again until hard and serve with whipped cream.

BAKED APPLES

Apples season is here and with it baked apples appear on our menu. Although the baked apple is not commonly thought of as a fancy dessert, there are many ways of making it fit to appear in any company. One way is to core it and before baking stuff the hole. For instance, you can core the apples and pare them half way down. Fill the cavities of six small baking apples with a cup of mince meat. Dot two tablespoons of butter over the tops. Place in a baking dish. Bring one-half cup of sugar and one cup of water to boiling, pour around the apples and bake until tender in a moderate oven (375 degrees for about 45 minutes). Baste several times during baking.

Pop Corn Cookies

DID you ever hear of them? Maybe not, for it is only recently that sellers of popcorn have thought to put it up in hermetically sealed tin cans which will keep it in just the right condition so that every grain will burst into a white flower. With canned popcorn, however, results are always certain.

To make the cookies, add ¾ tbsp. of soft butter to ¾ cup of chopped popcorn. Beat an egg white stiff and, while beating, add 1-3 cup of sugar. Fold the corn and butter mixture into the eggs and sugar and add ¼ tsp. of salt and ½ tsp of vanilla.

Drop by spoonfuls onto a well buttered sheet an inch apart. Sprinkle with nuts and chopped candied cherries. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until delicately browned.

A Wonderful Love Story by Author of 'Hollywood Girl,' 'Easy.'

What Has Happened Before.
Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife are happy with their baby and tiny bungalow until wealthy neighbors, the Aldersons, come into their lives. Mrs. Alderson, whose husband is elderly, has an affair with a man named "Jack." Lovejoy takes Tom to a card party at the Aldersons. Norrie Shane comes to look after the baby. Lovejoy is amused to discover Norrie's fondness for Tom. Steve Oglebay, Lovejoy's former sweetheart, is present. When Tom receives attention from another girl, Lovejoy is furious. Going out with Steve, she asks him to kiss her. She wants to get even with Tom.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER 15.

JEALOUSY is an insane thing.

It can be stronger than strong drink.

And that night Lovejoy was not only filled with jealousy. She had five drinks too many besides—she who never drank anything more intoxicating than her morning cup of coffee.

She did not want Steve Oglebay to kiss her and put his arms around her. . . . What she wanted was to have Tom see him do it. What she wanted was to hurt Tom—Tom, dancing by with that Mont girl's head on his shoulder!

"Steve, you still do like me a little, don't you?" she asked him holding him close to her by the lpels of his coat. "Steve, you don t like that Mont girl, do you? She's not half nice enough for you—Steve—"

Her face was not three inches from his. He stood looking down at her. His eyes were filled with the old look of longing and puzzlement that he had always had for her. He was breathing quickly as if he had been running.

"Don't do that, Lovejoy!" he said harply, and he took her wrists in his hands and pushed her gently away from him.

"You've had too much to drink," he told her. "You aren't yourself—or you wouldn't behave like that! You're married to a mighty fine fellow, and you're happy with him. So don't be like the rest of these married women—messing around with cheap love affairs all the time!"

Lovejoy looked up at him from the bottom step of the stairs where she was sitting now.

"So I'm happy now?" she asked him, her voice slow and thick.

Dim muddled thoughts went through her head. . . . The two quarrels she had had with Jerry—the way he had told Norrie Shane that she should have liked to stay at home with her this very night. The way he was looking down into Mary Mont's eyes—the way he looked as he danced past the doorway with her—

"No, I'm not happy!" she said, "I'm not the least bit happy. Now, what do you think of that?"

Steve put out his hand to draw her to her feet.

"Come on, Lovejoy," he said, "let's go out and have some food. Aline's calling us all to the dining room."

Above the radio music and the din of voices, Aline was shouting that she had made hulli-e-eve eggs and rum omelet and "Welsh rarebit and that they were getting stone cold.

Allen was rushing about with an apron on, bringing in hot plates from the kitchen. Peter and Mary Mont went out into the pantry for a pitcher of ice for some more drinks.

Jane Goodsell and Aline were standing at the table dishing out pilled salad and fresh caviar from big round silver bowls. Larry was opening mineral water bottles.

Everything was confusion, and noise and laughter. The lights in the room seemed to dance around Lovejoy's head, and the floor felt like the floor of a ship in a storm to her.

"I think I'll sit down," she said unsteadily to Steve Oglebay. "I think you'd better open a window—"

The next thing she knew she was out in the chill sweet darkness of the winter night. There were stars above her, and a man's arm was around her. The whole world was going around and around.

"Steve," she murmured dizzily.

It was Tom's voice that answered her.

"Better?—Think you can go home now?" he asked.

It was his arm around her, helping her to walk.

She never remembered going up the steps of their own house that night and coming into it.

But presently she knew that she was in her own bed. Tom was standing beside it, shaking out the ivory-white dress she had had on.

She turned on her pillows and gave a great sigh of content. . . . Oh, it was good to be back in the little house once more! Safe in her own soft little bed. And Tom was with her—safe from the Mont girl's attractions.

She sat up on one elbow and the room seemed to sway upward with her.

"Never let me see you—with a girl's head on your shoulder again —Tom—Nicholas!" she said thickly. Her tongue felt like a big lump in her mouth and it was hard for her to speak.

Tom turned to her, still holding the ivory silk dress in his big fine awkward hands. He looked down at her and his face was grim.

"You're a fine one to talk!" he said. "I take you out on the Alderson's porch for some air—and when you come to and find my arms around you, what do you say? You

Philip Smith, treasurer of the Broadway-Strand Theater, handing a check for $1042.20 to Joseph L. McNamara, of the South Boston branch of the Federal National Bank, who is treasurer of the Troy Fund. This amount was raised at the midnight benefit show at the Broadway-Strand, of which 40 acts performed to a packed house for three hours. (Staff photo.)

Troy Benefit Nets $1042 for Fund

Bringing the Troy fund past the $2200 mark, a check for $1042.20 today was received from the Broadway-Strand Theater Company as the proceeds from the big benefit midnight show in the Broadway theater.

This check was presented to Joseph W. McNamara of the South Boston branch of the Federal National Bank, fund treasurer.

Philip Smith, treasurer of the theater corporation, collected the money from W. J. Doyle, manager of the theater. The hall was given free for the evening by Treasurer Smith and his partner, James H Doyle

The theater was thoroughly packed, with an attendance of more than 3400. The show went on at 11:05 o'clock, and the last act wound up at 3 a. m

The benefit established a record a many ways. An outstanding feature was that 40 acts were given in the three hours, and about 60 more were offered but not used.

Back stage was jammed by some 80 acts, all of which wanted to perform free for the Troy fund. The first 40 volunteer were accepted. The Massachusetts Tercentenary Orchestra of 12 pieces also gave their services.

Mrs. Gertrude Mansfield of C. Wesley Fraser vaudeville office was active in arranging the talent for the show, together with James Kennedy of the Metropolitan Amusement Co.

The Knapp and City Point taxi companies provided free transportation for the acts.

The 40 employes of both theaters contributed their service, and the Strand box office sold 300 tickets.

Policemen of two stations where Special Officer James Troy was well known dispersed 800 tickets in their off-duty hours. The Boston Fab Pier, sold 200, through Michael Tahiana, Patrick O'Hara and William Rich

Daniel Mahoney of Universal Motor Company sent a check for $25 for tickets, and was the largest single contributor.

Among others who were on the ticket committee and sold large numbers were:

Central Spa, Hunt & Spiller Co., L. St. Bathhouse, M. & M. Service Station, Conroy's Pool Room, Flit Barber Shop, Morrison's Store, Gallahue's Drug Co., Wiley's Drug Co., Albert Hines, Lenit, Ivori Mahoney and Patrick Hurley. South Boston court officer, Hurley also collected more than $300 for the general fund.

This check was in addition to one for $525.20 given by the Central Square Theater as its proceeds from a midnight benefit show on the previous night.

WOULD CURB 'DESPOTIC' JUDGES

Representative Ginsburg Asks Change in the Law Regarding "Contempt" Powers

Charging that the contempt powers of the judges, particularly of the lower courts, are "despotic," Representative Bernard Ginsburg of Boston today urged corrective legislation based on federal statutes and decisions by the United States Supreme Court.

Speaking before the legislative committee on Judiciary, Ginsburg said the law should be changed to allow anyone cited for contempt the right of appeal and a jury trial

"This matter of contempt does with a power that is despotic" he said. "A trial justice can hold a man for contempt without the right of review or repeal It is obvious that some steps should be taken to correct this unfair procedure."

People entering the courts, he held, should have some protection against the whims and fancies of some of these judges. He cited a case where a man who appeared in working clothes was sent home by the judge and told to return "properly" dressed.

HITS LOWER COURTS.

"As a whole the Supreme Court is a body to be proud of and this bill does not affect it," he continued. "There are but few cases of abuse in the superior courts. It is the lower courts where the abuse crops up."

Ginsburg at this point stated that the wrongful use of the contempt power is an "act of cowardice" resorted to only by the "lightweights."

"It's the balloon that explodes," he illustrated.

After stating that Massachusetts has practically no legislation on contempt decisions, Ginsburg explained each section of his bill, citing extracts for the precedent based on decision of the United States Supreme Court.

In particular, he said, it would be only simple justice to grant a hearing and trial after a complaint, where the contempt is not committed in the physical presence of the court

WOULD CURB POWER

"The contempt power," he stated, "is wider than the power given the governor over pardons, for he must consult and get the advice of the council. The whim of one judge may mean the loss of a man's liberty. I am not here to champion the cause of liberty, but in the interest of sound laws.

He referred to a probate court in the western part of the state which attorneys dodged because of the attitude of the judge, recently retired

Sen J. Bradford Davis of Haverhill asked the speaker if he didn't consider the district judges and associates as a group a pretty honorable set of men.

"As a class, yes," replied Ginsburg

Ginsburg held, however, that there are many cases in these courts where persons were found guilty of contempt.

Rep Allan B. MacGregor of Haverhill asked Ginsburg if he knew of any cases where the man held in contempt was sent to jail

Ginsburg replied that he had seen three or four men convicted of contempt and that these cases came under his personal observation

In opposition to the bill, Atty Abram J Burkowitz of Boston branded the measure as "ridiculous"

"The federal laws and the ones we are working under cannot be reconciled," Re continued

He argued that the acceptance of such a bill would stultify the whole operation of the supplementary process a law that superceded the old poor debtor oath

Old Boreas' Own Boat Comes to Boston

Policewoman Raps Gypsy Seeresses

Three gypsy fortune tellers, interviewed at various times and places in the West End, all told Mrs. Irene Bohnback, police woman, the same story

That evil spirits had come into her life that she might be the mother of 15 children, that she could drive away the evil spirits by tying $3 and an an egg in a handkerchief and suspending them from a bed spring.

In court today the gypsies, Marie John, Marie Thompson and Susie Yanko, were fined $25 each for larceny by false pretenses

Fined $100 More for Bad Books

Sam Elias of New York, one of the trio fined $100 in Cambridge court for selling improper literature to Harvard students, paid a fine of the same amount in municipal court today for having such literature in his possession

Martin Sugar and Gerald Conners, his companions, were found not guilty when Elias identified a copy of "The Life of Fannie Hill," found in their hotel room, as his property.

Baker and Leet Held in Saugus Slaying

Earl Baker, alias Ray Trevor, 20, and George A. Leet, 18, both of Malden, arrested in connection with the slaying of Joseph Fendell, Saugus restaurant owner, pleaded not guilty of first degree murder in Superior Court at Salem today.

Judge Dillon then held them without bail.

A third youth arrested in connection with the death of the 64-year-old Saugus restaurant man is Paul Smith, 19, also of Malden, now in Salem jail.

Chaplain to Speak

The Rev. William Bradley Whitney, chaplain of the State Prison in Charlestown, will speak tomorrow evening in the Church of the Redemption, Boylston and Ipswich sts. His subject will be from the Prison Gates to the Electric Chair."

Wants Faneuil Hall for Party, Arrested

Samuel Price, 23, of Clifford st., Roxbury was sizing up Faneuil Hall from every angle outside the building today, according to Patrolman Donovan of Milk st. division, when Donovan decided to question him

The youth is alleged to have replied he was planning go into the historic cradle of liberty for a big party, to pack it with anti-prohibitionists and Democrats. Donovan took him to Station 2 and although police officers thought the idea wasn't so bad, Price was sent to the Psychopathic hospital for observation

WOULD DROP 4 WAKEFIELD FOOD BOARD POLICE HURT

Declaring that the state was throwing away $20,000 a year, Senator Donald W. Nicholson of Wareham today opposed continuing the special commission on the necessaries of life.

Speaking before the legislative committee on state administration, Nicholson declared that the commission had outlived its usefulness.

He scored the commission's failure to investigate "poor tenement conditions in Boston" Chairman Adams of the commission, he said, favored the investigation and later went before the House ways and means committee and said the proposal had been forced upon him

"It's my opinion that you will not get this legislature through the Legislature this year," he said

ADMITS LIES IN CITIZEN PETITION

Is Held for Return to Pennsylvania to Face an Indictment

That the federal authorities in Pennsylvania are conducting an investigation of a naturalization "ring" in that State, similar to the probe now being carried on in this city became known today with the arrest of a South End man

Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Winston today took into custody Moses F. Hadeed of Harrison ave. on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury of western Pennsylvania charging him with falsifying his petition of naturalization and with being a fugitive from justice in that State

Hadeed pealed not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin C Jenney and was held in bonds of $2500 for a hearing on removal proceedings to Pennsylvania

It is charged that Hadeed in a naturalization petition filed in Pittsburgh in December, 1927, stated that he had resided in that city for five consecutive years prior to the filing of the petition. An investigation proved this statement to be untrue, it is stated.

Supt. Crowley Struck Speechless by Odd Request Letter

Supt. of Police Crowley received many strange requests, but probably the strangest arrived today in a letter from Capis Brahim a retired schoolmaster in Algiers

The letter, which ran to considerable length, and which was written in French, asked the "prefect" to ship to Algiers all sorts of animals to destroy insects which the writer claimed are ravaging the rural sections of the country.

Capis specified wild dogs, sled dogs, birds, foxes, wild boars, porcupines, weasels, wild cats, pumas, otters, hedgehogs, "avantis," goats and "other animals of a similar nature to stock our forests and African wilds."

Ten minutes after reading the translation the "Super" was still speechless.

PROF. ROGERS SAYS PASTORS MUST ENLIVEN OLD-TIME RELIGION

MORE 'COLOR' NEEDED IN CHURCHES

Doctrines Must Be Modernized to Win Youths of Today, He Avers

During tercentenary year, the clergy should revive old New England religion by polishing it up with more color, Prof. R. E. Rogers of Technology and "snob" fame, told a group of Congregational ministers at Pilgrim hall today.

If it isn't polished up and presented in attractive fashion, it will make no impression upon students, particularly Tech students, he said.

"More and more as one reads newspapers they become conscious of what people will read. Preaching today has a great chance. People are not interested in dogma. To preach doctrine is very unfashionable in Boston among Tech students. We should all emphasize social ethics," he said.

"The old-fashioned orthodoxy does not appeal to the Tech students. If you care to teach doctrine, you must make it interesting to a youthful mind and then he may be willing to grasp it and enjoy it. He will not accept a creed in a literal sense. Boys in the dormitories of Tech discuss theology as political leaders at City Hall discuss politics.

"During tercentenary we should revive the old New England religion by polishing it up with more color. Don't give so much social culture or sexology in your churches, but rather give the youth something that he can take hold of and replenish his mind with and keep it there, because he has grasped its meaning."

PARKMAN HEADS G. O. P. CLUB

Henry Parkman, Jr., was re-elected president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts at its annual meeting held in Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple, today.

Governor Allen, in an address to members of the First Baptist Church of Malden, declared that he did not believe in the mollycoddling of prisoners, for, he said, when a man goes to prison he is there because it was necessary to put him there, and therefore he should not be allowed to forget that he is a prisoner.

Missionary Priest Uses Airplane in Alaska

When his bishop got stuck on a sand-bar he was convinced that airplanes could be of beneficial service in the work of missions in Alaska, the Rev. George Woodley, formerly of South Boston, told members of the Propaganda Club at a meeting in the headquarters of the League of Catholic Women.

Once convinced, the bishop allowed Father Woodley leave and he is here learning to pilot a plane. He told his audience that with a plane he could go from one mission to another in 45 minutes instead of the 10 days that would be required with a dog team.

Descendant of Great War Lord Visits Hub

A direct descendant of one of the greatest military genius in the world—here's a great one—great-grandson of Prince Gebhardt Blucher the Prussian general who rushed with reinforcements to Wellington and aided in routing Napoleon in the Battle of Waterloo, has not the slightest desire to emulate his illustrious ancestor.

He is Count H. Blucher of Edfu, Egypt, now in Boston. He made the trip from Egypt to Boston solely to act as best man at the wedding of his former schoolmate in Switzerland, Count Frederick Crote of Germany, who took Miss Isabel D. Smith of Commonwealth ave as his bride a week ago.

Count Blucher smilingly admitted that he probably held the world's traveling record for a best man. He left Egypt Jan. 1, and he says he start back again Feb. 1.

Count Blucher was reticent about discussing his ancestor. Prince Blucher, taking the ground that merely being a direct descendant did not place him in any special category. He much prefers to be known as a landowner in Egypt, where all his interests are.

He has been located in Edfu which is about 100 miles inland from Alexandria, since 1923, going there after completing his education in Switzerland. This is his first trip to this country and his only regret is that he must leave so soon.

GIRL SEER QUIT STOCK MARKET ON HUNCH

Gene Dennis "Got Out From Under" Before Securities Crash Occurred

In spite of the fact that she is so gifted in finding lost pets or misplaced jewelry for other people, and on a moment's notice can inform an anxious young man that his girl really loves him, Miss Gene Dennis can't find anything that she herself has lost nor is she able to see into her own future to determine what is the wisest plan to follow.

SOLD HER STOCKS

But she does have hunches on things which amount to genius. She had one last fall that 50,000 other Americans wish that they might have had. She left the theater about two years ago to go into the market but early last September tired of her work and decided to go back on the stage again. She sold all her holdings and on her way East, about a week later, learned of the first small crash in the market which brought eventual loss to so many speculators.

Then too, she says that she can never remember where she leaves things and is forever losing her pocketbook. She explains her inability to find things for herself or for her very near friends by saying that imagination gets mixed up with her subconscious thoughts.

HUSBAND'S APPEAL

She feels that she has been given a most unusual talent and would like to do something more worth while with it than to find a stolen ring or to locate a wayward husband. And she has almost as many husbands come to ask her not to tell of their philanderings to their wives, as wives to check up on their spouses.

For some time Miss Dennis lived in California where she became a confidante of many of the movie stars who came to her to solve their problems. She came to know such people as Clara Bow, Charlie Chaplin, and Billie Dove and was amazed to find that these famous heart smashers were all more worried by their own love affairs than anything else.

SAYS JURY IS NORMAN IDEA

Taking issue with Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County, who, he said, referred in a recent speech to the trial-by-jury as an Anglo-Saxon institution, Daniel Foley declared before the Common Cause Forum in Franklin Union Hall, that the right to trial-by-jury was incorporated in the Magna Charta by Bishop Stephen Langton at a time when the Norman-French influence was dominant in England and was in direct opposition to the "barbaric Anglo-Saxon method of determining innocence or guilt by the method of ordeal by fire and water."

The incorporation of the right to trial-by-jury in the Magna Charta by Bishop Langton was one of the contributions made by two Catholic bishops to the constitution.

An Extension Telephone In the kitchen

Saves Needless Steps

It's simply another telephone instrument on an extension of your present line.

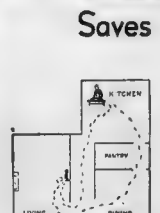
Every morning you'll find your kitchen extension a convenience for telephoning the grocer, the butcher, the tailor, and others. In answering calls, also, you'll find it saves many steps each day.

The cost? About three cents a day, plus a service connection charge of $2.

You can easily arrange for a kitchen extension by calling the "Business Office" and asking for your Service Representative.



You can eliminate these steps, repeated many times daily, by having telephones in other parts of the house.

CURLEY PROPOSES ONE-CENT GASOLINE TAX FOR OLD AGE PENSION

SITUATION SERIOUS, HE SAYS

Declares Unemployment Too Severe a Strain on the City's Finances

In his first appearance on Beacon Hill since his inauguration, Mayor Curley today came out flat-footed for old-age pensions as a cure for unemployment.

Speaking before the Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance, the mayor said old-age pensions would not only relieve the present situation, but serve as a permanent relief because of the increasing tendency in industry to reject men above 45 years of age.

Before launching out on his remarks on old-age pensions, the mayor denounced the present system which required him to come to the Legislature each year to fix the tax limit. He held that the practice was demeaning to a mayor of Boston.

ONE CENT GAS TAX

As a possible means at arriving at an accumulation of funds to finance old age pensions, the mayor suggested raising the gasoline tax from two to three cents. The one cent increase would be laid aside in whole or in part for such a fund.

He estimated that if half the additional cent were set aside for a period of 25 years, millions would be accumulated. Whether it is called socialism or any other name he said, the problem is here and must be faced in a statesmanlike manner.

The speaker frankly said he would prefer to see old-age pensions handled by the federal government.

But he could see little hope for the passage of a federal system and for that reason believed the state should initiate the plan.

From figures he studied last week, he said, he found that in 1926, $1,500,000 had been expended in this work, $1,750,000 in 1928 and that in 1929 the figure had jumped to $2,240,000. More striking than this picture, he stated, was the fact that relief was not given as exclusively to people of extreme old age but to people just above 45 years.

Last week, he said, 600 men reported every day seeking an opportunity to saw wood to get food to keep themselves and their dependents.

CAUSE OF CRIME WAVES

He claimed all crime and sick waves have been associated with periods of unemployment and warned the committee that if men were not given a proper amount of work suicide increased and crime followed.

The department estimates submitted to him, he continued, showed increases of $3,900,000 over actual expenditures of last year. He felt that he might decrease this increase by 50 per cent.

Asked if th removal of the tax limit regulation would make it possible for a mayor to have a budget ready by the last of January, the mayor answered in the affirmative with the exception of the inaugural year.

Says He Stole to Feed Family and Will Pay

Against such extenuating circumstances of poverty as may be woven about an aged mother, a wife and seven hungry children, the fact of John Revasi's larceny of $42 was arrayed in Somerville Court today.

Revasi, of Lexington st., Watertown, told the story to Judge sturtevant, who had before him the charge brought by the Adams Coal & Wood Co.

He was regularly employed by the fuel company until a lay-off late in the fall. Then, in order to keep his family together, he got a job with the same concern, peddling bags of coal and wood from door to door, with a helper provided by the company.

On Dec. 31 he received his load of 200 bags of coal and 50 bags of wood and with his helper set out for East Boston. They hawked fuel until dark, went into a lunchroom and had somethin gto eat.

The helper disappeared. Revasi waited about 40 minutes, he said, then set out alone. The coal yard was closed when all his coal and wood was sold.

He went home to a cold house and found his gas shut off. There was no food for mother, wife or children. He gave his daughter some money, he said, and sent her out for something to eat. That was New Year's eve.

Then he found he had spent so much of the company's money that he couldn't go back there

Judge Sturtevant explained that poverty is no excuse for larceny.

"Can you make any restitution?" he asked.

"I'll make it if I have to sell my shoes for money," said Revasi.

"Well," said the court, "we'll continue the case until next Monday and see what happens in the meantime."

NOW LOVE WILL GUIDE THEM

If a 25-year-old wife recovers from the effects of poison which she swallowed today, she and her husband will try to make good on a resolution to quarrel no more.

The woman is Mrs. Wesley Carr of Roy st., Swampscott. She is at Lynn Hospital, where her name is on the danger list, and her husband is watching prayerfully at her bedside.

According to doctors, Carr's quick action in knocking a partly-drained vial of carbolic acid from his wife's hand and then getting police and to rush her to the hospital, gave her a chance to live.

Carr told Swampscott police that he and his wife had an argument before he went to work and the quarrel was resumed when he arrived home for luncheon.

"She made a threat to take her life which I didn't pay much attention to until she suddenly reached for a bottle, took out the stopper and put it to her lips," he said. "I knocked it from her hand as quickly as I could reach her side."

After first aid was administered at the hospital, Carr sat at the bedside holding his wife's hand, and said they had agreed not to argue any more.

BOSTON LIGHT IN 1789

The General Court of the Bay Colony passed an order for the erection of a lighthouse at the entrance to Boston harbor, June 7, 1715. On August 1 of the same year the proprietors of the town of Hull ceded the island of Little Brewster (or Beacon Island, as it was then called) to the colony.

The committee named to supervise the construction of the lighthouse, on Christmas Day, 1715, designated William Payne and Capt Zaccriah Tuthill to carry on the work.

The lighthouse was completed in the fall of 1716 at a cost of 2385 pounds, 17 shillings, eight pence.

The first keeper, George Worthylake, was voted a salary of 50 pounds a year, payment of which was to begin "when the lights were lit up." His tenure of office was brief as he with his wife and daughter, Ruth, were drowned November 3, 1718.

Three days later Capt. John Hayes was named as keeper of the light. He stayed on the job until 1733, resigning August 22 of that year. The day following Capt. Robert Hall took charge.

The old lighthouse was swept by fire in 1751, but was repaired and did service until it was destroyed in 1776.

During the Revolution the lighthouse was a frequent object of attack by the Colonists. Maj Benjamin Tupper led a party of Minute Men from Milton to Little Brewster July 19, 1775. They burned the woodwork of the lighthouse and destroyed the lantern. The British repaired the damage, only to have their work destroyed on July 31.

Following the evacuation of Boston, March 17, 1776, the British fleet remained in the outer harbor for nearly three months. June 14 of that year the British sailed away, after having destroyed the lighthouse.

Rebuilding of the lighthouse was ordered in 1780 and completed in 1783. It was taken over by the United States Government in 1790.

That building is in part incorporated in the lighthouse now standing. Extensive alterations were made in 1856, and the tower was raised to the height of 98 feet.

COWBOYS AND INJUNS WILL STAGE SCREEN COMEBACK VIA TALKIE ROUTE

WESTERNS SURE TO BE BIG HIT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27—I still say that when western pictures are made right they are a big bet in the talkies. One by one the companies are coming around to the western idea and if you will look over a schedule of their programs you will see that 1930 will have more western thrillers than any year since W. S. Hart and Broncho Billy were the favorite heroes.

Hall Wallis, who is boss supreme at First National, is making arrangements to produce "Under Western Skies," an original by Howard Estabrook, with Clarence Badger directing. Lila Lee plays the gal that all the shooting is about. Lila is finishing at Fox this week. Thank goodness they have changed the title of her picture from "Yonder Grow the Daisies," to "Double Crossroads." Not that that is much of an improvement. Both of them sound like Desperate Desmond, but we must have our melodrama.

REMEMBER Gillette Burgess. He is the writer who immortalized the purple cow in a verse that was so loudly exploited by F. P. A., Heyward Broun and other New York columnists. Well, Mr. Burgess wrote a play called "The Cave Man," and Paramount has lined it up for George Bancroft. Paramount expects to do much for Monsieur Bancroft, who has brought home the bacon, so to speak, and filled the treasury with actual cash George, it is the contention of his friends, is the most profitable movie hero on the map today. There isn't time to discuss this, and hear other arguments, but it is interesting even if others offer a difference of opinion.

MAE BUSCH, cheerful and bright and with 1930 looming ahead pleasantly, telephoned to tell me that she and John Holland will marry as soon as she received her final divorce decree. She already has received her interlocutory decree and is now only waiting the final papers before she becomes Mrs. Holland. Mae has played in a lot of bad luck these last few years, but now everything looks better. She is playing a part in Mary Nolan's picture at Universal. And since Mae is really a good actress, well, we hope all her bad luck is in the past. John Holland is a young actor who came to Hollywood a few years ago and who has had some really good parts in the pictures. He played the male lead in "She Goes to War," and is again featured in Henry King's next picture, "Hell's Harbor."

STEPIN FETCHIT, through one of his friends, telephoned to tell me that I had him all wrong. Stepin isn't temperamental, according to his interpreter. "He is a great artist. He was only out of Columbia an hour when Hal Roach gave him a job in an 'Our Gang' comedy," he said. It is the first time anyone has been featured with the children and it is a great part for Fetchit. When the picture is released it will be electric lighted as "Our Gang With Stepin Fetchit." As far as I can gather most of Stepin's troubles come from his playing his tired scenes too realistically. He wants to play all of them with a yawn. Not so long ago Stepin complained they wouldn't let him yawn so much as the directors thought the effect might be bad on the audience.

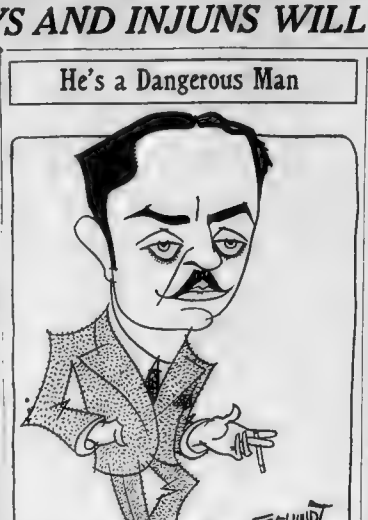
SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Sally Eilers, Marion Nixon and Jeanette Loff giving Rebecca and Silton a farewell luncheon prior to Miss Rebecca's leaving for New York. Pauline Starke doing a little airriding in the Goodyear Zeppelin and at the same time carrying the polo ball autographed by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks to the Hollywood polo grounds for the opening game with the Valley Brook Club. William Haines wearing a beret cap and getting some good-natured razzing from Norma Talmadge, Bebe Daniels and others of his pals. Mrs. Jack Warner keeping up with spring styles by wearing one of the first straw hats of the season. Harold Franklin and Sid Grauman dining at the Roosevelt Hotel. Jack Pickford, out of the hospital, making his first public appearance at the Roosevelt Hotel at dinner. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

"Party Girl" a Hit

"PARTY GIRL" continues to draw the throngs to the Modern and Beacon. This Tiffany production has appeal of theme, of sets, of tuneful music, direction and acting.

The picture, now in its first New England showing, is being exhibited at popular prices, where it is still being shown at $2 top price in other large cities. The film showings are from 9 a m. until 11 p. m., continuously each week day, with screening from 3 p. m. until 11 p. m. Sundays.

He's a Dangerous Man



WILLIAM POWELL

STAFF ARTIST Charles Schmidt has penned "Bad Bill" Powell in one of his devilish moods. He is one of the featured players in "Behind the Makeup," at the Scollay Sq.

STAGE DRAMA AT SCOLLAY

"BEHIND THE MAKEUP," now playing at the Scollay Sq. Olympia, features Hal Skelly, Fay Wray and William Powell, who contribute three sterling characterizations. The picture tells the story of two men and a girl. Skelly is the easy-going comedian, hampered by an inferiority complex. Powell has the part of an artist whose personality soon captures the heart of Miss Wray whom Skelly loves. Skelly and Powell form a vaudeville team. Skelly is overshadowed by Powell. But Miss Wray discovers that Powell's fascination was not really love.

"Behind the Makeup" is a realistic glimpse into the lives of the people who make the laughs on the stage and its scenes include interesting sketches of quaint New Orleans.

Kay Francis and Paul Lukas have important roles. Miss Francis, the sleek brunette of "Gentlemen of the Press," appears as a sophisticated adventuress.

Heading the vaudeville program are Weston and Lyons. Comedy, dances and songs are included in their routine. The Dixie Four call themselves "The Versatile Boys." Dancing is their specialty plus comedy. Marshal Montgomery & Co. present a comedy sketch entitled "At Four Bells."

ANOTHER big RKO week is started at the Keith-Albee. The bill is not only generous but is amusing throughout, with a great deal of real talent and plenty of color, with comedy on stage and screen of a kind calculated to get the laughs. Because of the gala nature of the vaudeville program, the feature film, "Jazz Heaven," becomes a secondary consideration; and yet it provides much mirth, due to that clever comic, Clyde Cook. "Jazz Heaven" is light an whipped cream. It has its theme song, which it comes by rather naturally, inasmuch as it deals with the ups and downs of folk of the song-writing profession, with excursions into other vocations. For love thread, it offers the wooing of Sally O'Neil by John Mack Brown. Nothing Lucy say or do worries the brain, but leave it to Mr. Cook, always a good funster, to give the proto-play a great deal of life. He breaks apart from the lovers and their romance and gallops off with the acting honors.

RADIO fans will be especially interested in this screen offering on account of the sequence showing the interior of a broadcasting station. This is the first time we have seen such a set for a motion picture scene. The station is woven quite nicely into the story, which deals with the efforts of the hero to put across "his big song." About the time that failure seems closest, the heroine drops into the plot; she happens to be the girl living in a room adjoining that of the young composer. Fate having brought them together, Cupid gets to work, and soon the silver lining appears among the clouds.

THE headline stage attraction is Harry Carroll's Revue, which possesses originality in addition to the other essentials for such a production. Being a writer of songs himself, Mr. Carroll contributes some of his own compositions, ably done by his artists. Chief of his stars is Maxine Lewis, comely and capable. There are others who can sing and dance quite well; and the ensemble is very fine. Among the other acts, which make up a stage bill of unusual length and merit, are Junior Durkin, remembered for his work in "College," and his sister, Gertrude; Larry, Harry and Jerry Coe, and Enos Frazere, who offers a gymnastic novelty.

FENWAY HAS "GEN. CRACK"

JOHN BARRYMORE, in "General Crack," is the feature film at the Fenway. Several of the elaborate sequences of the picture are in color. While Barrymore plays the lead with Marion Nixon as leading lady, the cast includes Lowell Sherman, Hobart Bosworth, Armida, Jacqualine Logan, Phillippe de Lacy and scores of others.

The story itself depicts the fiery loves and hates of a youth born of a gypsy princess and a duke. Many battle scenes are presented in the film, while scenes of gypsy life, contrasted to the pomp of the Australian court. "General Crack" abounds in thrills.

McLAGLEN HAS CHASED AFTER ADVENTURE

THE wide world has been a checker-board in the career of Victor McLaglen. He has been farm hand, pugilist, life guard, wrestler, gold miner, soldier and medicine show man. In "Hot For Paris," now at the new B. F. Keith's, McLaglen has a rugged, riotous role as first mate of a windjammer plying between Australia and France. With El Brendel as a buddy, McLaglen gets out for a hot time in Paris, where he loses his heart to a piquant French adventuress, portrayed by Fifi Dorsay. Born in London, McLaglen spent his boyhood in South Africa where his father was a bishop. Victor then fourteen, wanted to join the army but his family prevented him.

Victor McLaglen

His adventures began in earnest when he fled to London and became a member of the Life Guards. Wanderlust next sent the youngster to Canada, where pitching hay and milking cows, exchanging blows in the prize ring, medicine shows, mining all-over and wrestling all comers in vaudeville constituted his career. Hawaii, the Fiji Islands, Tahiti and Australia contributed their quota of excitement. Ceylon and Bombay beckoned and he was on his way. Then came the war; as a lieutenant in the Royal Fusiliers, McLaglen was sent to Mesopotamia. After facing Turks and Arabs he received a captaincy. Later he was made provost marshal of Bagdad.

Says Middle Class Put Over Prohibition

Editor Boston American:

After hearing a speaker define the different make ups in society in Boston, drawing the lines tightly in his address, it was refreshing to have a person from the floor of the hall rise up and say this of society:

"Society is like a pie. There are under and upper crusts. But these do not really matter. It is the filling of the pie that we are to weigh and that filling represents the great middle class.

To that great middle class we owe the putting over of prohibition in this country. Can any one deny this?

Punishments of Old Would Fall Often Today

Editor Boston American:

People 300 years ago, right here in this locality, were punished for lodd offenses. After reading an item in your paper about reproducing the Ducking Stool on Boston Common as a feature of the Tercentenary, I began some investigation of past punishments. They are very interesting to the modern mind.

Scolds and slanderers were not infrequently flogged on Boston Common, being dragged to the whipping post in a cage.

They were whipped for the gift of prophecy, as one poor creature had to suffer for this, without a murmur. One Boston woman had to stand for half an hour with her breast marked, "Public Destroyer of Peace." Another woman was punished for "misbehaving her tongue towards her mother-in-law."

We all would be pinched if we lived in those days, even the traffic officers.

CHARLES L. HANSOM.

Sees Optimism as Boon to Business

Editor Boston American:

While going through the Cambridge subway the other day, I asked a prominent business man how business was. He replied "Wonderful. I was just talking that from him, because I knew his business was not very good.

But he was quite right. I know he was in a hole, but he concealed it. I admire him for it. He will come out of it.

Now, in contrast to this is the business man who never faces a business situation squarely. Successful men at times take to whining. For some reason, conditions have not been right with them. They whine to their friends. Family life turns out to be a jail for every one of the household. Then every one whines. His boys whine, and it passes on through the neighborhood. Optimism is a kind of anodyne for wounded pessimism. Nothing like keeping up your courage. J. K. L.

Curbing of Athletics a Difficult Task

Editor Boston American:

A very few will agree with a statement made lately by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University that college athletics should be radically curbed on the ground that they are too much distraction as they are now conducted.

There is no question but that they are veering on the spectacular and commercial. The college does not really profit by them. Outside agencies have more to do with this phase of the matter than we may at first imagine.

President Lowell leans toward the Greek ideal of physical development, which is undoubtedly not noisy, but the Roman pan of making a spectacle for the multitude is more American, and we are you going to do about it? That appeals to the youth of this generation and you cannot change it with any philosophy from the presidential chair. ALUMNUS.

Believes Evils of Vivisection Should Be Broadcast

Editor Boston American:

A few weeks ago you had a letter from a reader about vivisection. I read it with pleasure and profit. Since then, I have received some pamphlets about the methods of vivisection from people who heard indirectly about my interest in that subject. I also went to the headquarters of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society in Boston, where I was also favored with much information.

The evils of vivisection carried on in this country are not known England is a way ahead of America in this matter. Volumes of literature about vivisection are making known the cruelty of this system. Any one interested in animals or in human beings should have contact with this society in Boston. I had my eyes open to many things going on in the name of science, which do not deserve that title.

Sun Spots Bother This Radio Enthusiast

Editor Boston American:

Activity of the sun as shown by a large number of sun spots is to blame for much of the failure of radio reception, according to Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of the Perkins observatory, Ohio Wesleyan University. What I would like to know is how all this comes about?

These professors give very interesting information, but don't go far enough to explain. I know that there is something the matter with my radio. It blurts out suddenly like a sick cow. I twist and twist, to get things adjusted to stations, but all in vain. I hope that those sun spots will soon be wiped out.

NEW INDICATOR HELPS PILOTS BEAT FOG

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Fog, the terror of the air pilot, is on the skids. Science is finally making inroads into this bugaboo's defenses, and it looks as though it won't be long now.

We received a dispatch from the National Air Transport, mail carriers between New York, Chicago and Dallas, which stated that experiments made with the Sperry Horizon in dense fog, reveal the fact that the pilots can surely fly their ships through thick soup, and still get to their destination on time.

The trouble arises when they get somewhere near their airport, so fog flying is to be done only when radio weather reports show the sky to be somewhat clear at the end of their run, and with a bit of good news such as this, we are immensely cheered up.

The Sperry device promises to revolutionize the art of instrument flying, and will be a big factor in overcoming weather handicaps and eliminating delays in air transportation. When the weather becomes so thick that the pilots "loses the ground," and the horizon fades from sight, the pilot is forced to use his instruments to keep his ship on a course.

Aircraft instruments have been improved tremendously in the past few years, but the advent of the Sperry Horizon is one of the biggest steps forward. Lieut. Jimmie Doolittle used the first Horizon built by Elmer Sperry when he successfully flew blind, in a hooded cockpit at Mitchel Field last summer. This was the start of the present series of experiments carried out by N. A. T. officials

FLIERS LOSE LEVEL

One of the N. A. T. pilots, Paul Kaniut, was forced to jump with his chute some time ago, and after he landed safely, stated that if he only had some means to keep the ship level with the horizon, he would not have had to bail out of the bus.

Which reminds us of the time Frank Crowley was flying the mail to New York and was caught in a dense fog immediately after taking off from Boston. He spun from 1400 feet to within a few feet of the water in the harbor before getting the ship under control, and went into two more spins before getting to Hartford.

He was flying between two cloud layers and could neither see the sky, horizon or earth. It looks as though the Sperry instrument will nearly end all these narrow escapes, to say nothing of the times pilots have been killed by fog blinding them.

Technically, the Sperry horizon is composed of a dial tinted to represent the horizon. Across the dial extends a line which at all times is parallel to the true horizon, in reference to the position to the airplane.

On the face of the dial is painted the likeness of an airplane. When the pilot is forced to resort to instrument flying to keep his ship on a level keel, he can do so by correcting any deviation from a level course so that the line across the dial of the instrument is in correct relation to the tiny airplane on the face of the dial. The mechanism of the device is actuated by a gyroscope, wherein lies the secret of Sperry's invention.

STORY OF AIR RACE

Believing that the readers of the column would like to get the inside story of the winning of the Ford reliability tour by John W. Livingston, the Waco Airplane Co. of Troy, Ohio, tells us that copies of a booklet containing the story may be had by writing the company or the dealers in this territory, Dennison Airplane Sales Corp., Atlantic.

The newest and only flying club in the city of Boston, approximately named the Boston Flying Club held its first meeting the other night, elected officers and voted to incorporate.

According to the plan accepted by the club members, $100 bonds are to be issued, with 50 members set as the limit. A plane will be purchased and flying by April 15.

Antique a Day
—No. 7—

Here is shown an extremely interesting piece of Colonial furniture. It is a pine dresser, undoubtedly of New England origin, and is from a Boston home. The piece has two built-in secret drawers for the hiding of valuables. So skillfully are they set that the most diligent search fails to disclose their whereabouts.

The origin of this piece, and an expert's estimate of its place in history will be printed tomorrow. The dresser is a show-piece in the studio of Owen Rossiter, 33 Newbury st., familiar to many Bostonians from recent exhibits of paintings owned by ex-Governor Fuller held there.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

TRY SIX IN JAIL RIOT SLAYING

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 27 (AP) Six of the seven remaining convicts of the group of 14 who tried to fight their way out of Auburn prison December 11 will go on trial here today on first-degree murder charges for the killing of Henry Sullivan, one of the seven convicts who were killed in the mutiny.

The six are: Jesse Thomas, William Force, Leo Lewis, Claude Udan, Frank Leagan and Albert Cassidy. The state will ask the death penalty for each man.

The other living rioter, Max Recker, New York gunman, is scheduled to be tried February 3 for the murder of Principal Keeper George A. Durnford. His counsel will seek an order for a change of venue from Cayuga County to Rochester today. He claims Recker could not get a fair trial here. A previous plea for a change of venue was refused.

Unusual precautions have been taken to guard against possible rescue attempts by gangster friends of the six men going on trial today and to ensure possible escape attempts of any of the six will fail.

Admiral Kimball Dies

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) Rear Admiral William Wirt Kimball, retired, died here. Interment will be temporarily at Arlington National Cemetery. Later the body will be transferred to Paris, Me., his birthplace.

Again?

The unenlightened woman who still suffers every month, receives little sympathy when she could so easily end those pains with Midol. This merciful medicine is not a narcotic, you know. Nor does it interfere in the slightest with the periodic process peculiar to feminine nature. It does banish the pain—in five to seven minutes. Because it acts directly on organs affected. If taken ahead of time, you may avoid a single uncomfortable moment. Try to realize what a truly wonderful discovery this is; to be made at least one form of suffering quite needless. When every drugstore has these harmless tablets isn't it foolish to be a martyr? Midol costs fifty cents, in metal case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Dearest Anne:

I just met Genevieve, all in a heap of excitement over her prospective winter cruise to the sunny South. I don't know yet whether she was more thrilled over the prospects of the trip, or the stunning new clothes she is getting. Really, there is nothing that will buoy up your poky winter spirits like gay new frocks. Nothing can restore your animation like a flattering new hat, and nothing can revive your self-esteem like the tricks o' beauty that give a rosebush to your cheek, an alluring depth of color to your eyes, and the tint of gold, or jet, or copper to your hair, and so—boasts Molly, "as long as Ann Jo Marblake continues to make her marvelous Hair Color Restorer. I never dreamed there could be such a wonderful preparation, in fact I was not sure that the hair—but actually it brings back the color naturally—it's the hair to its own youthful beauty and lustre without streaking, or "tarring" it with dyes. There are no worry lines, or wrinkles can long withstand the effects of Ann J. Marblake Hair Jelly—or the cream that keeps youth in the skin. These preparations are priced $1 each. Her satin-smooth Quince Cream, 60 cents, will whiten your hands and soften them and protect them all winter from chapping, and the roughness that come from housework. You can buy all these preparations at the S. S. Pierce stores.

I'll Never Be Grey Again

Evelyn Starts a New Year

today—her 8th year of offering to young fashion hunters the best dress values ever, and her prices are $6.95 to $9.95 up. The $9.95 Rack is a special group of Spring new models, regularly valued from $16.50 to $25. There are the sprightliest prints ever brightened a winter wardrobe, fashionable double duty-doing laces and chiffon frocks, with their delectable boleros and sleeves. You could wear them to the opera or afternoon bridge. Flat crepes, gorgeous in their modified lines. A few odds and ends left on the Treasure Rack after the Birthday Sale are priced at $2.95. Chiffon stockings, $1.15; service weight, 95 cents. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St.

Elastic Stockings!

W. H. Phelps carries today the most complete line of elastic stockings in New England. All styles, qualities and prices, and the expert fitting and service you would expect to get from specialists in this line. See the sheer featherweight, flesh color stocking with soft knitted-in top that extends over the knee. Also imported makes, the sheerest and finest made. They rarely quote prices on their regular stock, but if you want low prices, see their special fitted silk elastic stockings, flesh color, with comfort heel, at $3.75 each. Not regularly sized, and some are irregular, but they are real bargains. W. H. Phelps & Co., 38 Tremont St., Hub. 2490.

The Scott Song Shop

Lovable and Sweet!—in her new Scott ocelot coat is the little demoiselle. She is well aware that the soft markings of its fur enhance her dark beauty—that the fluffy border brushing against the rose of her cheeks is flattering to the extreme. In fact, she knows that the many masculine glances turned her way, proclaim her—most lovable and sweet! There is something indefinably alluring about a fur coat—if it is a good one. One feels quite equal to any social emergency when clad in a coat of velvety richness. All the varied Scott Furriers models will give you that superior feeling! In the one and only markdown sale of the year that is now in progress at the Scott Furriers stores, New England's largest fur establishment, you will find remarkable savings of from $50 to $300 on each fur coat. There are three groups to choose from in this many month sale. One at $75; one at $95; one at $125. Fur coats are priced as high as $395 and up. Scott's swagger cloth coats, generously fur trimmed or plainly tailored, range in price from $16.50 up to $149.50. Beautiful fur scarfs, while they may be had from $15 to $195. "Whether You Look or Whether You Listen"

Anne, it doesn't matter whether you are seasonally planning your Opera costume that you must attend—or merely contemplating everything but the superb music, or whether your operatic thrill comes from preening yourself in the marble promenade with the most fashionable formal turn-out in the whole year, there is just one thing you simply cannot go without and that is the new almost-elbow-length gloves! But then, who wants to? They are so new, so smart, so distinguished. And they haven't been to the Opera—or anywhere—in fact yet. They have just made their debut at Filene's, and are the most agreeable glove I've seen. The new eight-button length, which is quite proper for evening with your sleeveless gown, and the right length for afternoon with your short puffed sleeves, and just the smart length for street wear, to wrinkle casually over your cuff. Can you blame me for being an enthusiastic about them? In washable kid they are $6. In suede $8.50, and they come in black. They have but one button at the wrist—but what a button! A huge globe of pearly lustre. Just between you and me—I'm glad glove "have come back"—because "pale hands" aren't always as pale as the poem sung—especially in the winter! So be sure you see these new almost-elbow-length gloves in Filene's Glove Section (street floor).

Why Inhale the Dust

The Rug Knockers they call and deliver in Greater Boston and Providence! All you have to do is telephone them. Their rates just now are exceptionally low, and their results are wonderful. $2.61 for 8.3x10.6 Domestic; $3.24 for 9x12, and 5 cents a square foot for Orientals. Besides flushing out all the dust and grime, Golden Rod shampoo restores a firm "body" to your rugs, and a glowing freshness to their colors. A bouillon, assorted sandwiches, cake and tea—all for 75 cents, with the fortune telling included in the price. It's a bit of Romany—an adventurous woodsy spot with an exotic atmosphere — the Gypsy Tea Shop, at 160 Tremont St., 2nd floor. Open from 11 A. M. to 8 P. M. Tel. Lib. 7485.

Skin Blemishes Removed

Of course we know the wonderful work the electric needle has done in banishing superfluous hair, but now I have discovered a specialist who is having equally successful success removing other facial blemishes, such as warts and moles, in addition to removing superfluous hair. It is Mme Perreau, a registered nurse, who has assisted many leading physicians in this work. She is sure and conscientious, and has the endorsement of many pleased customers. Her process is absolutely safe, and she removes the blemishes without leaving a trace upon the skin. Her prices are quite reasonable, and you may call her for consultation without obligation. Mme. Arseneau, 110 Tremont St., Rm. 321, Lib. 2915.

Almost never, except on rare occasions like the special offering Marvins is making in the genuine lizard and calf pump I've sketched for you. Isn't it stunning? It's one of the newest spring models. The leather is as soft as can be, and the shoe is expertly made and finished. You can have it with leather high heels or Baby Louis—and in medium triple A to C widths. Only Hairlene could have made Jeanette's hair so thick—healthy—and beautiful, Anne. Its a marvelous scalp massage which both men and women are using with delight. When Jeanette brought the wonders it did for her poor, sick hair, she started to say using it, too, and you'd really be surprised at the way his bald spot is vanishing. A few drops of Hairlene massaged into the scalp twice a week conquer dandruff which smooths the hair roots, adjust the oil condition, and feed color-life into fading hair, thus preventing graying. It is sold by the Hairlene Laboratories, 8 Winter St., Boston. You may order by mail or call in person. $1 a 6 oz. bottle; $2 for 16 oz.

ENHANCE LOVELINESS BY DEEP BREATHING

Almost Any Woman Today Can Be Beautiful

By MARIA JERITZA

WE have made a startling discovery in this age—we have learned that any healthy woman with character and a lovely disposition, who makes the most of her appearance and personality, can be beautiful.

Our standards of feminine loveliness are slowly changing. Charm and chic, lovely individuality, the vibrant vitality of a healthy mind in a healthy body, spell beauty today for any woman, regardless of whether she be tall or short, young or old. And the loveliest women of all are those with the light of eager service to others illuminating their faces—women consecrated to unselfishness.

Maria Jeritza

The best and most effective cosmetics are free for all, and foremost among these are sunshine, water and fresh air. I have ranked the most important last.

Fresh air is, or should be, within reach of everyone, night and day, and fresh air, breathed in from the very extreme of the lungs dissipates poisons, keeps the body cleansed, circulation active and the tissue fed with pure blood. This interpreted in terms of your beauty means sparkling eyes, bright color, sheen on the hair, clear skin and bodily symmetry and vitality.

Always sleep at night in a room flooded with fresh air, so that while you relax and rest you will build up your loveliness as well as your strength and refreshed nerves. But avoid a direct draught. This can be managed even in a small room by means of a screen which may be improvised from a draped high-backed chair or other piece of furniture.

And see to it that, although your sleeping room is swept with cool, fresh air, you are warmly covered, comfortable and relaxed in bed. When you awaken in the morning, you can feed your lungs with a hearty meal of fresh air by following the instinct to stretch and yawn to your heart's content, even before you jump out of bed to close the window.

Stand or sit straight, where the air is fresh and pure, and close your eyes. Press your fore-finger closely against your left nostril, completely closing it, then inhale as deeply as you can and expel the air entirely through your right nostril. Next close your right nostril in the same way and breathe deeply through your left nostril. Continue this alternate breathing for three minutes.

A lovely way to mark the "end of a perfect day" is to wrap yourself warmly in your dressing gown, just before you retire, turn off your lights, throw open your window as wide as it will go, and gazing up into the depth of darkness and clouds, bid the stars good-night while you inhale and exhale several times as deeply as you can. This is like giving your entire body a bath of fresh air before you go to sleep and it should also give your spirit fresh rest and inspiration through the beauty and majesty of the night.

Let yourself be lovely—use with gratitude nature's free beauty aids. Breathe deeply night and day of the greatest aid of all to your health, charm and loveliness—fresh air!

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'LL meet up with a great many dangers in 1930—

Aeroplanes, automobiles, epidemics, lettuce, trophies, all those tensions and shocks which go with high pressure living—

Elsie Robinson

But the most dangerous thing, which may happen to you is not one of these—

It is Thought. THOUGHT IS THE MOST TREMENDOUS ADVENTURE THAT CAN BEFALL YOU IN 1930. It is the most dangerous risk to your happiness and contentment and self-respect. It will raise more Cain with your present program than a million skidding cars . . . BUT IT WILL ALSO PROVE THE GREATEST BLESSING IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE TO INVITE IT.

Do these words impress you? Probably not. Doubtless you believe that thought is a very common happening. It isn't. It is, instead, one of the rarest experiences in human life.

Man is supposed to be a "thinking animal." Actually, he's a ruminating animal. He observes . . . he listens . . . he emotes . . . he accumulates impressions and prejudices and memories like a cow accumulates a cud. But seldom . . . SELDOM . . . does he think. Seldom does he try to find out the truth about himself, his neighbor, and the world in which he lives.

And, when he does, he's apt to be sorry. For honest thought will shatter comfort and complacency quicker than dynamite. It will start questions which can never be answered . . . stir up rebellions which may never be quelled . . . and set the man who does it, adrift forever from his peaceful havens.

"Then why, if thought is so difficult and dangerous, should we think?"

The answer is that most of us don't. We pretend to think. We act as if we stood up to the whole situation and knew what it was all about. We issue judgments, opinions and decisions with the ease of Solomon. But, secretly, we resent, dread and discourage thought. And consider thinkers nuts.

From which it would seem that Thought is not going to be the most popular indoor sport in 1930. It isn't. But for those who have the guts to risk it, it will be the most glorious experience in life.

If you think, these things are afire . . . you will be lonely and unpopular . . . you will meet criticism and misunderstanding and ridicule and, sometimes, cruel persecution. And peace and pleasure will be yours no longer—

And sometimes, on your lonely hills, you will see Truth, like a great light . . . and feel yourself uplifted, as on wings!

That will be worth all you have paid!

Before you spreads the New Year . . . like a laden table. Every gift is there . . . and from it you may take almost anything you wish.

Some will make your life rich . . . some will make it happy . . . some will make it powerful, gay, comfortable, exciting, successful.

But amidst them all, there is one gift, seemingly shabby and rough to the touch . . . which is absolutely guaranteed to make you sad—

Yet that one gift alone is worth all the others . . . and will outlast the years. It is thought. Have you the courage to take it?

Impolite to Call Him 'Doc'

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Your services have been a great help to me.

1. Why does it disturb me so to hear my woman friends and acquaintances say, "Doc" this or that of my husband. A friend says that the men do it, so why can't the ladies.

2. When introducing my husband to a woman whom I have just met, or in fact any woman, am I correct in saying "Mrs. Blank, may I present my husband, Dr. Smith?" Or should I just say "Mr."?

Brookline. U. H.

HOW thoroughly I agree with you! I, too, consider the abbreviation of title one of the thoroughly inexcusable details of manners, or lack of them.

I can understand how deeply this bothers you.

2. Since your husband is a doctor you should use the title, although usually it is not necessary to add the surname. However, if it is necessary, in case the woman does not know that your husband is a doctor, then you would say, "my husband, Doctor Smith." In any case, you would not say "Mr."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to ask personal friends where they get their clothes and how much they paid for them?

Malden. EVELYN.

NO, this is always the worst kind of form. Such information can only be volunteered. It is an honor to be asked for, no matter how much one wishes to know. And we are never given this right to ask—no matter how close the friend. Anything that savors of misapplied and unpleasant curiosity—and such questions certainly do—is never in good taste. We should respect the right of our friends to tell us only what they wish to tell us.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.

The Four Graces -:- -:- -:- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"These, as they change, Almighty Father, these, are but the varied God. The rolling year IS FULL OF THEE."

"THE rolling year," graced by Spring, in gauze and fur and flowers, Summer, browned by sun and sea, Autumn in wool of gold and red with a scarf of smoke from fall-fires, and Winter, embroidered in holly-berry and snowy with furs, is made for everyone. You have four Graces to choose from, and no matter whether you are the yearner who prays for blue and gold, or he who asks for sun and wind, who passions for rain and dark skies, who loves the snow and petitions for the sunlit glitter of its icy fields, all of you and any of you have what you love best, one day or another.

The year is "but a varied God," and packed with beauty for every taste. It turns, showing a new and marvelous arrangement of the colors of the great kaleidoscope of nature each hour, each moment. And you and I watch with an awed eye and a grateful heart. Some for the white bear! Rain for the thirsty corn! Sun for the walnuts of California, and your little child and mine! Wind for the flying clouds that play their part. —NELL BRINKLEY.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

say 'Steve' to me! You call me by that fellow's name"—And you get drunk. Drunk as a lord—Gosh, I feel as if I'd never really known you until tonight, Mrs. Nicholson."

Lovejoy closed her eyes.

She tried to close her ears, too. But every now and then something that he said would force its way to her befuddled brain.

"—I didn't want to go to the dogoned party in the first place—"

"I dont like that kind of an evening and that kind of women Drinking women—"

"And I lost eighteen dollars that I couldn't afford to lose—"

"Hire a hall," Lovejoy broke in without opening her eyes. "Hire yourself a free big beautiful hall and a couple of audiences, will you? —And then please go away and let me sleep, Billy Sunday!"

The kind of sun that shines only on Indian summer days was shining when Lovejoy opened her heavy eyes the next morning.

But both of the windows were shut tight, and the air in the room was stale and thick.

She sat up in bed and looked over at Tom's bed. He was sound asleep, his hands clasped under his dark head.

"Tom! Wake up!" Lovejoy called softly to him. "It's eleven o'clock!"

It was ten minutes past, according to the little green enamel alarm clock on the dressing table. . . . What would Norrie Shane think of them both, sleeping like this and letting her look after the baby and get her own breakfast.

There was a faint smell of fresh coffee in the room

"Smell the coffee?" Lovejoy asked as Tom's eyes opened. "I'm going to shriek to Norrie to bring us some—"

Shrieking her aching head between her hands she got out of bed

"Norrie!" she called, opening the bedroom door. "Norrie!—Get any coffee that we could have in here?"

She could hear newspapers rustling in the living room. Then Norrie answered.

"I've a tray all ready for you! I'll bring it!"

Lovejoy yawned as she started back to bed, and the sudden movement made a fierce pain run through her neck and jaws.

"Jiminy, but I feel low this morning," she said to Tom.

"You look it," he answered shortly. She walked over to her mirror and peered into it. The indelible lipstick of last night made her mouth look like a gash in her face. The scarlet rouge stood out in two round dabs on her cheek bones

There were puffs under her eyes and the lids were dark.

She tried to laugh. But she couldn't.

"I never dreamed that I could look like this!" she cried, clapping one hand to her painted mouth

She always had been as fresh as a flower in the morning, after the hot soapy bath that she took every night of her life. Fresh and sweet and sweet-smelling.

"I have a dark-brown taste in my mouth, haven't you?" she asked Tom, who lay watching her.

He nodded. "Anybody who drinks has," he said as she started for the bathroom and the toothbrush rack

"Open those windows before you go, will you?" he asked.

She shook her tousled red-gold head

"Who was your body-servant last year?" she asked as she marched out of the room . . . It had all come back to her suddenly. Last night, Mary Mont, with her head on Tom's shoulder. The scolding that Tom had given her when they got home—

"He can't read me, and then expect me to wait on him!" she told her reflection in the bathroom mirror as she scrubbed the taste of Bacardi rum out of her pretty mouth.

She meant it, too!

Norrie was in the bedroom when she walked back into it

She was all in stiff crackling white, and her hair was smooth and her face was flushed

She was standing beside Tom's bed, setting the tray down beside him and listening with her shy quiet gravity to something that he was saying to her.

Lovejoy listened, too.

"Norie," he was saying, "you sure are a sight for sore eyes"

"You mean because she's brought the coffee?" asked Lovejoy sharply. "Or because you think she looks better than I do?"

"She looks a heap better than you do—if that's what you're asking me," Tom answered bluntly.

Let Your Boy Make Own Valentines

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

THERE are a lot of people in this world who never harm anyone. They are what I call "passively good." Yet I can count on one hand the friends who are what I call "actively good," the people who remember your little likes and dislikes, the people who do the little thoughtful things, the things which warm your heart and make you feel that life is good after all.

And they are not great big, heroic deeds. They are just the simple little notes of thanks, the unexpected birthday card, the little gestures which show a nature turned outward toward society, not inward on selfishness and desires of self.

Surely the world would be a great deal happier if there were more of these people, and surely it is a characteristic which can be inculcated into our children which will bring them happiness and help them give happiness to others.

I love Saint Valentine's Day, and I think this is because it was always such a happy day when I was a child. Money was the thing around our house that there was the least of—thank goodness!

Little things we made each other, little cakes we stirred up, little flowers we gathered in summer time and bedecked the table with all constituted anniversaries or birthday parties, and such happy ones. And on Valentine's Day! Oh my, but I was a busy individual.

Mother started the day by dressing me, of course, and this, although I always knew just what to expect, never lost its excitement or joy. For in each sleeve, in the pocket, in each stocking and shoe was a note—just a plain note written by my mother, made up of the old-fashioned poetry, such as "Roses are red, violets are blue, you love me and I love you," and so on. But I loved them.

Then after breakfast I started my serious business of making valentines. Plain white paper, plain red paper, a pattern of a heart, a pencil, and white squares I pasted the hearts on in different patterns for hours at a time.

Then in the afternoon I put the valentines in a basket and we started out, slipping one under the door of each friend, which included, I remember, a negro down the alley, my grandmother, the family dentist and our landlady, who had nine children, but who had never gotten a valentine until I gave her one.

A heterogeneous collection of folks, to be sure, but it is surprising the happiness a bit of paper given by a little child can bring to older people who feel that romance has gone and that valentines will have no more.

And I remember that Mother always had me try to think of someone who would be very surprised to get one, some old person or sick person who didn't expect the Saint to drop any more. Surely this was one of my first lessons in looking outward to the happiness of others and it is one I value.

Let your little child make simple valentines and distribute them It will bring him pleasure and bring pleasure to others, and incidentally it will be a valuable lesson on doing the graceful thing, the little unexpected kindness which will put him in the "actively good" class.

The Real Truth

ABOUT A BEAUTIFUL NECK

By ELINOR GLYN

WHILE I was selecting girls for the small parts of the "talkie" I have just finished, I was surprised to find how many of them have stiff muscles round the shoulders and neck, even if they are dancers.

Elinor Glyn.

Now for the new feminine fashions completes supplement a necessary to give willowy grace. Every arm should be as a bit of new elastic, and every muscle under control.

So I would suggest neck exercises, girls, to insure the thinnest of you against showing "salt cellars."

Turn the head around as far as it will go each way as many times as you can each morning, and then try to touch your ear to the shoulder, first the right one, then the left, keeping the shoulders steady and making the bends to them, not raising the shoulder to the ears.

If you have the slightest tendency to rheumatism this will not be quite easy at first.

Then the shoulder blades should be noticed. If they stick out because you have stooped, girls, exercise the shoulder muscles until your back is beautiful and flat. And above all you must keep your heads up; do not crouch when you sit, nor butt your head forward when you stand And have no poses and mannerisms.

Try to walk with ease and grace All that did not so much matter when to look like a boy was everyones ambition, but now that you must give the impression of tender womanhood, you must realize that grace is absolutely essential.

The tomboy mode is dead!

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

The young son came running into the house and, dashing over to the bookcase, began throwing volumes right and left.

"Where's that book telling how to swim?" he cried.

"What do you want with it?" "Pop needs it—he just fell in the sewer!"

About the Moral Sense

By LOUIS E. BISH, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

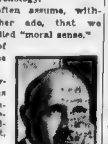
PERSONS often assume, without further ado, that we possess a so-called "moral sense."

They think of this moral sense as an instinct.

Normal, law-abiding citizens possess this instinct and behave in accordance with it, they say.

Delinquents and criminals, on the other hand, are, according to the theory, partly or wholly deficient in moral sense

The assumption of a moral sense is a simple and easy way of getting out of a difficult and complex problem.



Dr. L. E. Bisch

That such a distinct separate faculty exists does not, however, seem plausible

Moral conduct is conditioned, so far as we know, by many factors

Part of our moral behavior is the direct outcome of heredity—of the moral conduct of our ancestors

Part of it is the result of our early training in childhood, including religious concepts

Part of our morals is the result of circumstances

And lastly, part of it comes from a reaching and towering from within ourselves in a way that defies location, description and explanation.

All men and women are, indeed, not born equal.

There will be persons who will always react differently to a given moral situation.

Certain fairly definite limits beyond which no individual should dare must, of course, be set down for the benefit of society as well as for the individual himself.

Moral standards are absolutely essential to the well-being of any social group.

But it is difficult to prescribe moral education when the whole concept of morality is so involved by many diverse factors.

It would help if there were such a thing as a distinct and readily-recognized moral sense.

Unfortunately, however, the existence of such a distinct entity does not seem to be.

What are modern parents to do, then?

On what should they depend in trying to keep their children moral?

What standards should father and mother adopt in the training of their children when the standards are not so clearly defined nor as strictly drawn as in former years?

In the first place, and without question, the parents themselves should be moral and not present a front of laxity as so often is the case these days.

If, for example, a mother believes that smoking leads to immorality when practiced by the young, she should not herself smoke like a chimney if she would have her own daughter refrain.

Nor should the pendulum be swung too far in the other direction, so that the girls and boys are led to think of their elders only in terms of what is old-fashioned, unnecessarily strict and completely out of date.

The best standards are the common-sense ones, the kinds that have always been effective, those for which a distinct moral sense is not even necessary—simply ordinary intelligence.

It pays to be moral. Fundamentally, one is happier that way.

Just explain that thoroughly to the growing boys and girls and it will not be necessary to use threats to keep them straight nor to inspire them with fear in order to lead decent self-respecting lives.

Children Cling to the Old

By LUCY LOWELL

IT is nature to cling to the known and tried and to suspect and fear the unknown.

The belief that there is safety in old established things is instinctive; the urged to explore is an acquired state of consciousness which comes about with the broadening influence of education.

You see this strikingly exemplified in children called "backward"—that is, children without sufficient of the exploring impulse to push their minds out of the safe and therefore satisfactory limitations of babyhood and into the demands of childhood. They are not backward actually; they are merely stationary, but because the law of life is progress what does not move forward seems to retrogress.

Even normal children show a tendency to repudiate the new for the old when it becomes apparent to them that going forward means the responsibility of lessons to be learned, duties to be discharged—hazards—as opposed to the complete freedom of babyhood.

This instinct is overcome in large measure when boys and girls, growing to men and women, learn that only by turning from the safety of the old and accepting the uncertainty of the new is progress realized. The willingness to take a chance, to win or fail but always to keep going—this is the spirit which wins success.

NEW BUILDING SHOWS STEADY BETTERMENT

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Figures on new contracts awarded for building have been disappointing for several weeks but are now showing a steady improvement, according to latest reports. For the week ended Jan. 25, for example, F. W. Dodge compilation gives the New England total as $3,628,300. This compares with the weekly average for the year to date of $3,538,700. Comparatively small totals are common at this season and the past quarter century have failed to show good gains as spring drew near. Building awards are one of the most watched barometers of industry.

The experts express conflicting ideas on what caused the big crash in the stock market, agreeing no better than the "little fellows." We pointed out Saturday in this column, that "another Boston speaker during the week gave it as his opinion that the break in the financial dam was started by the decision of the Massachusetts Public Utilities in the famous Edison case. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale said he thought the debacle was started by crashes overseas, brought about by the Hatry swindle."

BENJAMIN A. FRANKLIN

placed much of the blame on the too great volume of new financing, recalling the old explanation of "undigested securities." Col. Benjamin A. Franklin, president of Associated Industries of Massachusetts, has still another explanation.

* * *

Col. Franklin finds the "big blow" was caused, not by overproduction, but by speculation. Happily, the recovery has been beyond expectations of many of our economic observers, and is still under way both in business and in the stock market. Col Franklin believes future prosperity can be insured on the part of leaders, and sets an able example for other executives.

* * *

Secretary George A. Rich of the Boston Stock Exchange tells me the 1930 directory showing the list of members, together with their length of membership, etc., is expected to appear around February 1.

The statement that Pliny Sewell, former president of the Investment Bankers Assn., is the only former newspaper man on the Boston Stock Exchange is hardly accurate. Secretary Rich, who owns a seat, is a former newspaper man, and Leon E. Merchant, the exchange's newest member, was for years a financial editor.

We are told that Waldorf, which earned over a million last year, is planning a vigorous invasion of New York. The drop in coffee, butter and eggs has helped Waldorf.

Criticism of a proposed legislative inquiry into Boston Elevated needs is criticised in State st. on the ground that the Commonwealth already maintains an able board in charge of operations, etc. One of the members of this board is probably the best informed man in Massachusetts on street railway needs in general, having studied operations in every big city in the country before assuming his office.

Comparing stock stability, the "L" shows up much better than the Eastern Massachusetts for the past year.

Many favorable comments are to be heard in State Street of Mayor Curley's action in appointing John J. Martin, president of the Exchange Trust to the park board. President Martin's early training in the real estate field certainly gave him an understanding of the needs of this municipal office such as few others can justly claim.

* * *

The move to draft leaders in business and finance for important positions instead of mere politicians has been under way by constructive leaders for several months. The difficulty of carrying it to its proper extent lies in getting the business and financial leaders to accept the added burdens.

RECOVERY IN STOCK MARKET IS RESUMED

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—The recovery in the stock market, which started last week and lifted the general level of prices out of the narrow trading area within which they had been fluctuating since before Christmas, was resumed after an early period of irregularity today.

New leaders, particularly in the steel, copper and food groups, were brought forward by operators for the advance when heavy profit-taking retarded the rise in some of the recent favorites.

While there was no tangible developments in the day's news to affect the price movement, buying operations in many issues were based on the theory that the recent upturn in steel operations presaged a general recovery in business by spring. Call money repeated the familiar performance of opening at 4½ and then dropping to 4 when a plentiful supply of funds made its appearance in the market.

MONTGOMERY RALLIES

Montgomery Ward fell 3⅝ points to 40⅝ on the poor 1929 earnings reports, which was blamed on the pre-payment of parcel post policy adopted in the middle of the year, but rallied to 42¼ in the early afternoon under the impetus of short coving. Sears Roebuck reacted 2 points to 87 and then snapped back to 93. J. I. Case, Auburn Auto and U. S. Industrial Alcohol sold 3½ points to a 5 points lower before they met effective buying support.

Goodyear Rubber, which is expected to show around $90 a share despite heavy inventory charge-offs, in its annual report to be published next month, was run up 5 points. F. G. Shattuck advanced more than 3 points on reports of a large expansion program for 1930. Beechnut Packing advanced 4 points and National Biscuit (old) sold at least two points higher.

STEELS WIN FOLLOWING

Steels, particularly of the specialty varity, attracted a large following. U. S. Steel common after opening unchanged at 179, sold down a point and then rallied above 180. Inland Steel was marked up 5 points and Vanadium 4½.

International Combustion preferred, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Western Union, Westinghouse Electric first preferred and the American Tobacco issues sold 3 to 5 points higher.

Although most of the recent railroad earning reports have made disappointing comparisons with the corresponding period of a year before, there was a good demand for some of the high-grade railroad shares. New York & Harlem jumped 10 points in odd lot transactions, Atchison was marked up at least 3 points and St. Louis Southwestern and "Nickel Plate" were among the issues to advance 2 points or more.

Coppers started upward in the early afternoon, Anaconda, Kennecott, Granby and Calumet & Arizona being quickly marked up 1 to 2 points.

One block of 25,000 shares of Chrysler Motors changed hands at 36, up ⅛.

Heavy profit taking sales in the last hour brought about recessions of 2 or 3 points from the earlier high levels in such stocks as American Telephone, Columbian Carbon, Johns Manville, U. S. Steel common and Fox Film.

Increasing activities in the public utilities was noted under the leadership of Public Service of New Jersey and there also was a good demand for the insurance stocks.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 3,100,000 shares.

STEEL MERGER TERMS GIVEN

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—The New York Evening Post says today htat capitalization of the new $350,000,000 Republic Steel Corporation, organized by Cyrus Eaton to merge four Middle West steel companies, will consist of approximately 2,000,000 no-par common shares, $55,000,000 in 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock, and $60,000,000 in underlying debt.

Official announcement of the merger terms is expected late today by Otis & Co., investment bankers, who head the banking group organized to underwrite the exchange of securities.

There will be no bond issue and no increase in the funded debt of the companies being brought together. No immediate public offering of securities is planned.

The units of the merger are the Republic Iron & Steel Company, Central Alloy Steel Corporation, Bourne-Fuller Company and the Donner Steel Company, Inc. Wall Street expects that Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company and Inland Steel Comapny will eventually form part of the new combine.

Candy Company's Profits Are Larger

New York, Jan. 27—Sweets Co. of America reports for year ended Dec. 31 net profit of $121,748 after depreciation, charges and federal taxes, equal to $1.21 a share (par $50) on 100,000 shares, against $106,661, or $1.06 a share, in 1928.

SUGAR MELTINGS

Sugar melt of 15 United States refiners from Jan. 1 to Jan. 18 was 200,000 long tons, against 195,000 in the like 1929 period. Deliveries totaled 195,000 long tons, against 170,000.

Wall Street Is Migrating to Playgrounds

Expect Present Lull Will Be Brief; Morgan's Advice Timely

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Wall Street has adjourned to Palm Beach, to world cruises, to the shores of the Mediterranean and to other places where sports, not stocks, merry-making, not money-making prevail. Now is considered the ideal time to go vacationing without fear that things will boil over in the financial world. Many bankers, brokers, stock operators and others feel that another such opportunity may not come soon. You would be astonished to know how widespread the belief is that Wall Street activity will revive in the near future and become quite lively before 1930 ends. At that, this expectation may be fulfilled. The stock market couldn't well be deader than it has been lately. Such dealings as have been witnessed have been mainly between professional traders. Orders from the public are mostly on the buying side.

Why is this? Railway presidents nearly all tell me that there has been no appreciable increase, but in many cases decreases, in the number of their shareholders during the last 12 months, whereas the gain revealed by presidents of industrial and utility corporations are, in many instances, quite extraordinary.

Again, decreases rather than increases have been the rule among holders of preferred stocks. Common shares of non-railroad companies have easily led in popularity.

Is it that the railroads have been attracting "bigger and better" stockholders? Or is it that the public expect that other stocks will do better than rails when the recovery sets in? They may be right.

The London Stock Exchange and its ways are a century behind the times. It prizes tradition; Wall Street prizes business.

No member of the London Stock Exchange is allowed to advertise in any form whatsoever. Neither must he allow a salesman to call, nor must he send out even a circular to endeavor to secure new customers. It isn't quite cricket, don't y'know, to approach any old top to whom you haven't been properly introduced!

Several American firms, discovering how totally uncultivated the British investment field was, opened offices and started to make things hum. They quickly were requested to read Rule Such-and-such of the Stock Exchange's regulations, which, of course, prohibited doing anything calculated to build up business. One New York Stock Exchange firm damned Rule Such-and-such and went full steam ahead. Shocked, the dignitaries of the London Exchange solemnly notified all its members that they must under no consideration do any business with or for this flagrant Yankee smasher of the ancient institution's ancient traditions.

Even so, American banking and brokerage houses have established branches in London and succeeded in finding ways and means of earning profits.

Charles M. Thomsen, recently elected president of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Co., in succession to his 80-year-old father, Moritz Thomsen, now chairman, told me while in New York this week, that the Orient has developed a great liking for American crackers. His company's shipments to China, Japan and Manila last year reached $250,000. The yellow races have also developed a sweet tooth, and now are buying enormous quantities of candy, mostly hard candy.

Young Mr. Thomsen—who has just been made a director of the National Bank of Commerce, Seattle—finds that, notwithstanding the so-called war in China, the purchasing power throughout the Orient is steadily expanding. He states that another company in which he is interested is rapidly increasing exports of sanitary supplies, indicating that civilization is on the upgrade. Like Robert Dollar, Mr. Thomsen visions almost limitless commerce between the Pacific and the Orient in coming years.

Commenting on a recent paragraph regarding the piano industry, Gordon Laughead, of the Wurlitzer Grand Piano Company, writes that "the annual sales of grand pianos have shown an increase each year." While the radio naturally affected the piano business, he states: "Some of us are quite optimistic that within a year or so the tide will turn in favor of moderate-priced electrically pumped instruments. The public are very fickle in their selection of home musical entertainment." He names various piano companies that are enjoying prosperity.

The late J. P. Morgan's advice: "Don't sell the United States short," is particularly worth remembering at this time.

CURB MARKET HIGHER

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—The level of Curb prices was generally higher today. With a few exceptions, however, advances were narrow and traders seemed content to proceed rather slowly.

The star performer was Deere, which soared 45 points on a succession of odd lot purchases following announcement that the company's 1929 earnings had been more than $68 a share. Tubize Artificial Silk B advanced 3 points.

Utilities edged upward. Commonwealth Edison rose 28 points on a few sales, but the majority made only fractional progress. American Superpower sold up a point, but lost part of its gain. Middle West Utilities had a similar gain, and there was fair support for Electric Bond & Share, Associated Gas & Electric & American Gas & Electric, United Light & Power and United Gas.

Investment and finance company shares, which last week made the best showing since the October-November break, were steady. Insull fallied nearly 2 points, but its strength as exceptional, and the group as a whole hovered around last Saturday's closing prices. Public Utility Holding made another rise, which carried it to 19⅞.

Oils tended higher, although last week's production figures for the California field showed an increase. Gulf mounted nearly 3 points and Humble advanced 1.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27—The merger of Integrity Trust Co. and Market Street Title & Trust Co., with combined resources of $89,000,000, has been approved by the boards of both institutions.

Calif. Oil Output Larger for Week

New York, Jan. 27—Crude oil production in California for the week ending January 25 averaged 708,000 barrels daily, an increase of 5200 over the previous week.

Hudson Motor Car

Hudson Motor Car Co. for 1929 reports net of $11,594,855 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $7.26 a share on 1,596,660 no-par shares of common, against $13,363 or $8.48 a share in 1928.

BOND MARKET SHOWS A FAIR BETTERMENT

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—A fair degree of improvement was shown by listed bonds today. Rails and utilities shook off some of their lethargy, suggesting that assimilation of the new financing had progressed to a point where attention would be shifted back to seasoned securities. United States governments were firm and rather active.

Gains of about half a point resulted from buying inquiry for American Telephone collateral 5s and debenture 5s, 1960, Consumers Power 5s, Utah Power & Light 5s and two or three other utilities.

In the rail group, Nickel Plate 4½s and Lake Shore 3½s sold up sharply on small orders. There was a larger accumulation in Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, the new Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Wabash 5½s and Louisville & Nashville 4s. Pennsylvania General 4½s moved against the generally firm trend of the high-grade carriers, selling off nearly a point.

Industrials were mixed. Illinois Steel 4½s yielded another half point, while in the low priced group, Certainteed 5½s lost more than 2 and Fisk Rubber 8s about a point. North American Cement 6½s advanced 1.

The convertibles were slightly irregular. American Telephone 4½s rose 2 points with the stock and Atchison 4½s gained a point before selling off. International Telephone 4½s were heavy.

The firmness of foreign bonds was again apparent. French 7½s, Italian 7s, German 7s, City of Rome 6½s and Kingdom of Denmark 6s added small fractions to last week's gains, but Australian 5s showed further softness. The 1955 maturity sold down to 90, its 1929 low.

New bond financing was comparatively light. A $10,000,000 Central Gas & Electric issue of three-year 5½ per cent gold notes was marketed at 98¾, while Iowa Public Service Company sold $1,000,000 in first mortgage 30-year 5½s at 98½.

GOOD BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The business outlook has improved considerably since the beginning of the year, states the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published today.

"It has become clear that, although industrial operations continued to decline in December, even with allowance for the usual seasonal let-down due to the holidays and the inventory period, the revival in the last few weeks has been at least as prompt and vigorous as was generally expected." The Survey continues. "This recovery is, of course, mainly seasonal in character; but it has been sufficiently marked to warrant a more optimistic attitude than was possible a month ago.

"The tangible signs of improvement are confined mostly to industrial operations. Perhaps the outstanding development in this connection is the increase in demand for and output of steel, which was foreshadowed by the large gain in unfilled orders last month. The report for the first week of January was rather disappointing, with weakness shown both in production and in prices.

"As regards the rate of output, this tendency has been reversed in the last few weeks. Construction contracts awarded since the beginning of the year have also been in encouraging volume, the daily average being much larger than in December and nearly equal to that of a year ago.

Such reports as these have been made the basis for predictions that an immediate business revival is in prospect, with perhaps another recession in the next few months, and a slower and more sustained recovery later. Although such a trend is by no means without precedent, the upward movement since the first of January, encouraging as it is, has been hardly general enough to warrant a very confident expectation of imminent expansion in business at large.

"Credit conditions certainly present no serious obstacle to business expansion, at any rate in the chief industrial centers.

"The outward movement of gold, which reached very large proportions in the last two months of 1929, continued in the first week of January, but at a greatly reduced rate; and in the following week no shipments of any consequence took place, while there was an actual gain in the gold stock through a reduction in the amount held under ear-mark for foreign account. Thus far, considerably less than half of the gold that entered the country during the first 10 months of 1929 has been re-exported. The suspension of gold exports has probably had some influence on the money market for the time being, but it is not to be assumed that it marks the end of the current export movement."

Option Extended

Procter & Gamble Co. have extended the option to J. P. Morgan & Co., which permits purchase of 90,000 common shares at $80 a share to August 2 from February 13, according to Herbert G. French vice-president of Procter & Gamble Co.

FIND BANKING BY GROUPS IS LARGE

Over 1850 banks with more than thirteen billion dollars in resources are shown to be associated with chain or group banking systems in the United States in facts recently gathered by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association.

The chairman of the commission, R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, pointed out that the facts indicate that "almost 7½ per cent of our banks and over 18 per cent of our banking resources are in the great net of group or chain banking that now covers almost every part of the country."

The commission's facts comprised chain and group banking affiliations in the broadest sense of the term, the report said. They included those groups in which the controlling element was a particular bank, there being reported 78 instances of this class involving 407 banks and about $6,473,000,000 in combined banking resources.

They included also groups in which a non-banking holding company, not subsidiary to any particular bank, was in control and of this class 28 instances were found, involving 380 banks and nearly $5,335,000,000 in resources. The report also included groupings in which control was exercised by individual persons and these cases numbered 167, involving 1071 banks and about $1,468,000,000 in assets.

The total was over $13,275,000,000 in aggregate resources. Some of the systems comprised 50 to 100 banks each. Head offices of the groups were found in all jurisdictions but nine of the states and the District of Columbia.

"We have not included in these figures," the report says, "banking groups in which a commercial bank, a trust company and an investment house, and sometimes a savings bank, are tied together by some form of stock holdings and operated as complementary elements in an organization rendering complete financial services. We have held that such groups are similar to a departmentalized bank and different in the purposes and operations from a chain or group banking system.

"For purposes of the present report we define chain or group banks as systems in which centralized control, whether corporate or personal and either rigid or informal, directs the operations of two or more complete banks, not functionally complementary, each working on its own capital and under its own personnel and located in one or more cities or states."

Ward Baking's "A" Shares Earn $8.47

Pamphlet report of Ward Baking Corp. for year ended Dec. 28, shows net of $3,124,413 after interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., the same as in preliminary statement, equivalent after $2,156,057 dividends on 7 per cent preferred to $8.47 a share on 86,275 no-par shares on Class A common and 47 cents on 500,000 no-par shares of Class B common.

Based on dividend requirements on the reduced number of 300,064 shares of 7 per cent preferred outstanding at close of year, 1929 earnings equal $8.57 a share on Class A and 57 cents on Class B common, against $3,293,542 in year ended Dec. 29, 1928, equal to $8.71 a share on Class A and 71 cents on Class B. After Class A receives non-cumulative dividends of $8 per annum, it shares equally with Class B in any further distribution.

Profit Made Each Month in Twelve

Chicago, Jan. 27—Chairman Fred L. Flanders reports that the Muskegon Motor Securities Co. operated at a substantial profit during every month of 1929. In December, which is usually known as the company's slowest month, profits were at the rate of twice the dividend requirements on the Class "A" stock.

The annual report, which is expected to be issued shortly, will show profit of approximately $550,000 after all charges, including taxes. This amount is more than four times the dividend requirements on the 62,500 shares of Class "A" stock, which pays $2 annually.

Earns $1,639,365

For the half year ended Dec. 31, net profit of Sparks Withington Corp. was $1,639,365 after taxes and charges.

LEAGUE PARLEY SHOULD SET DRUG LIMIT

By WINIFRED BLACK

San Francisco, Jan. 27—The League of Nations committee on "dope" is getting into full swing in Geneva.

From meagre inklings that are beginning to dribble through from the conference-like dubious drippings from a faucet which needs attention from a good practical plumber—the "swing" is the same old swing.

They all seem to be there—the old familiar faces and the old familiar ways.

Sir Malcolm Delavigne, the delegate from England, made his usual humane and entirely delightful speech on the wicked ways of the opium traffic.

Sir Malcolm Delavigne hates the very sound of the word opium and he says so in the plainest of plain English every time he gets a chance.

The last time he said so in a meeting of the dope conference—the committee on resolutions on the very next day handed in the resolutions with the paragraph relating to the limitation of "dope" left out—and left out by the 'mistake" of the British delegation.

ADJOURNS FOR TEA

Signor Cavazzoni, the delegate from Italy, was astounded and shocked—and he said so without the slightest hesitation.

Did the conference pay the faintest attention to the Italian delegate's courageous protest?

Not at all. The convention adjourned for tea, and when the sessions met again there was no more fuss about the British "forgetfulness' or about the Italian delegate's protest either.

And really, who can doubt Sir Malcom's genuine belief in the idea that narcotic manufacture should be limited when the British government limits not only the manufacture, but the sale of opium, and limits it right in India where most of the opium is produced.

To be sure the limit is pretty high—any one person can buy 180 grains of opium in one day at any one opium shop in India—rather a large order when you come to think of it.

To the American mind this sort of limitation sounds a good deal like a law limiting the sale of pistols so that no person under 18 can buy more than ten pistols a day.

CODEINE IMPORTANT

Now there's the little matter of codeine, for instance.

Codeine is one of the deadliest drugs ever manufactured anywhere on earth. It is seldom used in legitimate medical practice, but codeine flows like a river from one country to the other—it is neither accounted for nor recorded.

It is not a derivative of opium.

Sounds innocent doesn't it?

But it is a derivative of morphine and morphine is made from opium and is one of the most dangerous forms of the drug.

Germany makes 20 tons of morphine a year and turns 70 per cent of it into codeine.

England makes 50 per cent of morphine into codeine every year.

Switzerland turns 30 per cent of the Swiss morphine into codeine and it is easy to prove by actual facts and actual figures that 60 tons of morphine are made every year in Europe and the British Isles.

Figure it out for yourself—it's rather amusing if you are fond of smiling at the winning little ways of people who want to make fortunes out of the misery and degradation of the human family.

Thirty tons of codeine made every year and sent from country to country as easily as so much bi-carbonate of soda or so much plan, everyday table salt.

NO LEGITIMATE USE

Thirty tons—and no legitimate use anywhere on earth for even one pound of this appalling stuff that turns men and women into vicious degraded and helpless beasts.

What is the League of Nations committee on dope going to do about codeine?

Lets watch and see.

And lets see what the committee does about limiting the manufacture of cocaine and heroin, too.

The best physicians in America used heroin when it was first manufactured and they used cocaine too, in the legitimate practice of medicine.

We may be surprised and just the least bit shocked if they do and say exactly nothing at all about anything which is of the least importance in dealing with this danger that threatens the entire world.

"See nothing, hear nothing, say nothing"—that is an excellent motto for the odd little toy monkeys we see for sale in the odd little shops.

What possible excuse is there for the manufacture of such dangerous and vitiating drugs anywhere, anyhow, for any reason or at any price.

Lets see what the League of Nations committee on dope will say to this question in the conference at Geneva.

Soviet Blames U. S. for Mexico Break

Moscow, Jan. 27 (INS)—The Mexican minister and the others of his legation asked for and received their passports today.

In commenting on the diplomatic break between Mexico and the Soviets, Izvestia, the official organ of the central executive committee caustically declared the United States which "controls Mexico" was responsible for the break, taking this method as a reprisal for the haughty Soviet reply to Secretary of State Stimson's note last November.

And so it goes, day in, day out—
You mutter, mumble, jig and shout
And turn your spirits inside out

WOMAN BALKS DRY TIPSTER'S CHARGE

Salinas, Cal., Jan. 27—Mrs. Sue Brown has struck a smashing blow at her accusers.

A few words from her lips and down went the whole fantastic structure of the district-attorney's prize prohibition case.

Leaning back there in a rocking chair before the fireplace in her little home, her face still drawn and pale from her recent ordeal, she said:

"Mr. Patton didn't tell the truth.

"He swore that he bought beer in our home on December 15, when we had never even met him at that time, and I can prove it. He was never inside our house until the following Saturday, December 21. He came here with Harry Stanley, a neighbor of ours. The reason I recall the date so well is that it was just before Christmas and he was telling us how his wife was down visiting her folks at Modesto, and he intended driving down after her. Mr. Stanley had already eaten dinner, but Mr. Patton had not, so we invited him to sit down with us.

"That was the first time he had set foot in our house, yet he swore in that affidavit before Judge Baugh that he bought beer here, December 15.

"He said whiskey, too—beer and whiskey.

"I wish he would come here and say those things to my face—that I sold beer and whiskey."

She went on to tell how they had taken Wesley Owen Patton into their home as a friend because the neighbor had brought him and how he came around the next day, Sunday, and invited them to take a ride in his car.

Straight from their hospitable handclasps, the taste of their food still on his lips, Patton crept away to his friend and employer, D. M. Laughery, and reported that he had purchased liquor in the Brown home.

He fixed the date in sworn affidavit as December 15, and it was on that testimony that Laughery smashed in the door of the home on New Year's Eve and that Judge Ray Baugh sentenced the expectant mother to 75 days in jail.

Morality Higher, Declares Dr. Lowe

In his sermon at the Church of the Redemption, Boylston and Ipswich sts., Boston, Sunday morning, Dr. John Smith Lowe, speaking on the subject of "The Higher Altitudes," and referring in particular to the "Higher Altitude of Moral Integrity," said:

"We get the impression that society in wealthy America is honeycombed with graft due to the prevalence of low moral standards in every department of life. Possibly, we get such an impression not because graft is more common than usual, but because our ideals of moral honesty are rising to higher levels and thereby cause moral lapses to stand out in glaring contrast. My conviction is that we are suffering from the growing pains of a public conscience that steadily is rising to higher and higher altitudes."

CHURCH MUSIC EXPLAINED

Rev. Francis X. Sallaway D.D. of the Immaculate Conception Church, Revere and professor of education at Emmanuel College explained the meaning and proper interpretation of liturgical music during the weekly Catholic Truth Period over WNAC.

By means of questions asked by Rev. Michael J. Ahern S.J., director of the program and answered by Fr. Sallaway, the simplicity and sublimity of the devotional music employed in divine services was pointed out.

The musical program given during the course of the lecture and explained by Fr. Sallaway included: Ave Maria, P. B. Kahn; Domine Deus, G. Rossini; Quis Est Homo, G. Rossini; Pater Noster, Gregorian and Credo (Part I), Palestrina. Joseph Ecker was the assisting artist.

That, Says Mr. Sullivan, Explains the Motorist Who Is "Anti-Chain"

SAFETY FIRST!

IF at all observant you must have noticed that the friends with whom you ride in "private" cars are not as keen as they might be about chains.

"A" will tell you that HE drives much better without them. It is "B's" contention that chains are more of an impediment than anything else. "C" says they are helpful in certain kinds of weather, "but not in such weather as we have today."

Discovering a taxi driver in the act of putting on chains we asked for HIS views. This driver is Francis Sullivan. His cab is No. 539.

"If there is any amount of snow on the ground, loose snow or heavy," Mr. Sullivan said, "I lose no time in getting the old chains on.

"Why? Because I have this cab to look out for and I also have my passengers to look out for.

"With the chains on I FEEL safer, I drive faster because I know I can stop when I want to, and I drive WITH MORE CONFIDENCE.

"Yes, I've heard the drivers of private cars talk as you say they talk, but the argument they put up is mostly delicatessen and very thinly sliced, at that.

"When I was less experienced I used to think that what the anti-chain driver was afraid of is the COST of chains, which may run as high as eight or nine dollars, but in most cases is somewhat less.

"However, I have changed my mind about that and today am of the opinion that the no-chains automobilist is just sheer lazy.

"Well, putting them on, I can testify, is no pastime. To do the job right, a man should jack up his car. This helps to draw the chain good and tight and eliminates the noise made when broken cross-links bang against the mudguard.

"I don't believe ANY man would let eight or nine dollars stand between him and absolute safety, but just as there are men who are too lazy to come in out of the rain so there are automobilists who are too lazy to put on chains when chains are indicated."

Mr. Sullivan's views appear so sensible that we thought it might be well to print them.

If it happens that there is a lazy driver among your acquaintances you might call his attention to them.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up singing in the bath until someone rapped next door. Nor did I blame them scever. So to walk and stopped in to see Ray Long, Jr., who said he did not want to be an editor like his daddy because it was just "pining and pacing."

Home to find an absorbing letter from a man who lost his fortune in New York four years ago and is in a South African village of 600 souls, a derelict, but happy philosopher. Then to an afternoon tea with my wife and to see some ship models, which fascinate me more than great paintings.

All evening at my typewriter, having promised to deliver a screed by morning post, but at midnight had finished but four lines, so abandoned it albeit am desperately in need of money. As who isn't these days? And in despair awake until the coming of dawn.

Innumerable beauty and hair dressing parlors in New York are able to make weekly expenses with the Saturday afternoon rush. Eddies of smartly gowned women wait in line at the entrances for their Saturday chance. On Broadway it is frequently necessary to make appointments two weeks in advance for that day.

It is the day women business executives have the care lines of the week removed with facials. Perky little girls of the small felt hats must have a Saturday bob to enhance charms with boy friends. Old, young and middle-aged wash their manicures. And so on.

Something about the intimacy of beauty salons makes tongues wag. They would be great spots for eavesdropping tabloid tattlers. Ordinarily fight-tipped women suddenly find themselves gabby and revealing secrets to Yvonnes, Adèles and Ninas.

Hair parlors have become sieves through which high scandals of the town are sifted. A feminine celebrity that would be impossible to conceal anywhere is bred instantly, like a whirr of drying wind-blown hair. "My husband pulling (Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

in ante-rooms are able now and then to hear salty rumors.

After all, men are greedier for gossip than women. We may greet it with a slight shoulder shrug and a disarming little smile, but secretly we "eat it up." More reputations are torn to tatters by men in speakeasy backrooms than over teacups in the drawing rooms.

I know one of those loose wristed male butterfly gossips who invariably has a juicy morsel of scandal at his tongue's end, and I profess to a certain abhorrence publicly, but secretly am always tickled pink when he prances in.

The old-time barbershop was where an older generation "dished the dirt." It was a fountain of idle tattle and groundless rumor. But modern shops with their sanitized, deodorized and white tiled glitter have the chill of a hospital receiving ward. The walls are no longer adorned with prints of Maud S. or John L. The pinkish glamor of the Police Gazette has given way to the glazed opulence of periodicals featuring riding to hounds and gossip of Newport. Gone are rows of individual mugs with painted lodge emblems or other insignia of one's place in the business world. The Eddies and Guses, who between shaves or hair cuts could plink off a tune on the banjo or guitar, are missing. The slightly Rabelaisian story about the "Pullman porter and the deaf old lady" has given way to a polite reference to the stock market or another fall of the French cabinet. And for those of us who cup a wily ear for a little gossip, it is a pity.

So far—and it is none of my business but I'm pouting again—all I have seen businesses do in tea rooms is to run off with the menus.

And while I'm so super critical here's a telegram from way out yonder in Des Moines with a sting: "We are pretty fed up reading about your spats. Have you no other accomplishment?"

Like a fairly good string trick.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE Naval Conference in London is the largest wrecking crew ever assembled.

We have had our craft sunk in fair battle. But this will be the first time we ever lost a fleet indoors.

For the doubtful benefit of those who wish to tabulate the scores of the American delegation we furnish a glossary of diplomatic labels:

Peace: A lull in the conversation.

Armistice: Time out for repairs.

Diplomacy: Objecting to the customs of the country.

Disarmament: Limiting your naval program to the size of the last congressional budget.

Neutrality: The minute between rounds.

Peace Treaty: A second-hand mustard plaster.

Ambassador: A caddy with a portfolio.

League of Nations: A sheep dog with wool in its teeth.

Conciliation: The last warning.

World Court: Little Eva trying to sing as loud as Big Bertha.

Peace Advocate: A dumbbell with the weight in the middle instead of on the ends.

War: A ruffian who is now picking the petals off of daisies.

Universal Amity: A parking sign in a swamp.

Pact: A phonetic word describing the jury.

Paste this consensus of misinformation on your windshield and study it while making left turns.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

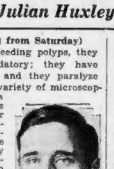
LIKE the feeding polyps, they are predatory; they have stinging-cells and they paralyze and engulf a variety of microscopic creatures

But they are altogether more complicated in structure than the polyps; they have a definite stomach leading into a system of canals which, like the branched stomach of a flatworm, carries food to all parts of the body; they have special sense-organs; they are male or female.



H. G. Wells

Dangling down under the bell there are tiny bags filled with eggs or spermatozoa. The little jellyfishes, or medusae, swim in shoals at the surface of the sea, and, when they are ripe, they shed their spermatozoa or eggs, as the case may be, into the sea water.

The two mix together, and in this primitive manner the eggs are fertilized. They develop into simple elongated larvae, called planulae, mouthless bags which swim by means of cilia with which they are covered.

These larvae are the founders of new colonies. They settle on pieces of wood, seaweed, and so on, and develop into feeding polyps; the polyps bud out stems which give rise to other polyps; and thus a new colony is formed.

Evidently there is an alternation of phases in the life-cycle of Obelia: First, the fixed, budding colony of polyps, and then the free-swimming sexual medusa, charged with the duty of founding new colonies in distant places.

We have used the phrase "alternation of phases" rather than "alternation of generations" because it is open to question whether the fixed stage should be called a generation at all.

Now the feeding-polyps can perform independent movements of a considerable degree of complexity—they look like individuals — and the blastostyles have essentially the structure of polyps, so that we may, if we choose, regard the feeding-polyps and blastostyles as a colony, much as our cells are individuals specialized in different ways in order to build up a body. We may regard the polyp as the homologue of a man.

In ourselves, the species consists entirely of discreet and highly complicated cell-communities that we call individuals. Moreover, in our case, this kind of organization is necessary, for human tissue cannot live unless it is part of a human body, unless it is elaborately nursed into a tissue-culture — made to believe, so to say, that it is part of a body.

But in Obelia the reality is not a number of separate individuals, but the plastic living tissue, growing and budding and branching, throwing out now a feeding-polyp, now a blasto-style, now a medusa; not definitely committed to any one of these kinds of body, but sprouting and reorganizing itself as circumstances determine.

It is a living continuum: a mob of cells which may be turned to this or that. So long as any part of the mob lives it may continue the race. Even in ourselves there is an underlying reality of this kind, for we, the individuals die, and yet through us the race continues; small portions of tissue single cells detached from our bodies may hand on the life of the species by growing and building themselves into new individuals. But in our case, the capacity for reproduction is retained only by a few specialized cells.

Sec. 3. Polype, Jellyfish, Sea-Anemones, Corals.

NOW Obelia belongs to a phylum, the Coelenterata, which includes a large number of different forms, aquatic and chiefly all marine.

Like Obelia, their bodies are always simply organized, without elaborate organ-systems and with little differentiation of tissue, and their symmetry is nearly always radial, like the symmetry of a starfish, and not bilateral, like the symmetry of a vertebrate.

For the latter reason, the Echinoderms and Coelenterates used to be classified together in the phylum "Radiata"—but it is now recognized that they are utterly distinct from each other; the Echinoderm has an altogether more highly organized and specialized interior than the Coelenterate.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

WHO has learned to measure trust
In the terms of gold.
Saying: 'So much yellow dust
For the faith you hold'?

Who has ever valued love,
At a market rate?
Or what little world could prove

Such an estimate!

Little have I to assess,
Naught of luxury.
Yet the treasures I possess
All might envy me.

Still my rare belongings mount;
Truth, health, love to share,
Make me, in the lowest count,
Wealth's monarch!

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

A "VERY formal party," these days, is one where nobody kisses anybody else's wife.

The trouble with marriage is that so often everything else about it "expires," except the legal contract.

Marriage is the point at which the average girl stops reading the French millinery advertisements and begins looking for the "Basement Bargain Sales" of frying pans and egg-beaters.

"Tiger love" can still be found—in the moving pictures. But, in real life, most men make love, nowadays, with all the alacrity of a tiger mounting a barrel at the crack of a whip.

In Life's Shop Window, everything comes in "sets," like department store furniture: Youth and longing; money and boredom; love and poverty; success and struggle; art and the wrong mate—and Fate never breaks the set!

One way of making men love you is to let them do you a lot of favors; one way of making them forget you is to do THEM a lot of favors.

Men want to pet—half the time because they haven't the brains to think of anything else to do, and the other half because the girl hasn't the brains to understand anything else.

When a married pair celebrate their wedding anniversary, these days, it is not so much to show what they have achieved as to show what they have SURVIVED.

Modern marriage is often a lopsided affair—with all the love sagging on one side, and all the luck on the other.

Mrs. McCormick Capable

Candidate for U. S. Senate in Illinois Should Be Elected. She Is Against Putting This Nation in the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations

THE SENATE is often described as the most powerful law-making body in the world.

It exercises its power in accord with the will of the people when it KNOWS FOR SURE what the people want.

That is because some Senators are naturally honorable. Others are afraid of losing their jobs.

Every two years, including this year 1930, a third of the Senate comes up for renomination in the primaries and re-election in November.

So in 1930 the people will have a chance to elect Senators who have done the people's will, and to discharge Senators who have not.

A large group of Senators deserve discharge because they disregard the plain mandate of the people to keep this country out of the League of Nations system, which means entanglement in Europe's affairs.

In January, 1926, a number of Senators voted to put the United States into "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations," which is owned and operated by the League of Nations, and its judges hired, instructed, paid and fired by the League of Nations. In MANY RESPECTS IT IS THE MOST DANGEROUS BRANCH OF THE LEAGUE FOR US TO ENTER.

Among the Senators who voted for us to submit America's destiny to this foreign tribunal were Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, and Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois.

That was in January, 1926. Three months later McKinley was buried in defeat at the Republican primary in a contest where the only issue was his voting for us to enter "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations."

They didn't get a chance at Deneen then. They have a chance this year. Deneen is running for renomination, opposed by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick. The only issue again is to be "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations." It is the most important political contest in Illinois in many a year.

Fortunately, a vote against Deneen is still a vote to keep us out of the League of Nations system. We are not yet in "the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations," league members refusing to accept even the mild "reservations" which the Senate attached to its resolution to join.

The league rewrote the reservations to suit itself and President Hoover is asking the Senate to join on the league's terms. The citizens of Illinois, first of all states, get the chance to say whether THE PEOPLE want the country put back into European politics.

Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Mark Hanna, wife of ex-Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, should be nominated and elected to the Senate.

We believe she will be elected. The first woman elected United States Senator could not be a more capable one, nor one elected in a greater cause.

Astronomy

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

WHILE scientific astronomy may be said to have existed for 3000 years, only one-tenth of that period has been distinguished by genuinely fruitful discoveries. We may truthfully say that the era of modern astronomy dates from the famous evening in 1610 when Galileo first directed his telescope at Jupiter.

At least 2000 years before Galileo's day both Pythagoras and Philolaus had taught that the earth is not fixed space, but rotates on its axis every 24 hours, thus causing the phenomena of night and day.

Nor was the annual orbital revolution of the earth around the sun unsuspected in ancient times.

One of the greatest Greek mathematicians, Aristarchus of Samos, asserted that the earth not only turned on its axis, but travelled in a year entirely around the sun.

TRUTH in this instance had to fight a long battle. Aristotle, probably basing his opinion on an exalted conception of man's role, placed the earth at the center of the universe.

This view, in lack of any proof to the contrary, proved highly popular and held sway for centuries. It was highly flattering to man's sense of importance in the universe to be told that every heavenly body revolved, slavishly, about his place of abode as a fixed center.

If a man on a bicycle were to ride around the rim of a huge wheel on the outside, the head of a tack struck in one tire of the bicycle would describe what is known as an epicycle.

Now, if we draw one by revolving a dime on the rim of a dollar and marking the track of a point on the rim of the dime. By elaborate calculations, Ptolemy showed, as he thought, that the planets revolved in a complicated series of cycles and epicycles.

The planets, according to this theory, revolved in circles about moving points while themselves revolved in circles around a fixed earth. These orbits were believed to be circular in shape, because the Creator would only use the most perfect figure which is a circle.

THIS view, advanced by leading scientists, had the support of the church, as well as that of popular credulity, which habitually accepts scientific "authority" in incomprehensible matters.

The position taken by the church was natural, if not inevitable; for, as Jeans says, "it seemed almost impious to suppose that the great drama of man's fall and redemption, in which the Son of God had Himself taken part, could have been enacted on any lesser stage than the very center of the universe."

Yet there were not lacking thinkers and even high church dignitaries who entertained the views entertained by Pythagoras and Philolaus centuries earlier. It is indescribably tragic that Giordano Bruno, only ten years before Galileo's great discovery, should have been burned at the stake for entertaining such sound views as are expressed in his famous statement:

"It has seemed to me unworthy of the divine goodness and power to create a finite world, when able to produce beside it another and others infinite: so that I have declared that there are endless particular worlds."

COPERNICUS had already advanced a mathematical theory of the universe, in which the earth and the planets revolved round a central fixed sun. This comparatively simple theory, if accepted, would automatically displace Ptolemy's complicated structure of cycles and epicycles.

Two years after the first telescope had actually been constructed, Galileo turned his telescope upon Jupiter and discerned four small bodies circling around the great mass of the planet. Here was a replica in nature of the solar system—demonstrating the existence of such a system, and its conformity with the architectural plan of the universe.

The final certainty came with Galileo's study of Venus. His telescope showed that Venus passed through the full cycle of planetary phases—as in the case of the moon.

Modern astronomy may be said to begin with Galileo's conclusive pronouncement that Venus, and Mercury also, revolve around the sun, as do all the rest of the planets, a truth believed indeed by the Pythagorean school, by Copernicus and by Kepler, but never proved by the evidences of our senses, as is now proved in the case of Venus and Mercury.
